RUSSIA SEES TROTSKY PLOT

JAILED BY NAZIS, GIRL ARRIVES IN U. S. WITH STORY

Student Tells Tale of Intrigue.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Isobel Lillian Steele stepped on to American soil today with the first true story of her four months as a prisoner of the German Nazis—a story of intrigue, hate, and suspicion.

The lips which fear had sealed since her release from her solitary confinement in grim, old Moabit prison at Berlin, Dec. 10, were unsealed by the 24 year old girl violinist. From them poured the story of a girl unwittingly enmeshed by a band of spies, betrayed by a baroness who posed as her best friend, and marked for death until the American government intervened.

Tells Vivid Story.

Through her story walked profligate noblemen who used the arts of Casanova to obtain military secrets from impoverished noblewomen; nights of terror with fellow-prisoners whispering messages of death, and hours of terror when the dreaded secret police, the Geheimstadt Polizei, tried to trap her.

"I was punished for my beliefs," she said as the liner President Harding came in from quarantine bearing her under the mist shrouded torch of Liberty at 9:30 a. m.

"I did not approve of the persecution of the Jews. I believed in the freedom of the press. I told my friends these things. And from that grew the whole monstrous affair of lies and rumors on which the Nazis sent me to prison."

She smoothed down the blue woolen jacket and skirt which had served as her only clothing during the last few months of imprisonment, put on the jaunty hat she had purchased in gayer days, and stepped out on the deck.

Student of Music.

Since June, 1931, she had been a resident of Germany; a student of music, a radio commentator interpreting Germany to the United States, a script writer, and finally an accused spy, snatched from her apartment Aug. 19, 1933, jailed in Moabit as "the most dangerous political prisoner they had."

To the police she was a communist. She was supposed to have intrigued with Reichswehr members distressed at the anti-Semitism of Hitler and working to put their forces in control. She was accused of working with the notorious Baron Junek Sosnowski, a Polish financed nobleman who is in jail awaiting trial and certain death for espionage.

The cross of death was on her door—a white cross with a red background. But until the Nazis put her through one more round of questioning from Dec. 3 to Dec. 7, and hustled her aboard the United States liner which brought her to this country today, she lived every moment in the belief that it might be her last.

Asks About Mark.

"The mark wasn't on the cells of the others on my tier," she said today. "I wondered what that little cross was. I asked the prison guards; they were prisoners themselves and sympathetic.

"At first they wouldn't tell me. Then I asked again. They whispered: "'That means spying, and spying means death. Don't you know you're the most dangerous one in the whole prison?'"

The Canadian born girl, a naturalized American, whose mother, Mrs. Clara Steele, lives in Hollywood, did get out. Not, however, until the police had forced her to betray one of her best friends.

This girl was the chum and confidante of Brigitte Helm, one of Germany's most popular movie actresses. Miss Helm's position made her invulnerable, but it didn't save her chum. The girl was under suspicion because of her friendship for Jews.

Called from Cell.

"Miss Steele," said the warder, calling her down from the temporary cell she occupied in Berlin's Alexanderplatz prison before she was transferred to Moabit, "I have a nice little bit of work for you.

"I want you to phone a certain friend of yours. She just got back from Italy. Ring her up and tell her you are going to America tomorrow and you must see her before you leave.

"We don't want to make a scandal in the house of Brigitte Helm and we'd much rather you'd meet her at your apartment."

She said she asked her jailers: "If

Prepares Message

President Roosevelt expects to present his annual message in person to the 74th congress on Jan. 3. Has first draft nearly finished. Details on page 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Recommendations that the government take control of all electric power transmission facilities in the United States and go directly into the power business to the extent of electrifying 500,000 farms are contained in the report of President Roosevelt's Mississippi valley committee.

This report, released today, emphasizes the "social purposes" underlying the proposed gigantic electrification program. At the same time President Roosevelt made it known that the activities of the electric home and farm authority, sales promotion organization of the TVA, may be extended to other sections of the country.

Finances Sale of Appliances.

The EHFA finances the sale of electrical appliances by private dealers to prospective customers of TVA power. The President said he was working on the extension of this agency's activities on the theory that if great blocks of appliances can be bought at reduced rates more customers will take them and more electricity will be used.

The private utility companies of the country are thus served with another threat in the administration's determination to force drastic rate reductions. Frank McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission, has said that rates generally should come down about 50 per cent.

The Mississippi valley report, the latest of the twenty year plans with which the President's desk is quite congested, recommends the expenditure of 1 billion dollars on river public works in the Mississippi drainage basin, covering twenty-one states.

Steamer Taxes a Question.

It mentions the possibility of local contributions toward the general program, but the President indicated in his press conference that they would not be substantial. The broad question, he said, is whether steamship companies should not pay small tolls to defray maintenance costs of waterway improvements and whether cities should not construct their own docks and wharves and share the cost of flood control.

The report itself is an artistic masterpiece in the new economic motif. A volume of 234 pages, it is profusely illustrated with charts and diagrams, dynamic stories in picture form. Bright colors are used, with red predominating and symbols of light bulbs, dynamos and the zigzagged arms of lightning abound throughout.

The illustrations are not unlike the Blue Eagle and the TVA symbol—a fist clenching a bolt of lightning—in their suggestion of the soviet method. But a new note is reached in the diagrams of individual and coördinate planning.

Individualists Can't Fit Pieces.

The individualists, pathetic little black men, are shown pushing at red geometric designs which do not fit together when the work is done. But the collectivists, working harmoniously under the direction of the eye of perception, the head of reasoning and the book of memory, and coördinated throughout by bright red generals, come through with their jigsaw puzzle nicely solved.

The report represents a year's work of the committee, under the general direction of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, PWA administrator and chairman of the national resources board, and now that the task is completed, the committee becomes a subdivision of the NRB. The NRB recently submitted a 20 year plan calling for the expenditure of 105 billion dollars on public works.

Of the billion dollars recommended for river public works in the Mississippi valley, 500 million would go for so-called self-liquidating power installations.

"With this nucleus," it is suggested, "the government could experiment as well as regulate." Beyond that the committee recommends an immediate allotment of 100 million dollars to start the farm electrification program in the Mississippi valley.

The outstanding need of the area,

POLICE SEIZE 113 IN TWO RAIDS ON LOOP HANDBOOKS

In the first raids since Police Commissioner Allman's recent order closing all bookmaking establishments, squads led by Capt. George O'Connor of the First district yesterday arrested 113 men in two alleged handbooks in the loop.

The first place raided was at 187 North La Salle street, where 39 men were seized. The raiders next went to 16 West Van Buren street, where they arrested 74. Quantities of gambling paraphernalia were seized in each place, Capt. O'Connor said.

All of those arrested were locked up at the detective bureau. They are to be sent through the bureau of identification and will be booked as keepers and inmates of gambling houses.

While most of the handbooks have remained closed since Commissioner Allman issued his order, both places raided were running wide open when the police arrived, Capt. O'Connor said.

350 Former Saar Residents Sail; 150 Are Chicagoans

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Hamburg American liner Deutschland sailed tonight for England, France and Germany with 555 passengers, of whom 350 were former residents of the Saar. Of the 350, it was said, 290 would cast their votes in the plebiscite on Jan. 13. About 150 of them came by train from Chicago. Some of the former Saar residents from Chicago said that they were taking the free trip, but would not vote when they got there. A big quartermaster of the Deutschland, who overheard the remark, said: "They will vote all right when they get there. Heil, Hitler!"

Cornelia Lunt, "First Lady" of Evanston, Dies

Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, long known as "first lady" of Evanston, which her father, the late Orrington Lunt, helped to found, died in her home at 10:30 o'clock last evening after a brief illness from a heart attack. Miss Lunt was 91 years old. She was stricken early last Monday morning after spending Sunday preparing Christmas presents.

Present at Miss Lunt's bedside last night were Mrs. Margaret Lunt Gardner, a niece; Miss Rachel McFerran, Miss Lunt's companion and secretary, both of whom lived with her; Horace F. Lunt of Denver, Colo., a nephew, and Mrs. Merritt Morehouse of Mansfield, Ga., a niece.

Miss Lunt was regarded as a leading exponent of Evanston's cultural and community spirit. She had lived most of her life in Anchorfast, the spacious Lunt homestead at 1742 Judson avenue, built by her father in 1872 after the Chicago fire had destroyed their former home on the spot where the Auditorium hotel now stands, at 430 South Michigan avenue.

Interested In Young People.

In Anchorfast Miss Lunt held constant open house for the great and the obscure. To friends she declared: "I want the river of life always to run through my house, not around it."

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Use of a picture of President Roosevelt in an advertisment by a liquor distilling company caused the White House to take steps to stop the practice, it was learned today.

This was in keeping with the practice of the White House to refuse permission to use the President's portrait in any manner connected with advertising.

The question of the ethics in using the President's picture in advertisments of liquor was said at the White House to have been raised by publication of Mr. Roosevelt's likeness in an advertisment by the Schenley distilleries, published on the first anniversary of the eighteenth amendment.

Lita Grey Chaplin Says Differences Smoothed Out

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Lita Grey Chaplin, boarding a plane today to fly back to her New York night club work after a five day Christmas visit with her two sons, said all "minor differences of opinion" between herself and her former husband, Charles Chaplin, had been smoothed out "for good." The Chaplin boys, Charles Jr., 9, and Sidney, 6, students in a military school here, will travel east for a visit with her early in the summer, Mrs. Chaplin said.

City Is Gripped by Zero Wave; Relief Today

A southerly wind is expected to rescue Chicago this afternoon from the bite of an Alaskan cold wave which overspread the northern mid-continent region yesterday and gave the city its first zero temperatures of the winter. With rising temperatures, some snow also may arrive.

The mercury hovered hesitatingly a little above zero on the official thermometer on the United States court house in the loop last night, but unofficial readings in the loop showed an upward trend during the early morning hours. Seven miles inland, at the Chicago airport, the weather bureau thermometer registered 3 below zero at 3 o'clock this morning. It had remained within one degree of that point during the night.

39 Below in Minnesota.

As the arctic air from Alaska's ice ribbed shores and frozen western Canada moved across the northern half of the country from the Rocky mountains to the foothills of the Appalachians yesterday, a low pressure area, forming over the Pacific ocean, pressed hard behind. It caused the mercury to rise several degrees in northwestern states after giving them such chilly weather as 39 below zero at Eleveth, Minn., and 34 below at Devils Lake, N. D.

By this afternoon, according to C. A. Donnel, chief government meteorologist, the cold will be eased by southerly winds blowing toward this low pressure area. But tomorrow night Chicago may again find itself in the grip of the northwest cold. As explained by Mr. Donnel, the chances are this:

"Alaska and western Canada are still extremely cold. Temperatures there are far below zero. As long as this condition exists, it constitutes a threat to the northwestern and central western states.

City May Be Spared.

"However, unsettled conditions prevail now over the Pacific ocean, and should one of the low pressure areas of warm air, which suddenly form there, move inland, it might interrupt the cold threat and save us, at least temporarily."

By a prank of nature, yesterday's frigidity arrived on the same day and in the same manner as the first cold weather of last winter. On Dec. 26, 1933, the temperature was 24 at 4 a. m. Yesterday at 3 a. m. it was 25. On Dec. 27, 1933, the mercury dropped to 9 below, the coldest for that winter.

Suburban Readings Vary.

Unofficial readings in suburbs showed a wide range last night, depending on the protection afforded thermometers from the sweep of the piercing wind. Mundelein, Melrose Park, and Western Springs were the coldest, with 8 below.

Other readings were: Evanston, Wilmette, Kenilworth, and Winnetka, 2 below zero; Glencoe, 5 below; Highland Park, and Lake Forest, zero; Waukegan, 3 below; Oak Park, River Forest, Forest Park, and Elmhurst, zero; Cicero, Berwyn, and Willow Springs, 2 below; Homewood, Harvey, and Flossmoor, zero.

The cold wave was felt as far as Pennsylvania, and northward into New England, though there was no zero temperature. A snowstorm tied up trafic in New York state.

LINKS UNNAMED FOREIGN POWERS TO KIROV DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 26.—It was reported in Russian circles here today that Ambassador Potemkine of Russia has informed the French government that the soviets believe Leon Trotzky was back of the assassination of the soviet leader, Sergei Kirov, at Leningrad. Trotzky is believed to be living somewhere in France, although only the French police know where. He disappeared last April after being discovered inhabiting a villa at Barbizon, not far from Paris.

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP)—An alleged plot against the life of Joseph Stalin, Russian dictator, and the intervention of "capitalistic powers" to overthrow the bolshevik leadership of soviet Russia was disclosed tonight in a communique narrating the testimony of Leonid Nicolaieff, assassin of Sergei Kirov, and twelve of the slayer's associates.

Nicolaieff's confession as given out by the soviet authorities linked Leon Trotzky, exiled bolshevik leader, now believed to be in France, and Gregory Zinoviev, former prominent bolshevik, with an "underground terroristic group" to which the slayer of Kirov belonged.

It said Nicolaieff had confessed he fired the fatal bullet into Kirov at Leningrad on Dec. 1 with the full expectation that an attack would be made on Stalin by another section of the group, and that widespread subversive activity against soviet authorities would follow.

Accuses Unnamed Consul.

The "capitalistic powers" were not identified, but Nicolaieff was purported to have admitted making many visits to an unnamed foreign consul in Leningrad, from whom he said he received 5,000 rubles for his work against the government leaders. (A ruble nominally is worth 50 cents).

The alleged confession said the consul told Nicolaieff he would get into touch with Trotzky if he were given a letter from Nicolaieff's group.

Nicolaieff and thirteen associates were turned over to the military collegium of the Supreme court for trial on charges of terroristic activities against the Soviet authorities. Only thirteen of these men were included in the official communique as having participated in the alleged confessions.

Leaders Face Exile.

Zinoviev and Leo Kamenev, the latter also formerly prominent in communist councils, are under arrest together with the members of Zinoviev's group. It has been announced that they are liable to expulsion and exile, since not enough data for their immediate trial is available.

One hundred and three alleged counter revolutionists already have paid with their lives in an intensive drive against terrorism since the assassination of Kirov.

Nicolaieff's purported confession admitted that leaders of the underground center with which he was associated were constantly pointing out that all evils in Russia came from the present leadership of the communist party—Stalin, Kaganovich, Molotov, and the slain Kirov—and were constantly promulgating to young members of the group that the difficulties would continue as long as the party direction remained unchanged.

Prepared for Assassination.

The communique officially released by the soviet said Nicolaieff had declined all offers of work from August to November, had systematically practiced shooting with a revolver, and had devoted all his time to preparing for the assassination.

It said he had also prepared a diary and other documents designed to show he was in hard straits and had been badly treated so as to make it appear he had a motive for the action not connected with the work of the Leningrad opposition group.

The testimony of Nicolaieff's wife, Milda, and of his mother, was set forth in the communique as showing Nicolaieff and his family suffered no actual want during this period. They had occupied a three room apartment and rented a country house during the summer, it was stated.

The communique said the testimony clearly indicated that the Leningrad group had hoped for assistance from outside—"armed intervention and assistance from some foreign state."

Reveals Zinoviev Letter.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Daily Express' Warsaw correspondent reports:

"I received today the text of a letter written by Gregory Zinoviev to Joseph Stalin last Saturday. It reads:

"'Dear Comrade Stalin: You know I am not guilty. I ask you in the name of the revolution for which we both fought to remember those days when we sat at one table with Vladimir Ilyitch Ulianoff [Nicolai Lenin]. It is unthinkable that you could shoot an old comrade like myself and my comrade, Leo Kamenev, who are the living spirit of the Russian proletariat.'

"The letter concluded: 'Yours in true socialism.'"

The correspondent understands that Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov made a strong plea to the four judges who are to try Zinoviev that the death penalty should not be imposed if Zinoviev is found guilty on account of relations with foreign countries. Thus far two of the judges, Stalin and Manuilsky, are in favor of shooting, the correspondent said, while Ordonikidze and Kaganovitch are against the extreme penalty.

ENGINEER DIES AT THROTTLE OF PASSENGER TRAIN

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The strange experience of Jake Fisch, who rode on one side of the cab of an engine drawing a passenger train while the engineer on the other side was dead at the throttle was told at a coroner's inquest today investigating the death of Engineer Charles Oland, 55, Centralia, who fell dead in the cab while an Illinois Central train steamed through Cobden, a station at which a stop was scheduled.

Fisch said he waited for the train to slow down as it approached the town but did not. He could not understand. He shouted to Oland, but there was no response. He dismounted his side of the cab and started over to the other side and discovered Oland lifeless on the gangway between the tender and the engine proper. He leaped to the throttle, set the brakes, and backed the train a short distance to Cobden, where the body of Oland was transferred to the baggage car. Fisch then piloted the train to Carbondale, where another engineer took charge.

NEW SENATOR TO WAIT UNTIL HE'S OLD ENOUGH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Friends of Rush D. Holt, 29, senator-elect from West Virginia, expect him to wait until his 30th birthday before presenting himself to take the oath. He is five and a half months younger than the minimum legal age for senate membership.

Friends here base their forecast that he will wait until June 19, his 30th birthday. Senator Robinson of Arkansas last night said Holt should wait until he is 30. Holt defeated Senator Henry D. Hatfield, Republican, on Nov. 6.

Holt already has been assigned temporary offices in the senate office building. Col. Edwin B. Halsey, senate secretary, has expressed the opinion that under prevailing practices, he may be placed on the pay roll on Jan. 3 regardless of whether he takes the oath at that time.

The baby was reported out of danger tonight. She is a daughter of Larry Crosby, brother of the crooner.

561 Women Win Posts in Moscow Elections

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A total of 561 women were named deputies to the Moscow city and district soviets out of a total of 2,036 deputies, according to election returns made public today. The returns showed 95.2 per cent of the enfranchised voters took part in the election.

DRAW 48 NAMES OF PROSPECTIVE LINDY JURORS

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A special panel of twenty-one women and twenty-seven men, chiefly housewives and farmers, was drawn today for Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The talesmen were drawn in Hunterdon county's century old courthouse at Flemington, N. J., where the Bronx carpenter will go on trial Jan. 2.

Common Pleas Judge Adam O. Robbins, who will sit with Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard at the trial, presided at the drawing.

John W. Curtiss, stocky sherif who has been Hauptmann's jailer since his extradition from the Bronx, selected the numbers of the talesmen, which had been written on small pieces of paper and each placed separately in a tiny celluloid capsule.

At the conclusion of the drawing Judge Robbins directed that each talesman be notified to be present in court for the opening of the trial next Wednesday morning.

All but two of the twenty-one women drawn for the panel were listed as "housewives." The exceptions were Frances Opdyke, Flemington nurse, whose home has been the temporary residence of Anna Hauptmann, the accused man's wife, and their child, and Katherine Moore, saleswoman.

One of the men is unemployed.

Decide Against Delay.

Prosecution and defense in the case agreed today to proceed with the trial next Wednesday. Attorneys for both sides conferred in Trenton and neither desired to challenge the present panel of salesmen, despite the fact that every person on it had been mailed a copy of a pamphlet describing a case similar to that of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

The pamphlet was based on the premise that the child was neither kidnaped nor murdered, but wandered off and died of exposure. After conference with Supreme Court Justice Trenchard, the attorneys agreed that the tale was not enough to prejudice the minds of prospective jurors.

A purported statement by Hauptmann, complaining of the "third degree" he alleges New York police administered at the time of his arrest last September, was made public here.

Hauptmann was arrested Sept. 19, and his preliminary questioning by police took place in Greenwich street police station. He charges that two days after his arrest police took his own carpenter's hammer and beat him on the head and body until he was unconscious.

Hired by Early Lawyer.

Dr. Dexter was employed by James M. Fawcett, then chief counsel for Hauptmann, and his findings confirmed Hauptmann's complaint. He said he found evidence of severe beating with blunt instruments. He said the prisoner's head, back, chest, abdomen, and thighs showed bruises.

A deputy sherif called in reporters today and assessed each $10 for downstairs and $5 for balcony press seats for the trial. He said Sherif Curtiss had ordered the charge to pay for installing seats, carpentry, and other expenses.

Rainstorms, Hail Break Heat Wave in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Torrential rainstorms accompanied by hail broke Argentina's recent heat wave last night. The resulting damage was widespread. The hot spell was climaxed by a Christmas day temperature of 95 degrees Fahrenheit. The storms ruined much of the Buenos Aires province crops of wheat, linseed, oats, sunflowers, and fruit.

CHIEF CRIME PROBLEM IS "THE PROSECUTOR," BAR GROUPS DECLARE

The prosecutor himself constitutes the "major problem" in the war against crime, according to questionnaire answers received from 56 state and local bar associations by the committee on the survey of crime, criminal law and criminal procedure of the Association of American Law Schools. Results of the inquiry are published in a program of the association's annual meeting, which opens today in the Stevens hotel. Ranking next in importance as a problem, in the opinion of the bar association, was the relation of politics and crime. The police were voted into third place, with 27 votes, while the attorneys let "lawyer criminals" off with 10 votes.

Arkansans Hear Noise with Smoke.

Okmulgee, Okla., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A smoking meteor flashed across the sky today, startling the residents of three states who saw it and causing searches for a fallen airplane.

Described as a huge ball of fire that left a trail of smoke, the luminous star was seen by residents of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Kansas. It was estimated the flash of light lasted not more than two seconds. The plume of smoke turned from a black to a light gray and finally disappeared.

Arkansans Report Noise.

At Fayetteville, Ark., it was reported that a sound as of an artillery bombardment accompanied the rapid movement of the heavenly body. Throughout the northwestern part of the state bewildered residents sent a multitude of telephone calls to urban centers in quest of information.

A report was received here that an airplane had been seen falling in flames. Tom Lyle, former Okmulgee fire chief, said he saw what he believed was a blazing plane. He estimated it landed a mile or so from his home, five miles west of Okmulgee. County authorities organized a search, but found no trace of a plane.

Rail Gang Sees Meteor.

A railroad bridge gang working between Crickett and Bergman, Ark., also reported sighting the flaming object. L. E. Hilliard, foreman of the gang, said he too believed it was a burning plane and sent out a searching crew.

At Pittsburg, Kas., 150 miles northwest of here, residents plainly saw the meteor. The day was bright and sunlight strong at the time. No one at Pittsburg reported hearing any unusual sound.

Henry M. Bohlen, Former Harvard Athlete, Kills Self

Boston, Mass., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Henry M. Bohlen, former Harvard athlete, figure in society, and Boston real estate broker, shot himself with a shotgun early Christmas morning and died later, it was revealed today when the medical examiner announced a verdict of suicide. Bohlen's father heard the shot and found his son, shot in the mouth, lying in an upper floor apartment of his Back Bay home. Beside him was a .410 gauge shotgun.

Air Liner Sets a New Speed Mark to Cleveland

Home-Made Still Blows Up; 3 Brothers Dying

Whitesburg, Ky., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The explosion of a moonshine still made from a carbide can will cost the lives of three brothers at Big Cowan Creek headwaters. The trio was terribly scalded and torn by the blast. Physicians say they cannot live.

TRAIN KILLS FOUR WOMEN, 3 MEN IN HARVEY TRAGEDY

Second Scene of Horror for Passengers.

Seven persons were killed yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was demolished by the Chicago bound International Limited of the Grand Trunk railway at Halsted street near 154th place in Harvey.

The victims—four women and three men—were employés of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on their way to the commission's Chicago Heights office.

The limited was one hour and 30 minutes late on its Montreal-Chicago run, due to the wreck of two holiday passenger trains near Hamilton, Ont., in which 15 persons were killed Tuesday night. The Chicago train, however, was traveling only 35 miles an hour as it approached the Harvey crossing, the engineer declared.

Tangled Débris on Engine.

The locomotive struck the machine squarely in the center and the terrific impact wound the machine around the nose of the engine with which it was almost inextricably tangled. Six of the bodies were mangled and that of the driver was enmeshed in the wreckage. The dead:

HARVEY FRIEDMANN, 24 years old, 6804 Paxton avenue, an attorney who is a legal advisor to the commission.

JOHN BURK, 27 years old, 6803 South Michigan avenue, case worker and owner and driver of the car. He was a nephew of former Municipal Judge John F. Haas.

MRS. MARION RIGGS, 24 years old, 7150 Cyril parkway, case worker. Mrs. Riggs was a niece of United States Senator Edward P. Costigan of Colorado.

Engineer George Henry of Battle Creek, Mich., who was driving the big locomotive of the limited, said that the blinker lights and crossing bell were functioning properly. The passage across the tracks is not guarded by gates and a building at the northeast corner of the intersection partially obscured the view. Burk was driving south and the train was heading west.

Reduces Speed; Blows Whistle.

Engineer Henry said that he had reduced speed through Harvey and that he blew three blasts on the whistle when the train was half a block from the crossing. Then he saw Burk's car almost on the tracks. Henry jammed on the emergency brake and yanked at the whistle cord.

The whistle was still blowing when the pilot trucks bit into the automobile and half ground, half carried the machine about one and one-half blocks before the leading engine truck was derailed and the shrieking brake bands brought the rest of the train to a stop.

The mangled bodies of six of the victims were thrown clear of the shattered auto, but Burk's body was pinned under the front drive wheels. It remained there until a giant railway crane lifted the locomotive.

Fellow Workers See Bodies.

Witnesses called ambulances and the bodies were taken to the Kerr undertaking establishment at 1535 Broadway, Harvey, where an inquest will be held at 9 a. m. today.

The license number led to Burk's identification, and the relief office in Chicago Heights was notified. The absence of the seven already had caused worry and many of the workers there hurried to the undertaker's where Dr. R. A. McEwen, 4638 South Michigan avenue, a colored physician employed by the relief commission, identified the six bodies, then went to the scene and verified Burk's identification.

Passengers on the International Limited had a tragic trip. Christmas night their journey to Chicago was delayed more than two hours at Dundas, near Hamilton, Ontario, when an eastbound Detroit to Toronto train of the Canadian National Railways hit another train, killing fifteen persons and injuring 31. Many of the passengers saw the mangled bodies of these victims.

Hardly recovered from that shock, they were thrown into the atmosphere of the Harvey wreck yesterday morning. The International was pulled into the Dearborn station by another locomotive at noon four hours late.

The notification of families of the Chicago victims was a distressing experience for those performing that duty. W. Robert Riggs, a chemical engineer for the Sinclair refineries, was notified his bride of four months had been killed. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cory, the former principal of the Denver High school. The husband notified the parents and her uncle, Senator Costigan, when he had recovered partially from the shock.

Hear Dread News on Radio.

Mrs. Hines, a divorcée, had had her mother, Mrs. Mary Norris of Jonesboro, Ill., and her small son, Thomas, 10 years old, with her for Christmas. They learned of Mrs. Hines' death through a radio announcement, which could not be kept from the boy.

Attorney Friedmann was graduated from the University of Chicago law school last August. He was the sole support of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Friedmann, his sister, Bernice, and his brother, Eugene. The family was prostrated by the news.

A reporter visiting the home of Mary McCann found her mother, Mrs. William T. McCann, surrounded by sorrowing neighbors. The daughter was said to have been a very beautiful girl. There are two other children, Louis and William.

Wendell Tarkoff was also supporting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Tarkoff. The family came from Boulder, Colo., Wendell graduated from the Evanston High school in 1931. He was an only child.

Burk was a football player at Lake Forest college and had been married only recently, after which he moved from his parents' home at 6821 Wentworth avenue.

Mrs. Greenberg's husband, Frank, an attorney with offices at 1 North La Salle street, was in Detroit yesterday and left for Chicago by airplane as soon as he was notified. He and his wife had been married ten months.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 26.—The Christmas train crash which killed fifteen persons and injured 31 near here last night was attributed today to a "misplaced switch." W. A. Kingsland, vice president and general manager, central region, of the Canadian National railway, on whose line the wreck occurred, made the statement fixing the blame.

The switch, according too Mr. Kingsland's explanation, caused the Detroit-Toronto express to go crashing at 55 miles an hour into the rear of a Christmas excursion train which had been sidetracked at Dundas, 7 miles from here.

The dominion board of railway commissioners has ordered a further inquiry into the cause of the collision, however, and an inquest will also be conducted at the Hamilton courthouse Monday.

All of the 31 officially announced as injured were listed as from Canadian towns and cities.

It developed today that B. Burrell, the engineer of the Detroit flyer, had probably saved Detroit passengers from death or injury by uncoupling the coaches from his locomotive when he realized a collision was inevitable. Consequently passengers of the express train escaped with only a shaking up.

WOMAN TRAFIC VICTIM DIES

Mrs. Laura Davis, 84 years old, 1734 West Madison street, died in the University hospital yesterday of injuries received when she was struck by a truck on Nov. 19 at South Crawford and 5th avenues.

James Spicka, 22 years old, of 618 West 43d street, died at St. Luke's hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 22 when he was struck by the car of Paul Prefer, 7328 Rhodes avenue. At the time Prefer was booked for reckless driving, having no state license and driving without headlights. His case was continued pending the outcome of Spicka's condition.

These deaths and those of seven persons killed in a grade crossing tragedy in Harvey brought Cook county's auto fatalities for 1934 to 1,245.

for youth distinguished her more and more as she approached the sunset of her years. She declared that her association with young people prolonged her life. She did not hold with those who feared for the future of modern youth.

"Young people," she said recently, "are sophisticated now and have more knowledge. They begin earlier to understand life." Of her own youthful outlook she said: "Life is a falling down and getting up again, both spiritually and physically. If I can't run, I'll walk. Age can be full of vividness and interest."

Campus Chosen by Father.

Miss Lunt was born March 19, 1843, in a home on Michigan avenue between Lake and Randolph streets. As a girl, she moved with her family "out in the country," to the home that was later swept away in the big fire. She was one of four children, three brothers having died.

She recalled her father's excursions more than eighty years ago to what is now Evanston, in search of a site for a university. Mr. Lunt selected 379 acres of marshy land north of Chicago, paid $25,000 for it, and gave it to Northwestern university and Garrett Biblical institute. He refused to allow his associates to name the town Orrington. It was named Evanston, after Dr. John Evans, another early settler and one of Northwestern's founders, who later moved west and became one of the early governors of Colorado.

Guest of President Lincoln.

With her father Miss Lunt visited the White House on several occasions as a guest of President Lincoln, a warm friend of Mr. Lunt and Dr. Evans. In 1864 she was escorted through the camp of the Army of the Potomac.

Most of Miss Lunt's life was devoted to leadership in social, intellectual and artistic activities. Of recent years she had made a journey to Europe each summer.

She was said to be the last surviving charter member of the Fortnightly, the oldest woman's club in Chicago. She was the first president of the Fort Dearborn chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and was a member of the Chicago branch of the Colonial Dames of America. She also belonged to the University Guild of Northwestern. She served for many years as a trustee of Northwestern university, retiring from that post several years ago.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Interment in Rosehill cemetery.

Widow Insists 2 Youths' Confessions Are False.

Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle announced yesterday that he would go before the grand jury today to seek murder indictments against Mrs. Anna Ericksen and two young men for the slaying last Saturday morning of Mrs. Ericksen's husband, George. One of the men, James Senese, 19 years old, 6204 South Keating avenue, has confessed the actual killing and has accused Mrs. Ericksen of planning the crime to collect $2,500 insurance and promising him $500 of the insurance proceeds for committing it.

The other, Elmer Kreuger, 21 years old, 3434 West 114th street, an auto mechanic, admitted he was present at the slaying, having been promised $250 by Senese to assist in the murder. Krueger said he fled when Senese began firing. The murder occurred in the areaway beside Ericksen's home at 6221 South Keating avenue. Ericksen, who was 46 years old, and his wife owned the Airport grill, 6001 South Cicero avenue.

Insists She Is Innocent.

Mrs. Ericksen, 38 years old and red headed, continued to protest that she was innocent of any part in the murder when police questioned her again yesterday in her cell in the women's quarters at the Hyde Park station.

Calm and collected during most of the questioning, she broke down and wept when her six children were mentioned. She declined to attend her husband's funeral yesterday afternoon in Mount Greenwood cemetery although the police would have permitted her to go under guard.

"Let him go to his grave alone," the widow sobbed. "I can't bear the thought of seeing my children at this time and being separated from them again."

She insisted that the real motive for the slaying had not been disclosed.

"If you question Jimmy [Senese] further you'll get the real facts," she declared. "I doubt that he did it. Why, he's just a kid. I treated him like a mother."

Tells of Family Ill Will.

She denied she had been unduly friendly with Senese and said she knew of no affair between the youth and her daughter, Geraldine, 18 years old. One point of disagreement between her and her husband, Mrs. Ericksen related, was her fondness for dancing and Ericksen's distaste for it. She said that he had often driven her to dance halls.

Questioned about a fight between Ericksen and his son, George Jr., 17 years old, on the night before the murder, Mrs. Ericksen said that she did not recall the incident but knew that her husband "never got along with the kids."

Mrs. Ericksen was booked on a charge of murder last night at the Hyde Park police station. Unless the indictment is returned against her, she is to be arraigned in the felony branch of the Municipal court on Friday. An indictment would take the case directly into the Criminal court.

The son, held for questioning since the day of the slaying, was released by the police yesterday.

John Bowman, an ex-convict, and Edward Wilkins, both of 6113 South Kilpatrick avenue, who had also been held in the investigation, were arraigned yesterday morning in the Stockyards court on disorderly conduct charges and were freed.

Trace History of Weapon.

A detail of the case was cleared up yesterday by Gordon Dake, 35 years old, 1141 Pratt boulevard, an interstate truck driver, who had been sought since Saturday. He appeared at the state's attorney's office and identified the .32 caliber revolver used in the slaying as the one he gave Mrs. Ericksen a year ago.

Dake, who formerly operated a filling station near the Ericksen tavern said Mrs. Ericksen had requested the weapon for protection. He was released after he made a formal statement to Assistant State's Attorney Boyle.

Senese had stated that Mrs. Ericksen gave him the gun and told him to use it to kill her husband. The widow said that "it might be" the same weapon Dake had given her, but denied that Senese received it from her.

Senese was remorseful yesterday only because he had not demanded enough money for committing the murder and had not received any at all.

Just Effort to Become Decent.

"When Mrs. Ericksen told me she would pay $500 to have her husband killed for the insurance," he said in his cell at the Chicago Lawn police station, "I took her up on it. But the job should have been worth at least $1,000. I didn't get by with the killing and I didn't get the money. I wanted to buy the clothes to be somebody and be decent."

Although declaring that he was satisfied that the confessions of Senese and Krueger had solved the murder, Prosecutor Boyle said he was still working on the possibility that another man might be involved in the case.

Forced to Reopen Store; $1,000 Safe Carted Away

Gustave Karris, owner of the Joy confectionery store at 1609 West 63d street, was held up yesterday morning on his way home. Three robbers forced him to reopen the store. The bandits carried out a safe containing $1,066, the holiday receipts, while confederates drove Karris about the city for two hours.

Gould Heiress and Actor Married

GOULD GIRL AND TEXAN ELOPE IN TAXI TO MARRY

Heiress and Actor Win Parental Blessing.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Miss Anne Douglas Gould, 21 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould and great granddaughter of the original Jay Gould, was married to Frank Spencer J. Meador, 24 years old, of San Saba, Tex., at 3:40 this morning in the town hall at Harrison, N. Y.

After a sudden decision to get married, made during Christmas night festivities, the young couple drove in a taxicab to Harrison, aroused the town clerk, William A. Wilding, who in turn awakened Police Judge Leo Mintzer.

The ceremony was performed by Mintzer in the office of the town clerk. The witnesses were Wilding and Irving Sirkin, the cab driver.

In making application for their license, Miss Gould gave her occupation as an actress. Meador registered as an actor. After the ceremony they returned to New York, and early today the bride notified her parents of the marriage.

Later in the day they joined Mr. and Mrs. Gould at Carlton House, and received the parental blessing. Mrs. Gould said in an interview that she and Mr. Gould were "very pleased" over the marriage. They would have preferred a formal wedding such as was given the bride's sister, the former Miss Eleanor Gould, when she was married to Ludlow Whitaker Stevens last January, however.

Young Meador was educated at the University of Texas, but has been on Broadway for the last two years or so. He had some bits in plays.

MRS. SCHAFFNER'S FUR COAT RECOVERED BY COAST SEARCHER

Carmel, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Searchers using a glass bottomed boat recovered today the fur coat of Mrs. Eliot Boke Schaffner, missing wife of the nationally known Chicago clothing merchant.

Members of the Schaffner family identified the coat which was found in Carmel Bay by Capt. Leonard Johnson and Stuart Faetchenwal, two of the group which has searched the waters since Mrs. Schaffner disappeared a week ago.

HELD TO JURY ON MURDER CHARGE IN DANCE BRAWL

John Miraglia, 19 years old, 2015 Emerson avenue, was held to the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the death of Stanley Frankowski, 22 years old, 1936 Armitage avenue. Frankowski, post-graduate law student at the University of Michigan and a former football player, was shot fatally during a brawl outside the Roseland dance hall, 2023 Milwaukee avenue, Saturday night.

Stephen Frankowski, brother of the victim, testified that Stanley and Miraglia quarreled after they bumped each other by accident on the dance floor, and went outside later to "fight it out." Miraglia, he said, drew a revolver and fired twice, both bullets taking effect. Frankowski died Monday in St. Mary's hospital.

The former football player, who in 1930 was elected captain of the Carl Schurz High school football team, was recently graduated from the University of Michigan and was home for the holidays.

SKYLIGHT THIEVES LOOT STORE.

More than 250 men's suits valued at $6,000 were taken early yesterday from the Benson and Rixon clothing store, 4834 Broadway. Thieves entered through a skylight.

Charged with Harshness and Incompetence.

The board of education for the first time in eight years placed a Chicago public school teacher on trial yesterday. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, recommended that Paul H. Appel, 1613 Berteau avenue, a teacher at the Lake View High school, be discharged as "harsh" in discipline and "incompetent" in pedagogy.

Bogan brought Appel before the board under the provisions of the teachers' tenure legislation. This law sets forth that after a three year probationary period a teacher may not be removed involuntarily unless charges are proved before the school board.

Appel, a gray haired schoolmaster of German, music, and drawing, came to the board meeting prepared to resist. He was represented by Attorneys Martin Crane and Drennan J. Slater.

Principal Takes Stand.

First to take the stand was Olice Winter, principal of the Lake View High school, 4015 North Ashland avenue, who testified that "dozens of complaints" of Appel's classroom practices had reached him from the Hamilton branch, Cornelia and Marshfield avenues, where Appel taught. He was examined by Frank Schneberger, assistant attorney for the board.

"The first requisite of a teacher," asserted Winter, "is to inspire confidence in a pupil."

Ernest B. Collett, head of the high school branch, then took the stand and said that nearly every day a student came to him to complain about Appel's treatment or was sent to him for disciplinary action.

"One day somebody was booing him from the back of the classroom," related Collett. "He told a girl that he would give her a passing mark if she would tell him who it was. After deliberation four girls handed the name to him on slips of paper, so nobody would know who told, they said, and the girl got a passing grade."

Students Testify for Him.

Frequently, Collett declared, Appel would get excited and storm at his pupils. The witness asserted that he had heard the teacher tell one boy that he belonged in an ansane asylum.

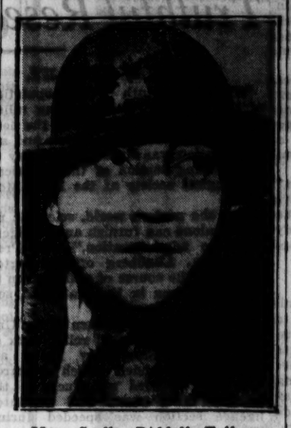
Attorney Crane was then allowed to put three of Appel's former students on the stand. All said that he was a good teacher and was never harsh.

They were Joseph Closius Jr., 18 years old, of 521 Grant place, now a student at the Y. M. C. A. college; Fred Scheurecht, 19, of 5015 North Western avenue, attending the University of Illinois; and Albert G. Keller, 19, of 2513 Argyle street, a student at the North Park college.

The last defense witness was Elfrieda Rinka, 16 years old, of 3444 Lincoln avenue. She said everybody liked Appel except, perhaps, one girl, who "got mad" at him one day and hit and kicked him. Miss Rinka brought with her a tattered sheet of copy paper on which were affixed the names of twenty students who wished Appel to stay.

James B. McCahey, president of the board, continued the case until Jan. 9. Then additional witnesses and Appel are to take the stand.

HELD IN SLAYING



Mrs. Stella Riddell Talbot. [Acme Photo.]

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Stella Riddell Talbot, 35, a former motion picture star, was ordered held to the grand jury today for the Christmas slaying of Albert Frankenstein, 50, a restaurant operator with whom she had lived for seven years.

The action was taken by a coroner's court before whom she admitted the shooting, saying there had been a quarrel while they were drinking. She said Frankenstein was shot when she tried to disarm him after he had struck her on the head with a "billy" and had threatened her life with a revolver.

The woman, who in former days had worn ermine, took the witness stand wearing a shabby dress and a shabby brown coat. On her feet were worn slippers.

She had appeared in motion pictures during the days when Roscoe [Fatty] Arbuckle and Mack Sennett comedies were at the height of their vogue. Under the name of Stella Talbot she played a featured rôle in the picture "The Price of Innocence," produced in 1919. As Stella Day she played the lead in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," based on a story by John Fox Jr.

Separate Maintenance Asked by Parisian's Wife

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Clare Valensi filed suit for separate maintenance today, charging her husband, Jacques Valensi of Paris, has a fortune of $659,000 and an annual income of $24,000, but gives her only $50 a month for the support of herself and three children. The complaint said the couple was married in 1922 in Smyrna, Asia Minor, and later lived in Paris, Nice, and Athens.

GLASGOW FELONS MUTINY; CLUBBED BY PRISON GUARDS

Riot for Right to Smoke One Cigaret Daily.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Tense excitement prevailed tonight in Barlinnie prison, Glasgow, where extra guards are on duty to prevent a renewal of yesterday's rioting. The mutiny began when prisoners, fighting for the right to smoke one cigaret daily, attacked their guards. Four guards and six prisoners were injured.

Reinforcements were rushed in this morning to assist the Barlinnie guards. It was the third outbreak of disorder since Friday. There are 800 convicts in the prison.

One of the prisoners suffered a broken arm when the guards charged with long clubs. The prisoners were beaten back into their cells, made colder than ever by the fact that the prisoners smashed windows Saturday.

Noted for Harsh Discipline.

Barlinnie prison is known as one of the most backward prisons in Scotland. It is far below the general standard of British prisons. Almost military discipline prevails. The Socialist Daily Herald complains that it is wrong to entrust prisoners to former army men, since they lack knowledge of how to handle prisoners.

Trouble started Friday when about 100 prisoners stormed the supply room and grabbed packages of cigarets and food. They were angry because prisoners awaiting trial were allowed to smoke but they were denied the privilege. The next day, when they were forbidden to exercise, a new riot occurred and many windows were smashed.

On Christmas the men demanded one cigaret daily. The warden refused. When the prisoners were being led back to their cells two of them attacked a guard and the riot began.

Authorities Are Silent.

Prison authorities, who refused to make a statement, were annoyed recently because friends of the prisoners had been smuggling in cigarets and food. A man who was released from prison Dec. 14 confessed to Glasgow police today that he had tried to smuggle in smokes, letters, safety razor blades, candies, and biscuits two days after his release from Barlinnie.

It was revealed that it has been the practice of Glasgow citizens to go to the quarry where the prisoners work and toss them cigarets and food, as the released prisoner tried to do. He was fined $10, with the alternative of serving two weeks in prison.

It is expected that an official inquiry will be opened into the riot.

ACTION VITAL TO AVOID DICTATOR, MERRIAM WARNS

Sees Danger in Coming Social Changes.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Danger of a dictatorship in the United States lies not in overdevelopment of the power of the presidency, but in failure to provide by national planning for fundamental social changes, which he believes inevitable, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, University of Chicago political scientist, told fellow social scientists last evening at the Palmer house. Lack of planning may put force on a throne "to write a plan in blood and steel," he warned.

The program on which Prof. Calvin Hoover of Duke university, Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, and Prof. Merriam spoke climaxed the first day's session for some 2,000 members of twelve social science associations holding midwinter meetings in Chicago. They spoke before the American Economic association, which had as its guests of the evening sociologists, political scientists, and statisticians.

Center Fire on NRA.

Earlier in the day, association and section meetings saw a wide-scale appraisal of various New Deal measures by specialists in the fields in which those measures operate. The NRA, in particular, was the recipient of strong criticism.

Discussing first the danger of a presidential dictatorship under the constitution, Prof. Merriam pointed out that by the intent of the nation's founders, the presidency "is the most effective agency in the hands of any political society, and that Andrew Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, and Theodore Roosevelt all were accused of dictatorial ambitions in wielding that power.

"The fact is that the loss of either house in the last election would have put a stop to the whole presidential program, financial and otherwise," Prof. Merriam said. "The primaries in the spring of 1936 will afford another opportunity, and the election of 1936 another. And the courts are still functioning."

National Treatment Required.

Turning then to the problem of centralization of government, he declared that many problems of the depression required national treatment. To avoid too great centralization, more careful consideration is required of what functions localities may best exercise, he said. It is an error, he declared, to assume that all planning means deadening regimentation.

"Wise planning," he said, "makes provision for decentralization as well as unification, for independent criticism, judgment and initiative. If, however, there are those who believe that our liberties are in jeopardy, I rejoice that they speak out. We cannot have liberty if men tamely submit to what they believe is dangerous and wrong.

Expects Radical Changes.

"Perhaps I may be permitted to say quietly as a student of government for a disgraceful number of years, and not by nature an alarmist, that especially on returning from Europe this summer, I don't share the complaisance of those who look forward to a world but little changed. Without essaying the rôle of a prophet, I may say that I anticipate fundamental changes in the scientific, technological, political, and industrial order, change that will altar many of the present-day historical patterns and remake them in new, and perhaps to some, unwelcome forms."

Prof. Ogburn, a sociologist, predicted an expansion of both government industry, and a greater union between them, in the future. Needs of business are forcing such a closer union, he said, because industry apparently needs the aid of government in combatting depression, restraining booms, controling credit, providing transportation, and developing foreign trade.

There are four factors contributing to a high standard of living—a relatively small population, abundant natural resources, inventions, and efficient economic organization—Prof. Ogburn said. The first three, he predicted, America will continue to enjoy. In the achievement of the fourth, through greater union of industry and government, some loss of liberty and some regimentation may be expected, he said.

Dr. George Terborgh of Brookings institution in Washington delivered the most sweeping condemnation of the national recovery act as a real recovery agency. He spoke before a section of the economists devoted to discussion of NRA, presided over by R. M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, former chairman of the NRA regional labor board in Chicago, and attended by a number of NRA officials, including Blackwell Smith, general counsel of the organization.

Pictures Inevitable Failure.

"I am frank to say," Dr. Terborgh concluded, "that it is my opinion not only that the NRA would have retarded recovery had it worked out as planned, but that it retarded recovery as it actually did work out. Whether the loss to recovery has been justified by gains to reform I leave it to others to say."

"My own view," said Dr. Terborgh, "is that the boosting of costs and prices that went on under the NRA was premature, ill advised and inimical to the expansion of productive activity. Both employers and employés, generally speaking, needed a greater volume of activity, not a higher price per unit.

"It is easy to trace the origins of the wage and price boosting campaign. It was responsive to the importunities to which the NRA assented without adequate recognition of the fact that these interests usually got their ideas in reaction to limited individual situations, not from consideration of economics as a whole.

"Such groups can frequently, if not generally, increase their share of the social dividend by enhancing the scarcity of the product they have to sell, a policy reflected in higher prices or higher wage rates as the case may be.

Move Toward Disaster.

"But to promote scarcity by a general program of wage and price boosting is to court disaster. The nation as a whole needs abundance, not scarcity.

"If time permitted it would be worthwhile to discuss the effect on recovery of the numerous schemes which were fostered or permitted by the NRA to restrict production, to fix prices, to restrict marketing channels and in sundry ways to protect inefficient concerns from competition.

"While I should not care to say that these schemes have been always and unequivocally bad, I feel certain that the bulk of them have hindered rather than helped recovery. By and large, we would be better off without them."

Two of Dr. Terborgh's colleagues from Brookings institute spoke also on various phases of the NRA. Dr. Lewis L. Lorwin characterized it, speaking of its effect on labor, as "so far, a rather inadequate device for federal labor legislation."

"In terms of practical politics," said Dr. Leverett S. Lyon, executive vice president of the institution, "the NRA measures are now seriously questioned by every agency concerned."

Defended by Dr. Wasserman.

Dr. Max J. Wasserman of the University of Illinois, now attached to the Agricultural Adjustment administration, defended the AAA's sister organization. Real recovery could not be accomplished without first clearing away the débris of sweatshop industrial conditions and clearing the trade channels of cutthroat competition, and the NRA has accomplished those ends, he asserted.

While this discussion was going on, Dr. John R. Commons, emeritus professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, assured another section of the society, gathered to discuss the influence of the New Deal on the teaching of economics:

"It maks no difference how the New Deal is taught, because most of the New Deal legislation will be declared unconstitutional in the next few months anyway. We too frequently forget that the United States Supreme court is in a sense our national faculty of political economy."

AAA LAND RETIREMENT PLAN IS OUTLINED FOR U. S. FARM ECONOMISTS

The agricultural adjustment administration program for retirement of a possible 12,000,000 acres of sub-marginal lands from agricultural production was outlined yesterday before the American Farm Economic association, meeting at the Palmer house, by Dr. C. F. Clayton of the AAA division of program planning.

The AAA, which had an original appropriation of $25,000,000 for the purpose, later increased by an indefinite amount, had under consideration projects already involving 8,742,136 acres of land, to cost $47,961,901. Of this 2,461,564 is under option, and the remainder must be optioned, under the appropriation provisions, before next June 30. The 174 projects now at hand are divided into agricultural demonstration projects, recreational tracts, Indian lands and wild fowl preserves.

Major objectives of the whole program were listed by Dr. Clayton as conversion of poor land to non-agricultural uses; control of erosion; improvement of social and economic conditions of families now living on the land, as well as for industrially stranded and Indian population; reduction of the costs of local government, and experimental projects to encourage planned use of land.

Dr. Kenneth Hood of Cornell university reported on a survey of 147 city families who had moved to farms adjoining industrial communities in central New York. He said that 60 per cent of the families reported rural life had no disadvantages except in transportation.

MCHIGAN U. LAW DEAN SEES PERIL IN LEGAL TRENDS

In the next few years public law is likely to follow certain underlying and fundamental trends that are not altogether pleasing to a majority of lawyers, Henry M. Bates, dean of the University of Michigan law school, said yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago Bar association at 160 North La Salle street.

Constitutional law is experiencing a change in direction in three of its fundamental phases, Dean Bates said. He described these phases as those relating to the division of governmental powers between the federal and state governments, the separation of the legislative, judicial and executive branches of government, and due process of law.

Dean Bates said there is an apparent extension of power to the federal government that he believes is an extension of the application of law and not an expansion of the law. He discussed the growing field of administrative law, a term that was unknown in the United States 40 years ago, in which he sees the danger of developing a burocracy.

Illinois State's Attorneys to Open Convention Today

The three day convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys association is to open this morning in the Morrison hotel with 70 prosecutors attending. Today's program, after a welcome by Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney, includes speeches by Prof. Newman F. Baker of the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory; State's Attorney R. E. Mason of Winnebago county, John Landesco of the Illinois parole board, and Prof. John H. Wigmore of Northwestern university law school. Justice Paul Farthing, blind member of the Illinois Supreme court, will speak at the annual banquet tonight.

Seventh of U. S. on Relief; Truthful Research 'Sole Hope'

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

With one-seventh of the population of the United States receiving relief, as of last October's statistics, the need of a closer union of research and administration was stressed yesterday at the opening session of the American Sociological society at the Hotel Morrison.

"In the modern world, scientific research alone can furnish an intelligent guide to administration," said Prof. George A. Lundberg of Bennington college in the course of a discussion of relief problems in the statistical section.

Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago said relief work of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, under which research had been speeded up much as the work of labor boards and the intelligence section was speeded during the war emergency had taught a new methodology in social work and that its maximum usefulness might develop into forecasting needs. Research should be free, he emphasized.

Spurred by "Starvation."

Howard B. Myers, assistant director of the research division of the FERA, told of the work that had been done since May, 1933, and the problems faced by the administration. The academic mind, the burocrats, the leisurely theorists, have been forced into action by the emergency of "mass starvation."

The research unit will not know just what the future holds for it until congress decides the question in February or March, but in the meantime a study of just what constitutes adequate relief is being undertaken in urban areas next month, and a survey is being made of rehabilitation programs in major agricultural areas.

The urban and rural studies already made present these outstanding findings, according to Dr. Myers:

"More than 18,000,000 persons were included in the 4,700,000 family cases receiving public relief in the United States during October—roughly one-seventh of the entire population.

Unemployment Big Issue.

"The research studies demonstrate abundantly that in the great bulk of these cases the major problem is that of unemployment. Eighty per cent of the cases on relief contain at least one person between the ages of 16 and 65 who is eager and able to work.

"The unemployable cases consist mainly of women with dependent children, aged persons in families containing no person of working age, and cases which are unemployable because of physical or mental disabilities. The large number of these cases receiving emergency relief indicates the need for a comprehensive system of mothers' pensions, old age pensions, and invalidity and accident insurance in the country, and the data available concerning them are helping to guide the development of such a system.

"The existence of large groups of employable workers on relief who are suffering from industrial old age or loss of skill indicates the importance of an intelligently planned program of retraining and rehabilitation, supplemented by a continuing program of public works. Unskilled and semi-skilled occupations are heavily over-represented on relief. Less than a fifth are skilled workers and only about a sixth follow white collar occupations."

1,500,000 on Rural Relief.

Dwight Sanderson, coördinator of rural research, said that last July the total rural relief load had grown to 1,500,000 families. Research has shown that out of six major areas in the United States, three of these carry 40 per cent of the rural relief load and the underlying causes are more or less chronic. These districts are the Appalachian and Ozark highlands, the cotton area of the old south and the western cotton area. Fifty per cent of these relief cases were farm tenants and farm laborers.

James T. Jardine of the United States department of agriculture said that the future of research rural sociology appears bright.

"Demand for social science researches has been accentuated by depressions," he said. "The concept of a good standard of living is changing. Instead of seeking a high standard of living in the older economic sense, a nerve-shattered nation now longs for assurance of a comfortable standard of living and a satisfactory plane of life in the sociological sense."

Ezekiel Asks More Data.

A suggestion that rural sociologists assemble data on the many changes in rural life that have taken place since the inception of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and of which the administration has incomplete knowledge was made by Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, AAA economist. One of the subjects for research, he said, could be the tenant farmers who were aided through the winter months by the Federal Emergency Relief administration.

"I have often thought of the idea that public ownership of tenant farm lands would be a good thing for tenant farmers," he said. "Would the government be a better landlord than a private party?"

COUNTY BOARD GROUP INSPECTS PENAL HOUSES

A delegation of 15 county commissioners, headed by Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the county's finance committee, visited the county jail and the Bridewell yesterday on a formal tour of inspection. Sherif John Toman, Warden Frank G. Sain of the jail, and Supt. Edward Denemark of the House of Correction conducted them through both buildings.

The commissioners went to the jail to obtain first hand information on needed improvements. Recommendations for these improvements were made by Sherif Toman shortly after he took office on Dec. 3.

It was agreed by the commissioners that changes in the jail were necessary. One of the recommendations calls for more wire netting in the cages where lawyers talk to the prisoners.

Wife of Henry Menjou Gets Warant Out for Him

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The quarrel which Henry Menjou, actor brother of Adolphe Menjou, had with his divorced wife over the proper Christmas entertainment of their 3 year old daughter, resulted in a sheriff's warant being issued for him today. His wife filed a complaint that he struck her with a heavy pair of binoculars.

ATTORNEY SAPIRO SUMS UP OWN CASE IN JURY BRIBE TRIAL

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Aaron Sapiro, New York and Chicago attorney summed up his own case today in the trial of himself and Sam Roth, former vice president of the Journal Square Bank of Jersey City, on charges of attempting to bribe a jury.

Sapiro flatly denied the charges of the federal government that he and Roth tried to "fix" a juror in the trial of Murray C. Harwood, who was convicted in a mail fraud trial.

The lawyer charged he was the "victim of a conspiracy hatched by Harwood to destroy me." He said Harwood, after the attempted bribery indictment was returned, messaged Mrs. Harwood to this effect: "The Sapiro indictment is the greatest achievement to date."

Sapiro said he had been retained by Harwood at the outset of the mail fraud trial, but he later withdrew from the case.

Attorneys for Roth will make their argument tomorrow. It was thought probable that Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks would charge the jurors before nightfall.

Congressman Sabath and 3 of Family Hurt in Auto

Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, Mrs. Sabath, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kolar, were bruised and shaken up Christmas night when their automobile collided with another machine in Lake street west of Elmhurst. The four were returning to Chicago from a holiday visit at the congressman's home at Algonquin. After first aid in a doctor's office at Elmhurst they returned to Algonquin.

RESCUE VESSEL FINDS 2 SHIPS ARE IN DISTRESS

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 27 (Thursday).—(AP)—Battling a gale to reach the side of the rudderless 6,000 ton freighter Emile Franqui early today, the government steamer Lady Laurier found two vessels in distress instead of one.

The ocean going tug Foundation Franklin, which had the freighter in tow when the hawser snapped last night, reported trouble with her steering gear.

The Belgian steamer Emile Franqui, with about 35 men aboard, was homeward bound for Antwerp from New York when her rudder was carried away Sunday 200 miles southeast of Sabre Island.

Tonight when the tow line broke she sent out an S O S, fearing she would be driven by mounting winds and high seas onto the Sambro ledges near Halifax.

A shift in the gale favored the freighter after she had been carried nearly a mile, and with two anchors down and her engines going she appeared to be holding her own about two miles from land.

PARKS TO ORDER CHIEF BUILDINGS AT FAIR RAZED

Plans Afoot to Start New Exhibit 'from Scratch.'

The Chicago park district board voted yesterday to order the main structures of A Century of Progress Exposition razed because of their impermanent nature. After he had been apprised of the action Mayor Kelly declared, however, that he was more than hopeful that there would be an exposition on the World's Fair grounds next summer, "a show that can be built from scratch."

Mayor Kelly said that he wished "a show that would not only be a fun spot for Chicago people, but a drawing card for business and visitors." He indicated that plans were under way.

The mayor and the park board, headed by Robert J. Dunham, tried for some months to find a way to continue the World's Fair in the buildings as they stand, but investigation showed that the structures were deteriorating and that the cost of rehabilitating them would be prohibitive.

Demolition to Begin Next Year.

In keeping with the original contract entered into by the south park board and the exposition, Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, announced that general demolition would begin shortly after Jan. 1. The park commissioners had until the first of the year to decide what structures and improvements it wished to retain.

At the meeting yesterday the commissioners voted that the features worth saving included:

Administration building, eventually destined to be the central headquarters for the consolidated park district; Fort Dearborn and the residence of Jean Baptiste de Saible, the city's first resident; the lagoon theater; 12th and 23d street bridges across the lagoon to Northerly island, overhead pedestrian ramps at 12th, 18th, 23d and 31st streets; nearly all paved roadways, sewer and water systems and pumping station on the island, and the mosaic entrance to the Adler planetarium.

Big Structures to Go.

The park board accepted as a gift some weeks ago the Ford gardens, Ford theater and the Roads of the World exhibit. It has not decided on the fate of the Swift bandstand, home of the Chicago Symphony orchestra last summer.

Among the major Fair structures that will vanish are the Travel and Transport building, Hall of Science, Home Planning hall, General Exhibits building, Electrical building, Agricultural building, Dairy building, Hall of States and the Sky Ride.

Pressed for comment at the park board meeting, Mr. Dunham declared that it would be most unfortunate if a world's fair were not perpetuated as an expression of the city's life.

Built for Just One Year.

"I join with many others," Dunham said, "in hoping that the city will continue with its present broad plans for a new world's fair embracing all the magnetism and beauty of the old one.

"A careful inspection of the grounds and buildings has made it evident that the present buildings, intended originally for one summer's use, are not adequate for another year's exposition. If another fair were held in this form most of the structures would have to be rebuilt. Those of permanence will be integrated into the park district's group of buildings and other features."

Terms of Fair Contract.

Dunham explained that under the park-exposition contract the officials of A Century of Progress posted $275,000 for demolition on the condition that the park district notify them by the end of the year which buildings were to go.

To delay this decision after Dec. 31, Dunham said, would release the exposition management from its contract, which requires restoration of the area for park purposes by July 1, 1936. In this case the park district would be obliged to carry out the wrecking.

BRITONS PLEAD TO SAVE MURDERESS FROM GALLOWS

DURHAM, England, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A petition bearing the signatures of thousands of men and women was ready tonight for submission to the home secretary in an attempt to save Mrs. Lydia Binks from the fate of becoming the second English woman in successive months to die on the gallows.

The 24 year old domestic was sentenced to death last month with Frederick Rushworth, 29, for the murder of their 24 year old baby. The infant, testimony at the trial brought out, was buried alive last March. Its body was discovered last July.

Mrs. Binks' execution was set for Jan. 3, just 15 days after Mrs. Ethel Lillie Major, first woman to pay the death penalty in England in eight years, was executed for poisoning her husband. Vigorous efforts to obtain clemency for Mrs. Major were denied by King George and Queen Mary and the home secretary.

The jury which convicted Mrs. Binks added its "strongest possible recommendation" for mercy. Mrs. Binks is married, but separated from her husband. Rushworth, a farmhand, is unmarried.

Question Jeweler and Wife in Fatality at Yule Party

Fred Feiner, 40 years old, a jeweler, and his wife Emma were held by the stockyards police yesterday for further questioning on the death of Rex Pyle, 38 years old, also a jeweler, who was found shot Tuesday night in the Feiner home at 5243 South Racine avenue. The Feiners said Pyle committed suicide during a Christmas drinking party. Pyle, a widower and the father of two children, lived with his mother at 2602 Indiana avenue and owned a jewelry store at 315 East 25th street. An inquest will be held on Jan. 4 at the county morgue.

Free 2 Women Questioned in Rabbit Connell Murder

Mrs. Virginia Leffler, 33 years old, 1641 North La Salle street, and Miss Jean Conway, 24, of the same address, were released by police yesterday. The women were questioned in connection with the slaying of George (Little Rabbit) Connell, 31 years old, an ex-convict, who was shot to death two weeks ago near his gambling place near North avenue and Halsted street. Mrs. Leffler admitted friendship with the gambler, but declared that her husband, Max, was unaware of their association.

IDENTIFY DROWNED MAN.

The body of a man found drowned in a water filled ditch near 159th street and Cicero avenue, Oak Forest, last Sunday morning, was identified yesterday as that of Eldridge Arnold, 56 years old, an inmate of the Oak Forest infirmary.

DUNHAM TERMS PRESENT OAK ST. PLAN A STOPGAP

Final Aim to Straighten Lake Shore Drive.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago Park board, discussed yesterday plans to improve the Oak street beach area. He emphasized the point that the current project—construction of subway pedestrian tunnels and comfort station under Lake Shore drive—did not supersede the greater lake shore development plans for the area.

"The permanent development of the shore north of Oak street," he asserted, "not only must provide for the city's bathers but must eliminate the two dangerous turns in Lake Shore drive in that section.

"This undertaking has been urged in the outer drive development of the Chicago plan commission. It was brought to my attention by THE TRIBUNE before I became connected with the parks and I now consider it the program the parks must ultimately adopt.

The Ultimate Program.

"As I see it, the Chicago park district must build this new link as soon as it can marshal the necessary finances. The straightened roadway, carrying northbound trafic diagonally from Oak street across present lake area to North avenue, would eliminate the two dangerous turns. At the same time the present Lake Shore drive would be free to carry southbound trafic.

"The construction of such a new roadway would mean the reclamation of the area now occupied by the Oak street beach, which would become park land. In addition it would be necessary for the park district to build a peninsula into the lake at North avenue. This project, similar to that at Foster avenue, quickly would create a new beach on the north side of the peninsula, since the lake current causes an accretion of sands, and, in fact, built the Oak street beach. At this new site the park district can build all necessary bath houses and comfort stations on park territory.

Present Project Temporary.

"Engineers for the Chicago plan commission have suggested that the Lincoln park lagoons could be continued southward toward Oak street, filling a portion of the space between the Lake Shore drive and the proposed new roadway. I believe, however, that filling in the entire 50 acres would prove more satisfactory, as it would eliminate need for bridges otherwise necessary for cross trafic to residences along the lake.

"The construction of this new outer drive link and the new beach cannot be accomplished at present because the park district lacks needed finances, but they must come. Consequently we are planning the immediate $20,000 improvement of the Oak street beach simply as a temporary matter.

"We expect to begin construction of the comfort stations as soon as the state highway commission begins work on the tunnels about March 1, and we hope to have the work completed by June 1. They are to be under Lake Shore drive at Oak street, Division street, and North avenue."

EAGLE SCOUTS LEAVE FOR MICHIGAN CAMP; UNDAUNTED BY COLD

Undaunted by the prospect of subzero weather and deep snow, twenty Chicago Eagle Scouts and their leaders left last night for a six day holiday at Owasippe, the camp maintained by the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts near Whitehall, Mich.

Clad in woolen mufflers and stocking caps, the scouts boarded a Pere Marquette train at 11:30 p. m. Skis, skates, sleds and toboggans made up part of their equipment in anticipation of a week of winter sports.

Awaiting their arrival are a 200 pound black bear and a big buck deer. Michigan woodsmen have them strung up to provide nightly dinners of venison and b'ar meat. Two hundred fellow scouts bade the group farewell earlier in the day at the sixth annual dinner of the Order of the Arrow, the camp honor organization, to which the favored twenty belong.

PAROLEE CAUGHT AFTER LEADING 2 BOYS IN HOLDUPS

Joseph Bejzer, 31 years old, 4548 South Springfield avenue, an ex-convict, was paroled last May from the state penitentiary after serving nine years of a 25 year sentence for rape.

Early Sunday morning Bejzer was arrested with two companions, one a 14 year old boy, whom he had led in three robberies on the south side. Bejzer and Charles Deacey, 20 years old, 3819 West 45th street, one of his companions, were arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boys' court and held to the grand jury in bonds of $9,000 each. Richard Busch, 4543 South Harding avenue, the boy, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

At the parole office, where Bejzer has been reporting monthly, it was learned he was released in parole to Charles Kowalski, a grocer at 3559 South Maplewood avenue.

Mrs. George A. Ranney Injured in Fall on Stairs

Mrs. George A. Ranney, prominent in social and philanthropic circles, suffered a severe injury to her left arm Sunday in a fall at the home of Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, 1260 Astor street. She was taken to St. Luke's hospital on the following day where X-rays disclosed that the upper end of the arm bone had been fractured and dislocated. Mrs. Ranney who lives in the same building had gone to Mrs. McCormick's apartment for the evening. The accident occurred when Mrs. Ranney tripped and fell down a stair.

Trolley Pole Crashes Into Train; Passenger Injured

One man was injured and a number of passengers were thrown into confusion by an accident on a Chicago North Shore electric train near Lake Bluff last night. The trolley pole on the fourth car of the five car train snapped off and plunged the car into sudden darkness. The broken portion of the pole then crashed through a front window of the fifth car. Rudolph Berg, 40 years old, a salesman, of 365 Vincent court, Lake Bluff, was cut on the face by flying glass.

EXONERATE BURGLAR'S SLAYER.

John Consigliari, 1751 Washington boulevard, who shot and killed Edwin Busch, 30 years old, 1507 Warren avenue, as the latter was crawling through a broken window of his restaurant at 1726 West Madison street, yesterday was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

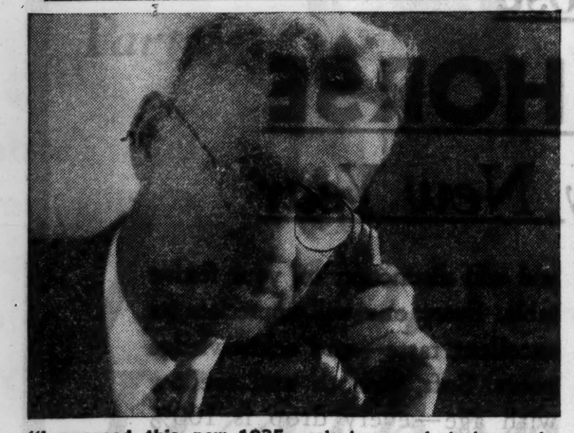
Expert Gets Figures Mixed



"I guessed this new 1935 Dodge to be priced much higher than it actually is, and even though I'm wrong, I still think the car is worth it," says purchasing agent.

"So much value has been packed into this new Dodge for 1935, that a great many people are going to be fooled about the price," says Homer H. Bailey, of New York, former buyer for one of the country's largest mail order houses, and who knows value from A to Z. "They're sure to guess the price too high—because it is hard to believe a car with so much style, so much quality, and so many amazing improvements, could sell for so little."

Dozens of authorities — style and value experts—have been wrong when trying to guess the price of the new-value Dodge for 1935. Watch for it! You, too, will be surprised to see a car that offers so many advantages for such a remarkably low price!

Roosevelt's Board Report Urges "Social Need."

from the standpoint of electrification, according to the report, is an interconnected transmission system tying together all fuel, as well as hydro-electric plants, so that surplus power in one area could be transmitted to sections that needed it. The report does not concern itself with the question of public or private ownership of power generation and distribution, but says the government must control transmission.

"This goal does not involve necessarily any great increase in the number of publicly owned lines, especially if the private companies coöperate in effecting unification," the report states. "Doubtless the government will have to build some connecting lines to bring its own hydro-electric current to market in cases where companies have no need to build for their own purposes, or where the government enters new areas in its promotion work for the common welfare, for example in the field of farm electrification."

The method of transmission suggested is the much discussed British "grid" or "gridiron" system, under which all power, whether publicly or privately generated and publicly or privately sold, is supplied from a common pool controled by the government. For years the British utility magnates and officials of the government have been coming to this country to study the advanced American methods, but since the advent of the TVA experiment the directors of that enterprise and other New Deal agencies have been going to England for enlightenment.

Tells All About System.

The Mississippi valley report contains a learned discussion of the "grid" system, including excerpts from Lord Weir's report, and conveys the impression that the investigators spent much time in England, getting first hand information. A footnote explains, however, that the material came from the Encyclopædia Britannica.

The report recognizes that only 66 per cent of the present installed capacity in the area from St. Louis to Detroit is now being used, and that even with the grid system, providing for a 15 per cent surplus as the minimum requirement, there still would be an excess of 1,086,000 kilowatts in the installed capacity. It also recognizes that development of the 16,000,000 kilowatts of potential hydro current in the Mississippi valley would cost more than it would to generate the power by steam. But this objection, it is explained, does not take into consideration the advantages of conserving oil and coal.

Electricity is the motivating force of the "Roosevelt revolution," as the New Dealers themselves call it, and the report of the Mississippi valley committee justifies the expenditure of huge sums for power where there is already a surplus, and the development of hydro-electric current when the steam method is cheaper on strictly social grounds.

Keynote of Entire System.

The keynote of the whole planned economy is expressed in this paragraph:

"If it be objected that it is not sound economics for the government to build stations when the present generating capacity cannot or does not find a market, the answer is that this criticism places the cart before the horse and ignores the social purpose underlying the policy proposed."

The report says there are only 650,000 farms among the 6,000,000 in the United States that have "high line" electric service. It is suggested that perhaps one to three million should be electrified in the government's program and that an immediate start be made with 500,000 in the Mississippi valley. Planning on a wide scale, it is estimated the total cost, with generating plants for each unit of 1,500 farms, would be about 165 million dollars.

Some of the generating plants would be fuel burning, and others would be developed in connection with the total of 500 dams it is proposed to build in the Mississippi system, at a cost of about 500 million dollars.

Claims It Aids Industry.

"In respect to power," the report states, "the plan does not rest upon any captious criticism of the electrical industry, or place any burdens upon its wholesome practices, its initiative or usefulness. On the contrary, rightly viewed, the industry's position will be strengthened by coördination with the efforts of the government in working out its comprehensive plan and in coöperation with the states, municipalities and power districts in solving their respective programs."

The report says the program in its long range aspects is directly related to the problem of unemployment, estimating that some 5 million men will be indefinitly displaced by technological improvements.

"A comprehensive Mississippi valley public works program, involving ultimately, among other items, the building of possibly 500 dams of some magnitude, would absorb a considerable portion of this unemployment total and do so over a long period," the report says. "Of the returns in terms of social well-being, national safety, agricultural and industrial advance, and of individual happiness and security, there is no yardstick adequate for the measuring."

In addition to its recommendations for power development the report deals exhaustively with each watershed in the entire basin and suggests coördinated plans for flood control, navigation, soil erosion, forestry, wild life conservation, and recreation.

Lists Federal Expenditures.

The report says that total federal expenditures on the upper Mississippi river system to June, 1934, were: Main stem, 104 million 300 thousand dollars; tributaries and connections, 21 million 750 thousand, a total of 126 million 50 thousand in addition to 40 million for maintenance and operation. It is also estimated that 91 million 300 thousand will be required to complete the present nine foot channel project on the main stem alone.

Since 1916 the trafic on the stretch from St. Paul to the mouth of the Missouri has varied from 500,000 to 1,000,000 tons, the decline from the 1903 record of 4,500,000 tons being due to the loss of lumber shipping, according to the report.

The committee says it is not possible by any calculations of business accounting to find an economic justification for the vast expenditures on the projected improvement of these waterways. On the other hand, the report envisions a system of planned utilization of natural resources "which will inevitably include renewal of trafic in heavy commodities."

Tells Power Possibilities.

Illinois, 12 sites to cost 15 million 534 thousand dollars; Iowa, 68 sites to cost 48 million 540 thousand dollars; Minnesota, 53 sites, costing 46 million 16 thousand dollars, and Wisconsin, 72 sites, costing 122 million 316 thousand dollars. These hydro-electric plants would have an installed capacity aggregating 827,000 kilowatts, but the report adds in this connection:

"It is not likely that many of the possibilities listed will be built under present conditions in the industry, since fuel burning plants are more economical. On the other hand, in a more highly integrated power industry utilizing all plants to capacity, a considerable number of these hydro sites might economically be absorbed into the system.

"It is pertinent to observe that the average kilowatt hour consumption of farm customers in Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota is only some 65 per cent of the average farm consumption in the entire United States [California excluded], and that the farm service rate in Iowa is the second highest, in Minnesota the third highest, and in Wisconsin the eighth highest in the United States."

Urge Water Rate Regulation.

One of the recommendations of the committee is that a commission to regulate water rates be created, with a view of coöperating with the interstate commerce commission in fixing joint water and rail rates. This, it is suggested, would be a step toward the ultimate unification of all forms of transportation.

Morris L. Cooke, consulting engineer of Philadelphia, is chairman of the committee, and other members: Harlan H. Barrows, University of Chicago; Herbert S. Crocker, Denver; Lieut. Col. Glen S. Edgerton, engineer corps, U. S. A.; Henry S. Graves, Yale university; Maj. Gen. Edward S. Markham, chief of engineers, U. S. A.; Charles H. Paul, Dayton, O.; Harlow S. Person, New York, and Sherman M. Woodward, University of Iowa.

War Department Organizes Centralized Army Air Force

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A centralized army air force of approximately nine hundred fighting planes, available almost instantly as a unit for attack or defense, was organized today at the war department.

The force, the establishment of which was termed by Secretary Dern "the most important and evolutionary step toward modernization" of combat units since the world war, will be known as the general headquarters air force. The commander will be Lieut. Col. Frank M. Andrews.

Foulois Loses Command.

Actual establishment of the force will take immediate command of the army's aerial fighting units from Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps. The fighting planes will be placed under the chief of staf, now Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

At the war department, however, it was said plans for the "GHQ" force were drafted before a house military affairs subcommittee demanded Foulois' removal as head of the air force.

The Baker aviation committee in its report last summer recommended such a central force.

Another result of GHQ organization may be to silence some of the demands for a separate air force for the services. Critics of the present system have charged methods were unwieldly and cumbersome and did not permit operation of fighting planes as a unit. The army armada will consist of practically all the combat elements in the United States.

Three Sub-Commanders.

The war department said today that to secure the greatest possible mobility, however, the force would be grouped in three sub-commands or wings in the middle west and on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The first wing will base at Hamilton Field, Cal., the second at Langley Field, Va., and the third will maintain temporary headquarters at Fort Crockett, Tex. With the shift of units now at Fort Crockett to Barksdale Field, La., in the near future, however, the third wing will be stationed at that field.

The war department announcement emphasized the GHQ organization was temporary and that, after a year's test it would be revised to eliminate any weaknesses developed.

LA GUARDIA EXPLAINS NEW YORK'S SELLING OF ELECTRIC POWER

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The first plant of Mayor La Guardia's program to produce light and power will be built near the Bronx terminal market and the retail market to be constructed near by.

"Certainly," the mayor answered when asked if the city would sell any of its electricity to private consumers. "That'll be part of the rent."

It was the mayor's first definite statement that light and power would be sold to the public in addition to producing power sufficient for the city's own needs. The Bronx market plant will light the market, the Bronx county building and the new Bronx county jail, now under construction, he said.

The plant is to cost $1,500,000 and the money already is available from the sale of corporate stock. The mayor plans to push construction immediately. Part of the stock was sold last June, and the rest was advertised and sold last week at the time of the $40,000,000 bond sale. Engineers and architects are on the site today.

NEW AIR GADGET TO SPEED TESTS FOR U. S. WEATHER

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A new toy Zeppelin which rides on an airplane wing and speeds up flying weather forecasting 75 per cent was shown here today on the eve of the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The little high speed instrument was perfected three weeks ago at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It enables a plane to record the minutest changes in temperature, pressure, and humidity while flying full speed.

The little Zeppelin is 14 inches long, 3 inches thick, and carries an elongated gondola underneath. Its stream lines reduce the flying air pressure which formerly slowed down the recording instruments on planes.

For recording moisture changes the miniature airship carries a blond human hair. Beside that is stretched a strip of bimetallic ribbon only a hundredth of an inch thick. It is made as a thermometer. Inside the body of the airship is a barometer for registering pressure. All three of these instruments trace their records on a single piece of smoked glass only one inch square.

ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK ANNUAL MESSAGE JAN. 3

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—When the 74th congress convenes in a joint meeting of both houses Jan. 3, President Roosevelt will deliver in person the report, required by the constitution, on the state of the union. This was indicated by the President at his semi-weekly press conference this morning.

While the President did not commit himself definitly, his expression caused the capitol architect to order construction of a ramp at the capitol so that the chief executive will be spared difficulty in mounting its tiers of steps. Arrangements were also being made in the house chamber to facilitate personal delivery of the annual message.

It has been persistently rumored the President would follow the precedent established by George Washington and abandoned by John Adams. It was revived by President Wilson, followed once by Mr. Harding, and again by Mr. Coolidge only in their first messages. Last year President Roosevelt followed their example.

Says He "Would Guess So."

This morning he was asked to affirm or deny the reports he would again appear before congress in person. He said that he did not want to commit himself, but added that if he were writing the story he would guess that the message would be delivered in person.

He also disclosed that until the message is ready for delivery he will devote almost all his remaining time to completion of the document. He revealed that it is at present in the rough draft stage and about three-quarters finished.

To speed completion of his task the President said he has canceled all formal conferences at the White House. These will be replaced, he said, recalling his Harvard French, by "conversationes."

At these "conversationes," cabinet members, congressional leaders, and brain trusters in and out of the administration are expected to offer suggestions on the most important item of the message—the question of how much the New Deal will spend in the next fiscal year for relief, public works, and social experiments.

Has Back Stairs Entrance.

As these meetings are not to be known as conferences, there will be no posting of presidential appointments at the White House. It will be almost impossible, White House attachés said, to determine who the last minute advisers will be, because the President's office has a "back stairs" entrance and exit.

Attachés expect that New Dealers will be treading one another's corns in getting in and out of the presidential office by the secret route.

In one of his last scheduled conferences today the President met with Senator Gerald P. Nye [radical, N. D.], chairman of the senate munitions committee. Senator Nye said he had been assured full coöperation in a request for funds with which to continue his investigation.

Asked whether the senate should not properly entertain such a request rather than the executive department, the senator said his visit was one of mere routine. He added that he had feared that in naming a civilian committee to take profits out of war the President was moving against the senate investigation. He said his fears were laid at rest in the conference.

FARM JOURNALS ASK REHEARING BY HIGH COURT IN RATE ROW

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Five publishing companies joined today in asking the Supreme court to reconsider its recent decision under which they would be forced to stand trial on charges of having violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

The companies, the Prairie Farmer Publishing company of Chicago, the Wallace Publishing company of Des Moines, Ia., the Wisconsin Farmer company and the Webb Publishing company, both of Minneapolis, Minn., and the McKelvie Publishing company of Lincoln, Neb., publish seven farm magazines circulated in the corn belt and sell advertising space through the Midwest Farm Paper Unit of Chicago and New York City.

The Indiana Farmer's Guide Publishing company of Huntington, Ind., sought to collect from them treble damages on the contention they had entered an unlawful combination in offering group advertising rates in their seven publications.

The five publishing companies asserted in their petition for a rehearing that they were without power to control advertising rates in farm journals and declared the evidence had failed to prove they had in any way restrained or attempted to restrain interstate commerce.

Airline Sells Plane to Chinese Military Leader

United Airlines officials here yesterday announced the sale of one of their Boeing 247D airliners to Marshal Chang Hsueh, military chieftain of the Hupeh province of the Nanking government. The plane, fitted as a flying field office with bunks and equipment of a staf headquarters, is to be used by the marshal in directing his troops.

FEDERAL SALES TAX IS FAVORED BY TREADWAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The sales tax, veteran of half a dozen congressional conflicts, was pushed forward again today from the Republican side as a method of raising funds to meet "increasing expenditures."

The advocate of the tax—a 2¼ per cent levy on manufacturers' sales—was Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the house ways and means committee, which originates all tax legislation.

Estimating his plan would raise $450,000,000 a year, Treadway took cognizance of reports that Democrats were not anxious to advocate new taxes, by saying:

"To increase expenditures at the rate which has been done, and as probably will be continued in the incoming congress, without levying any taxes is the height of financial folly."

Denies Writ to Stop U. S. Producing by Reinhardt

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Judge Emmet H. Wilson today denied an injunction sought by A. W. Haendler, French theater man, to restrain Max Reinhardt, theatrical producer, from continuing with "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for Warner Brothers on the ground he had previously signed an agreement to produce "Die Fliedermaus" in London. Reinhardt's lawyers contended the agreement was voided when Haendler asked Reinhardt to reduce his promised compensation.

Lake Forest Man Left Fourth of Mother's Estate

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—George Malcolm of Lake Forest, Ill., and Beatrice H. Malcolm of Summit, N. J., received the principal bequests under the will of their mother, Mrs. Eliza S. Malcolm, of Summit, disposing of an estate of $450,000. Mrs. Malcolm died Dec. 12. Under the will, filed today, the daughter receives three-fourths of the residuary estate and the son the other quarter.

Twice as many wise Santa Fe patrons did just that in 1934 as in any other year.

And Why?

Because they discovered that cost had been made so low it wasn't reasonable, any longer, to deny themselves the pleasure and convenience of having their own motors to run about in at destination.

They already knew that California and the Southwest are big; packed with interesting places and magnificent scenery from end to end; and webbed with beckoning roads whose exploration would add immeasurably to vacations at hotel, ranch or resort.

When owner's party holds two or more first-class one-way or round-trip tickets, private motor can be shipped along, BY FAST FREIGHT, for only one additional ticket at 3.6 cents per mile. It's simple as A B C.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise:—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections Influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes.

Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

NEED FOR ISLAND AIRPORT IS TOLD BY INVESTIGATOR

PWA Committeeman Here Replies to Attacks.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The argument of opponents of the proposed island airport that construction of the flying field a mile out in Lake Michigan at 16th street would serve as an opening wedge to commercialize the Chicago water front, was assailed yesterday by one of the local PWA committeemen now investigating the city's application for a Federal Public Works administration loan to begin the airport project.

"The same men who object to the construction of the island field are the men who made possible, in a large degree, the building of the World's Fair along the lake front," said the member of the committee, who asked that his name be not used.

"There, if ever, was a commercial proposition. It was backed because all Chicago rightly believed it would bring business and money to the city at a time when business and money were badly needed. The identical argument applies in every particular to the island airport.

City Would Own Island.

"It will, in the opinion of economists and aviation experts, bring more air commerce to this city than any other metropolis in the world obtains from its air terminal.

"Apparently opponents of the field forget that the city would own the airport. They also forget that the plans already approved by the war department, the Chicago Plan commission, department of air commerce airport experts, and others, call for the 'making' of the 200 acres it would cover so far out in the lake that it would never affect the shore beaches.

"It has been one of the chief arguments, also, that the island port would destroy a large portion of the beaches which hitherto have been saved for the Chicago's poorer residents."

Study Mayor's Request.

The committee of which the speaker is a member, was appointed last summer by Secretary of the Interior Ickes after Mayor Kelly asked for a grant and loan of $8,600,000 to begin construction of the airport at once. The funds were to come from the PWA because 45,000 men were to be kept at work for 21 months at the project.

The secretary, as head of the PWA, did not act at once on the loan but appointed the committee to hold public hearings and determine the sentiment of the city's residents in the matter.

"From what we have been hearing one would almost be led to believe that Chicago doesn't want the airport," said the committee spokesman. "The groups that came before us representing hospitals and a club or two, all opposed the field. We don't know how the people in general feel about the matter.

Doubts Sample of Sentiment.

"But it is difficult to believe that Chicagoans do not want the business the new airport would bring. It is also difficult to believe they do not wish to give the 45,000 men their jobs. It scarcely seems possible that Chicago prefers to muddle along with the inadequate and inconvenient airport it now possesses.

"Probably the only way to find out just what the people really do want in a matter of this kind would be to hold a referendum."

The members of the committee are F. J. C. Dresser, chairman; Henry P. Chandler, Kellogg Fairbank, Merrill C. Meigs, and John Wentworth. The group held public hearings more than six weeks ago, but has not met since that time. A study of the island airport is being prepared for the group by the Chicago Plan commission.

Center of Opposition.

Organized opposition to the airport to which the speaker referred centered around B. E. Sunny, retired telephone company executive. Mr. Sunny sent out a series of communications containing arguments against the airport shortly before the public hearings were held and notified individuals and organizations that he was willing to act for them at the hearings.

TOKIO SENDS NEW INSTRUCTIONS TO NAVAL DELEGATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Fresh instructions to Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira and Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto arrived from Tokio today. There is a possibility that Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis, chief United States naval delegate, and British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon might have a further talk with the Japanese before the American delegation sails for home Saturday.

The instructions are concerned with the possibility of devising a new mutually acceptable basis for future fleet limitations as a substitute for the existing 5-5-3 ratio system. It is believed Tokio will show a less uncompromising attitude toward the British suggestion that each naval power make a declaration of what it considers to be its minumum defensive requirements.

Tokio may also show less insistence on immediate global [total] tonnage equality with the United States and Great Britain.

Belgium Cuts Pay Roll and Pensions by 5 Per Cent

BRUSSELS, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A royal decree reducing pensions and salaries of all public employés 5 per cent, effective Jan. 1, today dampened Christmas celebrations in many Belgian homes. Other decrees reduced rent allowances 50 per cent and sharply cut relief allowances for large provinces.

STRIVE TO AVOID THREAT OF COAL PRICE CONFLICT

Operators' Group and U. S. Board to Meet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Complaints that a devastating price war in the soft coal industry is threatening labor with wage cuts and the industry with monopoly will be fully investigated at a public hearing Jan. 4, the NRA announced today.

More rigid price fixing plus higher minimum prices are the remedies which the critics of the existing situation demand. The United Mine Workers of America, through its president, John L. Lewis, joined this group today by informing the NRA that labor will insist on its "protection" from price and wage cutting.

Calls Coal Industry Board.

Beside calling a public hearing for Jan. 4 at which Divisional Administrator Wayne P. Ellis will preside, the NRA has summoned the National Bituminous Coal Industrial board to meet the same day. This board provided for in the code as an instrumentality for enforcing price regulations, actually has met only once since the code was approved, more than a year ago.

Southern, eastern Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and other coal mining companies have joined in complaining of the threatening price war and in asking for a strengthening of the code. They insist that the price war is "tending toward monopoly," and in addition "adversely affecting small enterprises, wage and labor conditions."

Favor Fixing of Prices.

These producers have asked that the code be amended so that price fixing is declared a necessary emergency device and that the NRA is instructed to establish certain minimum prices. Sales below this minimum level, under the amended code, would be punishable code violations. These amendments will be considered at the Jan. 4 meeting.

Throwing the support of organized labor behind the protesting mine operators, Lewis sent a letter today to the NRA. He declared in it that the price war was threatening to strip the workers of the protection which they had been guaranteed under the code by both the NRA and the operators. He suggested an early meeting of the National Bituminous Coal Industrial board.

Threatens Direct Action.

Unless the NRA took steps to halt the price cutting which in turn is raising the question of wage cuts, organized labor would have to take direct action of its own, Lewis told Ellis. The union, Lewis said, would take it on itself to give the miners the protection they had been guaranteed under the code.

"We intend to see that we get it," he told Ellis.

SHOOTS SELF IN HAND.

William Bailey, 30 years old, 6339 South Richmond avenue, a saloonist, shot himself in the left hand yesterday while examining a pistol.

PETRILLO INSTALLED; NEW PARK DISTRICT BOARD COMPLETED

James C. Petrillo, former west park commissioner, was installed yesterday as a member of the new Chicago Park district board, thus completing the roster of the board, headed by President Robert J. Dunham.

The other members are Harry Joseph, Martin Kennelly and Stephen I. Witmanski. With the board complete Mr. Dunham declared that plans are on foot to offer during 1935 the greatest recreational program in local park history.

"We hope," he said, "to solve the park debt problem, complete the unification of park activity, and operate on a budget nearly $1,500,000 less than the average costs for the superseded districts during the last five years."

TURNER BUILDING SPEED PLANE TO TRY FOR RECORD

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Col. Roscoe Turner, noted speed flyer, disclosed today he is building a monoplane expected to attain 400 miles an hour in the hope of bringing the land plane speed record, just captured by France, back to the United States.

Returning to Seattle with the fast transport in which he and Clyde Pangborn took second place in the speed event of the London-Melbourne race, Col. Turner explained his new ship will be a single seated, low winged monoplane, designed by Prof. H. W. Barlow, aeronautical engineer of the University of Minnesota.

FIRE DESTROYS COURTHOUSE AT VALPARAISO, IND.

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 27 [Thursday].—[Special.]—Fire destroyed the Porter county courthouse early today. The loss was estimated at $500,000 in a report of Fire Captain George Coyer to the state fire marshal's office in Indianapolis.

The fire was discovered about 12:30 a. m. and spread rapidly through oak timbers in the interior of the building. Firemen were handicapped by a temperature of 4 degrees below zero, by dense smoke inside the building, and by pressure insufficient to force a stream to the top of a 175 foot tower which was a part of the building. Three firemen suffered minor injuries.

Firemen and equipment from Gary, Michigan City, and La Porte helped the Valparaiso department to fight the flames.

The fire, attributed to defective wiring, started in the ceiling of the Circuit court room.

Records were removed from the offices of the county treasurer, the county surveyor, and the federal emergency relief administration. All other records were in vaults and are believed to be safe, according to officials.

Fire Captain Coyer said he based his estimate of the loss on records in the office of County Auditor C. A. Blacly showing the building to be appraised at $244,000 and the contents, including a $30,000 law library owned by the county, to be worth $300,000. Capt. Coyer said he had been informed the county had some $200,000 insurance on the building.

The room in which the flames started is that in which Virgil Kirkland was convicted of assault and battery with intent to rape Arlene Draves, a Gary schoolgirl, who died of her injuries, and sentenced to imprisonment of one of ten years three years ago. Hundreds of couples from Chicago were married in the courthouse. The building was constructed some 50 years ago. Its exterior was of Joliet limestone, and it was of striking architecture.

Doctor Forced Into Auto; Robbed of $15 and Watch

Dr. Alexander A. Whamond, owner of the Robert Burns hospital, 3807 West Washington boulevard, was forced into a bandit car last night and robbed of $15 and his watch, he reported to Fillmore police. The doctor, who lives at the hospital, was walking near Hamlin and Maypole avenues when the car drew up to the curbing.

MOTORISTS BEWARE!
COLD WEATHER AHEAD

REAL winter weather is expected. Remember, your car must be protected now against freezing. Drive to your nearest dealer at once and ask for SUPER PYRO Anti-Freeze.

In less than two minutes your radiator can be guarded against sub-zero temperatures. No fuss. No extra expense for overhauling the cooling system. SUPER PYRO is poured in as simply as water.

Be sure to insist on SUPER PYRO. This popular Anti-Freeze offers you three definite advantages: 1. It is 100% concentrated Anti-Freeze, protecting to lower temperatures. 2. Its special soluble oil retards evaporation. 3. Its exclusive rust and corrosion inhibitor keeps radiator and engine clean. All these advantages have been approved by many of America's most important automotive laboratories.

SUPER PYRO gives your car extra protection. Yet it costs only a few cents more than the cheapest Anti-Freeze. Play safe this winter! At the first sign of colder weather let your dealer service your car with SUPER PYRO. Have him check your radiator regularly throughout the winter and add more SUPER PYRO as needed.

SEE BLUEBLOODS SLATED FOR NEXT PURGE BY NAZIS

Home of Princess Called Revolt Plot Nest.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A second blood purge, directed in part against monarchists, was viewed today as a possible sequel to recent raids on cafes and private houses frequented by the sexually abnormal.

In one such raid twenty-three men were arrested in the home of a blue-blooded woman, whose guests, it is charged, were plotting the overthrow of the Adolf Hitler régime.

This alleged fact apparently is being seized upon as a welcome reason for laying a heavy hand upon monarchists generally.

Has Long Family Line.

The princess involved is not a member of any former ruling house, but her family line dates back for centuries. Among those rounded up at her place were a number of storm troopers and members of the schutzstaffel, Nazi picked guard outfit. A journalist and an aviation expert also were taken into custody.

Further force was given rumors of the impending move against monarchists by the fact that a concerted campaign against this faction apparently is being conducted by the propaganda ministry.

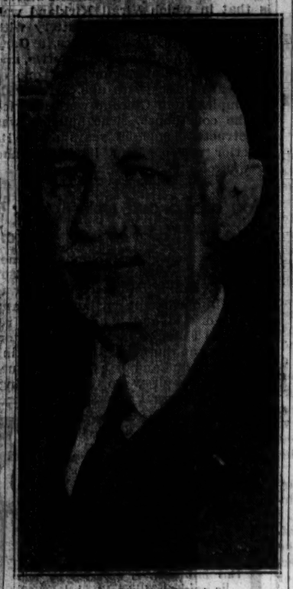
Blame Monarchies of 1914.

Numerous references to the effect that Germany's present plight is due in great part to the monarchies of 1914—the various kingdoms and states composing the German empire—were made by speakers who harangued the public on street corners the Sunday before Christmas.

Coincidentally numerous Nazi newspapers, with a similarity of theme, as if acting on a signal from higher up, poked fun at the bazar for the needy conducted several weeks ago by the Kaiserin Hermine. The bazar, conducted in Berlin by the kaiserin as in other years for charitable purposes, was described by the Nazi press as entirely unnecessary if not provocative.

In connection with the campaign against sexual abnormality, it was revealed by an unquestionable source that secret service police have estimated the number of persons so afflicted to be 22,000 in Berlin alone, 11,000 in Hamburg and 3,000 in Munich.

70 Years Old Today



GEN. PEYTON C. MARCH.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staf of the army during the last year of the world war, will enter his 70th year tomorrow with the conviction that "life begins at 70."

Though retired, he will greet old friends at the war department during the day, later having a dinner for members of his family and a few friends.

March was born in Easton, Pa., on Dec. 27, 1864. He attended Lafayette, Union, and Amherst colleges before entering West Point. There he graduated in 1888, entering the army as a second lieutenant of artillery.

He served in the Philippines, where he got the Distinguished Service Cross; was American military attaché with the Japanese army in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904 and succeeded Gen. Tasker H. Bliss as acting chief of staff in March, 1918. He retired from the army in July, 1921.

Isobel Steele Relates Tale of Intrigue.

I don't do what you tell me, what will happen?"

"Well, then," said the criminal commissioner, Herr von Bronsky, "we'll have to take your little girl friend out of bed. There are other ways of forcing you to do what we want, but I don't think we'll have to use force."

Telephones Her Friend.

So Miss Steele telephoned her friend at Miss Helm's apartment.

"She didn't happen to be there," she recounted today. "They told me that I wanted her to meet me at 6 o'clock in the evening.

"At 6 o'clock they drove in a magnificent car to my quarters. The place was in great disorder. All the papers had been taken away. It was 11 o'clock before she even phoned. I told her to meet me. I told her to come to the house. She insisted that I meet her half way.

"I walked around the corner. Two men were behind me.

"She came toward me with her arms outstretched. I said to her under my breath:

"'Pull yourself together; something terrible has happened.'

"The men trailing me said to her: 'Come along with us. We're the police.' They put us both in the car.

"At the police station they put me in another room while they cross-examined her. Six men were with her. She was weak—had not been in good health, and she was weeping.

"They shouted at her, asking all about the different men with whom she was acquainted. She knew a lot of men prominent in the big industries who were interested in working toward eliminating racial persecution. They knew that she was close to Brigitte Helm. They knew that Miss Helm had once been married to a Jew and had divorced him. So they worked through this girl against a woman they dared not attack personally."

It was the fall in the American dollar which virtually marooned Miss Steele in Germany. Her talents soon brought her recognition. She made four short wave broadcasts interpreting Germany to the United States during June, 1933. She wrote the script for commercial programs presented over the radio by the powerful dye trust, the I. G. Farben Industrie.

Though she hated Nazi repressive policies against the Jews—"making them appear as criminal all over the world," she called it today—it was the blood purge of last June 30 that sickened her.

Hears of "Purge."

"On June 30, I was in Rostock," she said. "I was sitting with some friends in a rathskeller, eating dinner, when suddenly we heard through the radio that all those people had been killed.

"The reaction was weird. There was a weak 'Heil, Hitler,' from one corner of the room, and then the others joined in as if they had to. I talked to a farmer from Mecklenburg who was at the hotel on some business.

"'Well,' he said, very reluctantly, 'I suppose Hitler knew what he was doing. Our Fuehrer knows best. . . .'

"'But, after all,' I asked, 'didn't Hitler know what Roehm was doing?'"

Notorious Ernst Roehm, in command of the Nazi storm troops, was one of from 30 to 100—or possibly more—executed in that sudden purge.

The famous "burning of the books," when all the writings of authors proscribed by the Nazis were fed to the flames in a Berlin square, left her wondering.

Sees Books Burned.

"I was there in the opera place when the books were burned," she recalled. "The flames were crackling, and in their light the faces of all the fanatical people could be seen.

"Goebbels was screaming, 'Now we throw Emil Ludwig Cohn and his works into the flames. Now we throw . . .

"The man in front of me whirled around to me and hissed: 'Verdam' noch mal!' that means 'Twice damned.'

"And then I met a man who was a so-called organizer, a public speaker in a section of the ministry of propaganda, a Dr. Eckhart. Now he is the second in command of the Nazi anti-Christian movement.

"He hated the Jews. He hated them because a Jew once took a girl away from him. He pushed his attentions on me. I asked him if he had ever gone out with Jewish girls.

"'Yes,' he replied, 'but one doesn't take Jewesses seriously. One uses them and then throws them aside. When one marries, one marries a German girl.'"

The whispering system which ensnared Miss Steele is simplicity itself, she revealed. As a case in point, she cited a Jew who collaborated with a gentile in writing a scenario which was sold under the gentile's name.

All an enemy of his had to do was to call up and report this fact. Promptly, the Jew was called in by the police; reprimanded, and then sent out of the country.

[More of Miss Steele's exciting experiences will be related soon in The Tribune.]

He was charged with causing the death of Mrs. Loretta Devine Wilson, 19.

Her unclad body was found on Monday in the woods near Port Jefferson, New York. The doctor denies the charge.

She was married last February to William Wilson, a truckman. Death was caused by an illegal operation, the prosecutor declares. Wilson said he arranged with the physician to perform such an operation. Wilson confronted Dr. Becker today and said a woman had referred his wife to Dr. Becker and he accompanied Mrs. Wilson to the doctor's office Dec. 17, arranging to return there Dec. 19 and pay the doctor $50. Wilson said when he returned from work Dec. 19 his wife was missing. Dr. Becker, he said, told him Mrs. Widson had not called to keep her appointment.

POLICE CAPTURE FACTORY SEIZED BY 370 STRIKERS

SALONIKI, Greece, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A strike of 370 workers who had imprisoned themselves in a British owned tobacco factory for 14 days ended today after police broke down a wall to force entrance into the building.

The authorities said they found the workers operating under a communist organization, with a soviet in charge of the strike activities and commissars controling the food supply, which evidently had been smuggled in from outside.

The workers submitted peacefully to police demands that they evacuate the factory, but several of the communist leaders clashed with the officers before the situation was brought under control. The workers said they were terrorized by the communists and compelled to barricade themselves in the building.

CALL CHILD'S SLAYER NEW, BAFFLING TYPE IN MENTAL STUDIES

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Three well known psychiatrists agreed today that Albert H. Fish, confessed slayer of Grace Budd and suspected in five other child slayings, is an example of a newly identified and most horrible type of psychopathic killer.

"His type, the neurotic, a typical lust murderer with extreme sado-masochistic tendencies, is the most baffling type, from the public frame of mind, for he is completely disarming. He is shrewd, yet timid. Nobody would suspect him of aggressive tendencies," said Dr. Walter Bromberg of the Bellevue hospital medical staf, two of whose members concurred in the report.

Dr. Bromberg, who examined Fish at the hospital in 1931, believes his case shows a need for a change in the attitude of the state in regard to such examinations. Fish and many others of his type are known to be dangerous when examined.

"The only thing the psychiatrist can do is determine whether or not such a man, legally, is insane. That test is simply whether or not the man knows the difference between right and wrong. Fish is sane by this definition."

MRS. CUSACK SAFE IN TEXAS WITH HER 3 BOYS

Culver, Tex., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Determined to keep her three children, Mrs. Ann Hamilton Cusack asserted today a theft charge brought against her by her estranged husband was "only a legal trick to return me to California."

Mrs. Cusack and the three boys arrived here several days ago from Beverly Hills, Cal., to spend the holidays at the home of her parents, Charles Edmund Cusack, broker and member of a Chicago family, followed her as far as El Paso before abandoning the pursuit and returning to the Pacific coast.

"I took nothing whatsoever from the home," she said today.

COURT UPHOLDS MOODIE ELECTION IN NORTH DAKOTA

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The State Supreme court today assured inauguration of Governor Elect Thomas H. Moodie when it vacated an order preventing issuance to him of a certificate of election.

The proceedings, which questioned Moodie's right to office on the ground he had not lived in North Dakota five consecutive years preceding his election as required by the state constitution, came to the high court on an appeal from the District court.

The District court had granted a temporary order restraining the secretary of state from issuing a certificate of election to Moodie, and subsequently vacated it. P. O. Sathre, state attorney general, who brought the proceedings, instituted the appeal.

Penn Maryland Regal Brand Blended Whiskey
Penn Maryland Imperial Brand Blended Whiskey
Penn Maryland De Luxe Brand Blended Bourbon Whiskey

Regal
Imperial and De Luxe (Rye and Bourbon)

Ad Man Admits Words Can't Do Justice to this Mellow Old-Time Type of Blend

"YOUR PALATE alone must be the infallible judge of PENN MARYLAND'S goodness," he says. "Words don't mean a thing if the whiskey doesn't please you with its smoothness, mellowness, rich round taste." . . . May we suggest that the most convincing proof any man could ask for, is waiting for you at the nearest dealer's. And may we remind you that PENN MARYLAND WHISKEY is the type that was famous before the war—a skillful blend of six-year-old whiskey with the finest grain neutral spirits*. . . Produced under the supervision of National Distillers, America's greatest distilling organization, these whiskies are the answer to the most insistent demand since Repeal—a pre-war type of blend at a moderate price. Why not try a bottle today?

*Grain neutral spirits are traditionally recognized as the most perfect blending medium known to the distilling art. They possess the unique power of bringing out the fine flavor and delicate bouquet of the six-year-old whiskey with which they are blended to create PENN MARYLAND.

SAAR FRONTIER IS SEALED SHUT TILL AFTER VOTE

Plebiscite Body Acts to Bar Trouble Makers.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin territory, Dec. 27.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—The Saar frontier was closed last midnight until after the plebiscite on Jan. 13 as the league of nations plebiscite commission moved dramatically to exclude possible troublemakers from the territory.

The first international trains subjected to the new strict control were the Frankfort-Paris sleepers due in the Saar shortly after midnight. Passports and customs men were assigned the task of shutting the border tightly, but troops may be called out if needed.

The commission's orders provided that the border stay closed until Jan. 26 to all except persons able to prove they have urgent business in the Saar, or are merely traveling through the territory.

Hopes to Provide Beds for Voters.

The commission, besides using the restriction as an aid in preserving order, hopes it will also relieve the acute housing shortage so that beds will be available for the 50,000 voters expected to arrive from other lands for the plebiscite.

Simultaneously with the closing of the border at midnight and the end of the Christmas truce that kept the basin quiet over the holidays, Nazis and anti-Nazis planned to reopen their propaganda campaigns, the former urging the basin's return to Germany, the latter union with France or retention of league of nations control.

Special Permits Needed.

Under today's decree foreigners, including Germans and Frenchmen, must have special permits from Geoffrey G. Knox, head of the governing commission, which may be obtained only by sending their passports to Saarbruecken and explaining why they want to visit the basin. Passport offices have been jammed for four days as foreigners already here sought permits to remain.

Saarlanders who leave the territory also need identification cards to return home. French laborers working in the Saar and Saarlanders working in France will be given special green cards, while Germans living within six miles of the border may pass the nearest frontier control point by identifying themselves.

For the last week and more trains arriving in Saarbruecken have been one to two hours late as the frontier inspection gradually was tightened.

2 SENT TO PRISON FOR EXTORTION IN BADGER GAME

Lloyd Coates and Edward Grady were sentenced to serve two years each in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth by Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday for their part in the plot to extort money by means of a "badger game" from Charles P. Morton, wealthy shoe manufacturer of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Mary Coates, wife of Lloyd who had been placed on trial with the two on the conspiracy charge, was discharged by Judge Holly at the end of the trial two weeks ago. It was brought out in the hearing of the case that her acquaintance with Morton began while she was employed as a manicurist in a Cincinnati barber shop. Her husband broke into a room at the Congress hotel last summer and found them there. Grady, who accompanied Coates, represented himself as a government agent and threatened to place a federal charge against Morton.

Judge Holly Over Illness; Sets Piquett Trial Jan. 8

Federal Judge William H. Holly returned to his court yesterday after an absence of several days because of a cold. His first order was to set Jan. 8 as the trial date in the case of Attorney Louis Piquett and his codefendants, who are charged with having harbored John Dillinger. This date had been agreed upon by the government prosecutors and the defense lawyers last week, and Judge Holly's order gave approval to that date. Judge Holly fixed Jan. 2 for the hearing of any preliminary defense motions.

WRIT TO FREE TWO WITNESSES IN BUS MURDER SOUGHT

State Against Release of 2 Who Confessed.

The state may find it difficult to retain in custody two principal witnesses in the case of twenty-nine defendants charged with conspiracy and murder growing out of the recent bus strike violence. This became apparent yesterday when a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for their release was filed by Attorney William Scott Stewart before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

The two men named in the petition are Lloyd Slee and Wayne Hoover. Slee is allaged to have made a confession relating that he was head of the south side slugging crew during the bus strike and is said to have named others who were connected with the violence. Hoover, reputed to have been a member of his squad, is also alleged to have made a statement.

Stewart Cloaks Intentions.

The two were indicted with twenty-seven others and have been held in the special quarters set aside for state witnesses on the fifth floor of the administration building of the county jail.

Mr. Stewart's only comment on his action was that the "boys may be getting tired of their fancy quarters."

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, the prosecutor in the case, admitted that the two are important witnesses and that the state would oppose their release. Judge Sullivan ordered a hearing on the petition at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

It could not be learned last night whether the two prisoners authorized the habeas corpus action in their behalf with the intention of refusing at the trial to take the witness stand against the others or whether they still meant to go through with their original plan to appear as the state's star witnesses.

Figures in the Case.

Included in the group of defendants are William Taber, secretary, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary, of the street car men's local of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America. Also a defendant is Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the newly formed bus union, another local of the Amalgamated.

The murder indictments are based on the deaths of James Kelly, a bus dispatcher, who died from a beating by sluggers, and Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, who was struck by a slingshot pellet while a passenger on a bus.

Judge William V. Brothers will hear preliminary arguments tomorrow and will set at that time the date for trial.

FINED $600 ON GIRLS' COMPLAINT.

Bruno Kane, 27 years old, 1936 North Kedvale avenue, a clerk, was fined $600 and costs by Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten in the Fillmore street court yesterday on three charges of improper conduct toward a woman and two small girls last Sunday in the Humboldt park district.

CLASH ON VOTE FOR $38,498,990 NEW YORK CASH

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The board of estimate today appropriated $38,498,990 for work and home relief for January and February during a stormy session. President Bernard S. Deutsch of the board of aldermen pressed his demand for $25,000 to investigate the administering of the funds. The sum granted is the largest two months' appropriation for relief ever made by the board. The board of estimates also passed the appropriation measure.

Mr. Deutsch's resolution, adopted by the board of aldermen, and requesting the funds for the inquiry, was opposed by Mayor La Guardia.

"A great deal of misinformation has been developed during your investigation thus far," the mayor told Mr. Deutsch.

Mr. Deutsch then defended the testimony developed by his inquiry, and attacked Carl Anderson, head of the food and clothing bureau of the department of public welfare.

Anderson aroused protests by testimony that 11,000,000 pounds of veal, stored in the Bronx market, could not be distributed to the needy because the machines couldn't cut that meat.

"That veal was not spoiled!" shouted Edmund Butler, secretary of the Emergency Relief bureau.

"We did not charge it was spoiled," Mr. Deutsch shouted. "We brought out a lack of coöperation."

Orders Jane Emery Newton to Move Out or Pay Fine

Judge Thomas A. Green in the Renters' court yesterday ordered Mrs. Jane Emery Newton, former University of Michigan co-ed and wife of a colored communist, to obey an eviction order by this morning or pay a $200 fine. Mrs. Newton and her husband, Herbert, moved their furniture back into an apartment at 615 Oakwood boulevard after they had been evicted for failure to pay rent.

BURNS KILL TWO; CLOTHING SHOWS NO SIGN OF FIRE

Mystery Deaths Occur in Different Cities.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The strange death of Cornelius Vanderveen, 56, found fatally burned, although his clothes were unscorched, grew more baffling today.

Neil Devries, 71, who said he was with Vanderveen when he died, told officials that he had predicted two days ago that death was close to Vanderveen. Devries said "second sight" often had told when friends were going to die.

Devries is being held until his story is investigated further. He first led the police to the shabby two room house on the outskirts of this city where Vanderveen had resided.

Says He Found Dying Friend.

Devries' account of the death was that he found Vanderveen half dazed lying fully clothed across a bed. Blood was flowing from a wound in the forehead. Vanderveen died before he could dress the wound, Devries said.

What puzzled authorities was how the burns could have been suffered without Vanderveen's clothing showing some sign of them. Coroner Harmon C. Wolfe said it would have been impossible for any one burned so severely to pull tight fitting underwear such as Vanderveen's over the wounds. Death, he said, was due to shock from the burns.

Held in Similar Mystery.

Clinton, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—John Trupy, 40, was held by police for questioning today in connection with the death last night of his mother, Mrs. Mary Trupy, 79. She was burned to death, although there was no indication of a fire.

County officials are investigating. Their first information of the strange death came at midnight when another son, Rudolph, called a local undertaker to the Trupy home in Fairview Park. The undertaker notified the sheriff's office.

Couple Escapes Death When Car Plunges to River

Morris, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. William Spellisy escaped death today when their auto plunged through the side of the bridge at Channah over the I. & M. canal and Des Plaines river and dove to water 20 feet below. The car remained upright and landed on its wheels almost across the canal in four feet of water. The couple alighted, waded ashore, and were not seriously injured. The car was only slightly damaged.

REP. FISH LAUDS U. S. 'POLICY OF PROGRESS' IN LATIN-AMERICA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Praise for the administration's Latin-American program was given tonight by Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.], frequent critic of the New Deal policies.

Fish, ranking minority member of the foreign affairs committee, said in a statement upon his return from a Caribbean trip:

"As one who differs with many of the unsound, unworkable and socialistic policies of the present Democratic administration, I am glad to uphold its well considered program of peace, progress and prosperity toward Cuba and all Central and South American countries."

"OLDSMOBILE believes You Are Entitled to ALL that is new and better"

OLDSMOBILE will soon announce two brand new cars—a new and bigger Six, and a new and bigger Eight.

These new Oldsmobiles, we are confident, will set the new streamline style in motor cars for 1935.

They will introduce new features of design and structure, assuring greater roominess and comfort, greater safety, greater power, and greater economy.

Their prices will be low.

But over and above all other considerations, the new Oldsmobiles will be characterized first to last, outside and in, through and through, by Oldsmobile Quality!

Everything which a car must have to be new, modern and valuable—the new Oldsmobile will have.

Everything which the public has a right to expect because it is better—you will find here in full measure—nothing scanted or skimped, nothing left out.

Automotive engineering and body construction have made great progress in the last 12 months. As a unit of General Motors, Oldsmobile has had the full benefit of this progress. The largest resources of research have been at Oldsmobile's command, and freely used. The severest and fullest proving, Oldsmobile cars have undergone and profited by.

True to its traditional ideals of quality, Oldsmobile in 1935 retains every good feature which made its cars doubly popular in 1934 . . . retains every good feature—and adds many important new betterments for 1935.

Instead of giving you LESS value, Oldsmobile proposes to give you MORE!

For example, the new Oldsmobile will offer the extra safety of the new solid-steel "Turret-Top" Body by Fisher with No Draft Ventilation.

The new Oldsmobile will have engineered and built-in Knee-Action, with Ride Stabilizer and Center-Control Steering.

The new Oldsmobile will have bigger Super-Hydraulic Brakes.

The new Oldsmobile will perform with increased operating economy—the new Six, for example, delivers 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline at 50 miles per hour!

The new Oldsmobile will provide the advantages and conveniences of such thoroughly-tested and highly-prized features as Syncro-Mesh All-Silent Gear-Shifting, X-Type Safety Frame and Rifle-Drilled Connecting Rods.

All these qualities and features are here because Oldsmobile believes you are entitled to all that is new and better.

No car is completely modern unless it has ALL these features. See the new Oldsmobile as soon as it is on display.

ITALO-ETHIOPIAN QUARREL SEEN AS BATTLE OVER OIL

Two More Protests Filed with League.

GENEVA, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Zeal for acquisition of valuable oil fields was seen here tonight as likely to increase the friction between Italy and Ethiopia. Rome and Addis Ababa today added two more notes to the league of nations' growing file of documents relating to their disagreement.

The two communications gave directly contradictory versions of the events along the Ethiopian-Italian Somaliland border which have embittered the relations between the two countries.

Both Charge Aggression.

A message from the Ethiopian government termed the situation "increasingly serious" and charged Italian troops with occupying Ethiopian towns.

Rome's statement bluntly denied the accusations and in turn asserted that Ethiopia had committed "an act of flagrant aggression."

Meanwhile, reports received here told of the discovery of oil districts in the controverted area, which the Ethiopian press was said to be describing as partly responsible for the dispute.

Italy, in its message, emphatically denied troops have advanced into Ethiopian territory. The Italian note said Italy is "ready to resume work for the demarcation of Somaliland and the Ethiopian frontier" as soon as the Ethiopian government shall have furnished reparations for its acts.

Trouble Elsewhere.

League circles pondered troublesome situations on two other fronts, one of them the league's plan for termination of the hostilities in the Chaco Boreal. Paraguayan victories, it was pointed out, have placed its forces in an extremely advantageous position which the Bolivians assert will give them possession of the oil regions.

Meanwhile, the league received a formal protest from Persia against Iraq's allegations that Persian forces had swept across the frontier. Persia's reply said she would attend the session of the league council next month to present her views on the Iraq protest.

2 SENT TO JAIL FOR FRAUD IN YULE CHARITY

Richard Nesbit, 38 years old, and Joseph Cahill, 37 years old, were sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell, and Edward Gault, 28 years old, was placed on probation for one year by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday for fraud in connection with Mayor Kelly's Christmas basket fund. The three were arrested last week when a check for $50, made payable by Attorney H. Cutler of the law firm of Chapman & Cutler to Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the fund, was returned by the bank because of improper indorsement. It was then learned that Col. Sprague's indorsement had been forged.

Montreal Churches Cancel Midnight New Year's Mass

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 26.—There will be no midnight masses in Roman Catholic churches in Montreal on New Year's eve. This was announced today. A tradition dating back practically to Montreal's founding will be broken by the change. No reason was given for the cancellation of this time honored custom, but it is understood to be because in recent years so many attended the masses out of curiosity and not from religious motives.

Philippine Mountain Tribe Goes on Warpath; 21 Killed

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Twenty-one Filipinos were killed when fanatic mountain tribesmen went on the warpath on the Island of Mindanao, advices to philippine constabulary headquarters here today said. Sixteen of the dead were members of the mountain tribe, killed when they attacked a constabulary camp. The other five were villagers murdered by the jungle warriors.

ILLINOIS TEACHERS' CONVENTION OPENS WITH 800 ATTENDING

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—With approximately 800 teachers, principals, and school officials from all parts of the state in attendance, the eighty-first annual convention of the Illinois State Teachers' association convened tonight. The session, which will continue through Friday, has "education for social insurance" as its general theme.

The principal speech at the opening session tonight was made by the association's retiring president, State Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Ogleby], who served notice that he will support legislation in the regular session of the Illinois general assembly, beginning in January, calling for a 1 per cent limitation on property tax.

This announcement came as direct variance with the recommendations of the association's legislative committee which has gone on record as favoring creation of new taxes with a property tax limitation as secondary.

BRUCE ACKERMAN WINS ILLINOIS SPELLING TEST

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Defeating fifty-five county champions, Bruce Ackerman, 12, schoolboy of Morton, Tazewell county, won first honors today in the annual state spelling contest. The contest was held in the state senate chambers.

Young Ackerman spelled correctly 346 words. He missed four. His failures were "quizzes," "grimace," "patios," and "microscopy."

James Richardson, pupil of a rural school near Springfield, was second, with Marjorie Colaw of Canton, third. The Richardson boy broke a tie by spelling "microscopy" properly. All of the three place winners misspelled "patios."

Others and the order in which they finished were: Fourth, Johanna Mayoras, Westville, Vermilion county; fifth, Eva Pavelick, West Frankfort, Franklin county; sixth, Lillian Guemmer, New Holland, Logan county; seventh, Lavere Frank, Paxton, Ford county; eighth, Dana Stewart, Princeville, Peoria county.

The words were presented in groups of ten. Those proving most difficult were: Incandescent, hydrophobia, peculiarities, mischievous, erroneous, renovate, dissipated, appendicitis, besiege, simultaneous, and parentheses.

4 U.S. SCIENTISTS ADRIFT FIVE DAYS; BATTLE THIRST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 26.—Four companions of Potter D'Orsay Palmer of Chicago in a scientific expedition reached Tawao, Borneo, after five days without water drifting in a disabled small boat in Celebes sea, according to a message received here today. They made port after repairing one cylinder of the boat's motor.

The scientists, Lawrence T. G. Griswold of Quincy, Mass.; William H. Harkness of New York; Legrand Griswold, and G. C. E. Tate, went to Jolo in the southern Philippines a month ago to make an ethnological and photographic tour. Thty chartered a small boat for visits to points in the Philippines and also the Dutch East Indies. Palmer remained in Manila.

Their trip to the south was of secondary importance for the expedition was principally aimed at securing specimens of the giant panda, a raccoon-like carnivore of tht Himalayas. It has a white face, reddish brown fur and black legs, with stripes about the eyes giving the appearance of spectacles.

It is planned to go to Szechwan province, China, to secure the specimens for both the New York Zoological garden and the Smithsonian institution at Washington. There are now no live pandas on exhibit in the United States.

The expedition left New York last September in a seventy-two ton fishing schooner, went to Central America and photographed Maya Indian tribal rites and landed on Nov. 1 in Manila. The party intended also to trace the migrations of the Polynesians in the south seas.

Color Photos of Blood Cells, Germs Exhibited to Science

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP)—First photographs of germs and blood cells in their natural colors—colored pictures of the invisible that give doctors a speedy new aid to diagnosing and studying diseases—were exhibited today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Another feat, penetrating the human body to photograph both disease conditions and the progress of treatments with infra-red rays, the same kind used recently to make airplane photos of cities and other distant objects through obscuring haze, was shown in the same exhibit, sponsored by the Biological Photographic association.

Formerly Hand Colored.

Colored pictures of germs and other microscopic objects have been known before, but they were ordinarily black and white photographs colored by hand. By the new process the bacteria and blood cells are photographed in their actual colors, enabling scientists to distinguish between different types of bacteria that look the same in black and white photographs, and to watch behavior of the white blood cells and how they are attacking disease germs in the blood.

The color photos are more accurate and much faster than the old method of coloring by hand, and any picture can be reproduced as many times as desired. They were made at the Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium at Norwich, Conn.

The infra-red rays penetrate the body just as they pierce haze, making photographs of things the eye cannot see, and which cameras ordinarily could not catch. They show, for example, the unhealthy enlargement of all the veins in a man's body from shoulders to hips, invisible in ordinary photographs, and later can show whether the same veins are responding well to treatment.

Special Camera Plates.

The penetrating infra-red photos are made with special camera plates, sensitive only to the long wave, invisible red rays of light, and color filters that allow only the infra-red rays to come through to the plate.

Another use of infra-red ray photographs, to reveal the actual extent of lesions or diseased areas in the body much more accurately than ordinary photographs, also was shown. These pictures are flashlights, but use only infra-red light.

A new method of accurately diagnosing nerve troubles by photographing sections of fresh, frozen nerve tissue with another special kind of light—polarized light—was demonstrated in the exhibit. This shows at a glance whether nerves are being injured because of a diet lacking in vitamin A, the growth and longevity vitamin.

Polarized Light Used.

Tiny sections of degenerating nerves show large black streaks when photographed under the microscope with polarized light—light rays that are rotated into a different plane or angle than ordinary light.

In this way a degenerating nerve can be distinguished at a glance from normal nerves. The method was developed during the last year at Ohio State university. Scientists think it may revolutionize the study of sick nerves.

SCIENTISTS FIND BRAINS OF ALL MEN ARE EQUAL

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Prof. L. J. Pines and a group of specialists at the Bekhtereff Brain institute today exploded the theory that the brains of backward peoples are essentially different from those of the more advanced races.

The scientists announced the results of their investigations following a study of the brains of 600 persons, including those of various races as well as those of 100 outstanding individuals.

Prof. Pines said variations in brains found in one race are also met in others and the scientists could not tell from the structure of the brain to what race the person belonged.

Here's Better Control for Those Miserable Colds So Prevalent Here Now

With Flu Increasing in Many Sections, Authorities Urge Extra Precaution Against Colds

WHILE there is no immediate cause for alarm over reports of Flu, health authorities urge every one to take special precautions against the spread of colds just now. Colds pull down body resistance and often pave the way for Flu and other serious ills such as Bronchitis and Pneumonia. Don't take chances. Avoid all colds possible. Treat every cold promptly. For greatest safety and protection follow the simple rules of health and use the medication provided in the famous Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. Briefly, the Plan is this:

To Help PREVENT Colds

At that first warning sneeze or nasal irritation, quick! . . . use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed to aid and gently stimulate the functions which Nature has provided—in the nose—to prevent colds and to throw off other colds in their early stages.

To Help END a Cold Sooner

If a cold has already developed, use Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds. Just rub on at bedtime. Its direct two-way action—by Stimulation and Inhalation—loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

(Note—For Added Protection—Especially when Flu is in the air, it is a wise precaution to gargle night and morning with VICKS VORATONE ANTISEPTIC. Voratone is a balanced mouth-wash—powerful enough to dilute, safe to use full strength, pleasant to the taste.)

Follow Vicks Plan for better CONTROL of Colds

SOMETHING has happened out in Broad Ford, Pennsylvania, that you ought to know about before New Year's.

Out of the bonded warehouse there—now comes the first bonded Old Overholt since repeal!

Four years, says the U. S. Government, is the time a whiskey must ripen in charred oak casks, before it can win that official seal of approval, the federal bottled-in-bond stamp.

Four years had passed at the beginning of last summer. But knowing the extra ripeness and richness which summers give to rye, we deliberately waited until now to give this famed old Pennsylvania rye the special excellence of an additional summer.

And you'll taste the extra goodness this extra aging has given—as will those who are fortunate enough to be your guests or join your table on New Year's Eve.

BLAME LOVE TRIANGLE AFTER 3 KILLINGS, SUICIDE

Suitor Slays Husband, Wife and Daughter.

Tuscola, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A love triangle was blamed today for a triple murder and a suicide that claimed the lives of one family and a reputed suitor late yesterday following a day of Christmas celebration.

The dead are Willard Harris, 60; his wife, 27; their daughter, Wilma, 6, and Pearl Ford, a widower and a former Douglas county deputy sherif. Ford is said to have killed the others and then killed himself.

Seeks Christmas Supper.

The shooting occurred in the Harris home when Ford, who is alleged to have been drinking, went there armed with a .32 automatic. Police were told that Ford, who had taken Mrs. Harris on automobile rides, intended to have her prepare him a Christmas supper of oysters.

An ensuing quarrel reached a climax when Ford fired. Harris was shot three times, his wife five, and their daughter once. Then Ford lay down beside Mrs. Harris and fired a bullet into his own head.

The Harris child lived until she reached the nearby home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Berry. They summoned the local authorities, who found the other bodies.

Mother Kills Son and Self.

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Pausing in the survey of Christmas presents today, Mrs. Stella Adams took her 11 year old son upstairs, killed him and then herself. She was said to have been despondent over ill health.

A radio program, played loudly, prevented the shots from being heard by her husband, Ezra Adams, or his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams. They were seated in the living room of the Adams home in a suburb of Mount Braddock. The husband later crawled through a window and found the bodies. He had been unable to open the barred door.

Five Victims in Family Buried.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The bodies of Walter Dempsey and his four sons, shot to death as they slept last Sunday by Dempsey's sister, Mrs. Kathryn Schoch, were lowered side by side into a grave today while buglers sounded taps.

Hundreds lined the streets for the funeral procession from St. Theresa's Roman Catholic church to the cemetery. The Rev. Father August H. Schoppel sobbed as he preached the funeral sermon. Robert Dempsey, 12, had been one of his altar boys.

Mrs. Clara Dempsey, mother of the dead boys, is in a hospital recovering from a bullet wound. She was shot in the head at the time the other five members of her family were slain.

The body of Mrs. Schoch, who killed herself at the conclusion of the shootings, believed to have been caused by her despondency over the death of a son a month ago, was taken to her home at Dunkirk, N. Y., for burial.

Falls on Icy Street; Shot by Own Pistol and Dies

Fergus Falls, Minn., Dec. 26.—(AP)—H. H. True, 42, Ottertail merchant, fell on an icy street Christmas day. A pistol in his pocket discharged, the bullet striking him. He died a few hours later.

Wichita, Kas., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Despite his avowals that his bride of two days shot herself during a drunken quarrel last night, Chester Gideon, 22 year old prize fighter, was being held by police today in connection with the death.

Gideon and his bride, Opal, 25, caused a furore in Chicago on Thanksgiving day when their seizure by federal agents caused the circulation of reports that the officers had captured John Hamilton, machine gunner for the John Dillinger mob, and the wife of George [Baby Face] Nelson. The Gideons were released after the agents had questioned them concerning a number of crimes.

Coroner G. C. Davis, who will hold an inquest here tomorrow, said it would have been a physical impossibility for the girl to have inflicted the bullet wound found in her left side. However, her father, George Crapo, in whose home the shooting occurred, said she had been despondent over some recent newspaper stories about her.

"We had just finished eating, and my wife and I were having some kind of an argument," Gideon told police. "We were also so drunk I don't even remember what it was about. She got up and went to the dresser. Then she said 'good-bye' and the next thing I knew she was lying on the floor. I didn't even see her draw a gun."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Youthful Bandit, Wounded by Policeman, Dead

Albert Petrylak, 21 years old, of 4954 South Avers avenue, who was shot Christmas morning by Acting Lieut. John S. McCarthy of the New City police, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital, despite an emergency operation. Lieut. McCarthy shot the youthful bandit when he attempted to hold up the tavern of Anthony Zigmuntowicz, at 4321 South Marshfield avenue.

CLUB SPONSORS TALKS IN FIGHT AGAINST CANCER

Women Urged to Learn Truth About Disease.

A series of talks on cancer, its cause, treatment and cure, designed for lay persons, particularly women, will be sponsored by the Chicago Woman's club through its cancer research committee, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, chairman of the committee.

The first will be at 11 o'clock next Thursday morning, in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, when Dr. James F. Simonds, professor of pathology, Northwestern university medical school, will speak. His subject will be "What Is Cancer? Its Biology and Pathology, Its Cause."

Four Talks Planned.

"All women interested in obtaining accurate and scientific information on cancer are invited to attend," according to the announcement issued by the club. Four additional talks on cancer are scheduled by the club committee. Dr. Harry A. Oberhelman, assistant clinical professor of surgery, Rush Medical college, will lecture at the same hour on Jan. 10 on "How Is Cancer Recognized?"

Dr. Max Cutler, director of the tumor clinic at Michael Reese hospital, will discuss "Present Status of the Treatment of Cancer. Possibilities of Cure" when he speaks before club members and other women Jan. 17.

Discuss Fight for Control.

"Organized Movements for the Control of Cancer in the United States" will be the subject of an address by Dr. Bowman C. Crowell, associate director, American College of Surgeons, Jan. 24.

The final address of the series will be by Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, director of the John McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases, on Jan. 31. He will speak on "Cancer Research: What Has Been Accomplished? Lines of Research for the Future."

PRINTER DIES OF POISON.

George Foreman, 35 years old, 520 North Wells street, a printer, died in the County hospital yesterday from poison which he refused to say was taken accidentally or with suicidal intent.

No more furnace muss in this basement! The Schuylers have put it to much better use. This cozy, comfortable basement room has been made possible by gas heat.

"Gas heat has added a new room to our home —in the basement"

Read how easily gas heat converted an ordinary basement into a fine recreation room in the home of A. L. Schuyler, Jr., 114 North Catherine Street, La Grange, Illinois.

The Schuyler children—A. L. III and Bettie, have a fine place to play now. "Clean!" exclaims Mrs. Schuyler, "Why, my little girl's playroom is right where the coal bin used to be. I've even hung drapes right alongside the furnace."

"GAS HEAT has given us another room for work and play," say the Schuylers. "The children practically live in it. They have their toys there and can play to their hearts' content." The Schuylers of La Grange can tell you how much pleasure gas heat has given them. And like the Schuylers, there are thousands of other gas heat users who are realizing that gas heat brings countless advantages never possible with old methods of heating. Basements are no longer bins for fuel and kindling. They perform a useful purpose. Give real comfort and satisfaction instead of causing labor and expense.

Gas heat will do these things for you. It will rid you of all furnace worries. No shoveling, no back-breaking labor, no hauling of ashes. It will help keep your house clean, free from dust and soot and dirt. It will give you constant, even heat, no matter how quickly the weather may change. All you do is set the thermostat once and your heating worries are over. Gas heat will save you money on cleaning and decorating bills because rugs and curtains, walls and furnishings stay clean much longer.

You invest nothing to try gas heat

If you'd like to have all these advantages in your home, then don't delay. Investigate our liberal offer to try gas heat. You don't invest one cent for equipment. Tell us you'd like to try gas heat and here's what we'll do. We'll install it in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You try it for a month, two months or a year. While you are trying it you pay a small monthly rental—only $3 for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If at any time within the year you find that you don't like gas heat, we'll take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat—as thousands have done—then the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act now for gas heat

Take advantage of this liberal offer. Call your nearest gas company office at once. Now is the time when you'll really appreciate clean, trouble-free, automatic heat. Your gas company office will furnish you with complete details of this trial plan and with a free estimate of what it will cost to heat your home with gas.

GAS SERVICE HAS 84-YEAR RECORD

Gas service was turned on for the first time in Chicago on September 4, 1850. There were 125 customers for the new company—also 99 street lamps and the city's one public building to be lighted by gas. Since that evening 84 years ago, gas service has continued without interruption in Chicago.

Eighty-four years have brought great changes. The little 4-mile gas main of 1850 has grown into a 3,735-mile distributing system. The city now uses as much gas in one hour as it did in the entire first year, 1850-51. Constant research and experiment fostered by the management, plus the conscientious efforts of 4,000 employes, have brought improvements in service that have given Chicago a gas service unexcelled anywhere in the world.

This service has been a factor in the growth and development of Chicago and our aim is to make it an increasingly potent factor.

You Invest Nothing To Try Gas Heat!

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense, remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

Every day the list of satisfied gas heat users grows. Always, as in the case of the Schuyler home, when gas heat is installed it brings with it new pleasures, chases out furnace drudgery.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT FINANCES.

It is difficult to be a good citizen in Cook county. To be a good citizen a man or woman must have something more than good intentions and intelligence. He must have facts upon which his intelligence can operate and some of those facts are singularly difficult to obtain.

The reference is to the financial positions of the various local governments. Cook county and its subdivisions are probably no worse in this respect than most other large communities, but that does not excuse the lack of adequate financial reporting.

Each of the local governments should publish weekly or monthly statements of its condition, which would be genuinely informative. As matters stand, the citizen who reads that the county treasurer has collected only two-thirds of the real estate taxes and half of the personal property taxes is left to wonder whether, when the revenues were divided up among the governments, there was enough to meet the expenditures. Without that information it is not only difficult, it is impossible, to judge whether the elected officials are conducting their offices satisfactorily.

There is reason to think that not even the officials themselves are always adequately informed of the financial standing of the governments for which they are responsible. That accounts, in part, for the confusion which often prevails at this time of the year when the budgets are being prepared. The cutting of appropriations is resisted because there is no widespread appreciation of the need for retrenchment: demands for additional appropriations are supported for the same reason. Estimates of revenue are sometimes tendered which are fanciful, but the extent to which they are exaggerated is not generally appreciated because of the absence of any background of experience upon which a sounder judgment might be based.

THE TRIBUNE will gladly give space to the publication of reliable statements of the financial conditions of the principal governments. It will also cooperate in the preparation of a uniform accounting form, if that is desired.

A DEBT NOT PAID.

The passing of Joseph B. Sanborn from the human scene in which he was so long a gallant figure illustrates again the proverb of the ingratitude of republics. Gen. Sanborn from his early manhood served with special devotion and ability the cause of national defense. His contribution to the morale and the military efficiency of the citizen soldier was outstanding, and when he was put to the test in war he gave an example of soldierly ability and heroism which will shine in the annals of American arms.

In spite of the great debt owed to him for his long and efficient service in the Guard, and in spite of a fighting record culminating in the great war with a brilliant valor which impressed other governments if not his own, he was not given the honor he so conspicuously deserved. Decorations came to him, but not the star of the general officer until after the war, when he was made a brigade commander and later divisional commander of the reorganized state Guard, from which he was retired with the rank of lieutenant general. It was in battle that he had proved to admiration his high military qualities and it was on the battlefield that he should have been given recognition by the national government. His country owed him much. The debt should have been loyally and promptly paid in the only form he would have valued, the coin of honor.

IS WISCONSIN ANXIOUS FOR A DEBT?

The greatest insurance of Wisconsin's solvency has been the wise prohibition written into the state's constitution forbidding a state debt. That safeguard has plagued many an administration which had ambitious schemes to spend more money than it could raise.

Word now comes from Madison that one of the first acts of the new administration is to try to get rid of the debt restriction on the basis that more money must be raised for relief.

There never has been a time since the constitution was written when politicians could not make a good case and offer plausible reasons for the amendment of the document. Likewise there never has been a time when it was more necessary than at present that the provisions which have carried the state up to the present with only a nominal state debt should be upheld.

The section provides the state shall never contract any public debt except that it may borrow money to defend itself in war, repel invasions, suppress insurrection, and defray extraordinary expenses which shall never exceed $100,000 in the aggregate.

There is a second check in the constitution which forbids cities, counties, towns, and villages from borrowing more than 5 per cent of the value of their taxable property.

Even with this fixed limit the debts of these political subdivisions now aggregate around $180,000,000, with an annual cost of about $38,000,000 for interest and sinking fund. If the constitution is amended to permit the state itself to borrow money the voters can, without question, look for a large and immediate increase in this debt.

These provisions have served for more than three-quarters of a century as safeguards against public extravagance and protection against excessive taxation.

The constitution cannot be amended without the approval of the people in a referendum. Before being asked to change the constitution in any respect the voters should be reminded that the document also provides that any debt of a political subdivision is a direct charge against its real estate. When the debt is incurred a tax on real estate must be levied at once to provide for its retirement and payment of interest.

The state constitution has made Wisconsin among the most fortunate of states in its financial position. The prohibition against debt is of value beyond estimate to every one who has a stake in the state. It is not credible that the voters would be foolish enough to alter it under any plea.

If they authorize a state debt even for relief they are taking the lid off. The people of other states will wait upon their decision with interest.

THE ALIMONY RACKET.

Upon the occasion of the Christmas holidays a number of men in jail for nonpayment of alimony have been set free by judicial action. As mitigation of a legal procedure which has been much abused this delivery is welcome, but it should not have the effect of relaxing public pressure for a thoroughgoing reform of the law and procedure respecting divorce. There should be a full reconsideration of marital rights and relations in the light of modern conditions and conceptions and especially, we think, a correction of the law and procedure under which men are thrown into jail without trial by jury and kept there, in effect an imprisonment for debt, otherwise abolished in Illinois. The public policy on which this proceeding is based needs reëxamination.

No doubt there are justifications in many cases for judicial discipline to enforce equity, but in other cases the alimony procedure has been an easy resort for racketeering practitioners and unscrupulous women. Imprisonment has often defeated the ends for which it is ostensibly imposed by making it impossible for the defendant to earn the means of meeting the decree. In such cases the object of the legal action is revealed as merely punitive, the satisfaction of a grudge or a shakedown for the lawyer. Better safeguards should be provided to prevent this racket.

CONGRATULATIONS! MR. SARGENT.

To those whose business or personal affairs make a trip to St. Paul or Minneapolis frequently necessary, the announcement of the Chicago and North Western that effective Jan. 2 the fastest train on the American continent will inaugurate seven hour service to St. Paul and seven and one-half hour service to Minneapolis will be most welcome. The same service will be in effect in the opposite direction.

The North Western has not gone "streamline," nor has it adopted Diesel electric power. Its officials still have confidence in the standard type train in the construction of which safety and comfort have been gradually developed over a period of years. As to the standard locomotive that will pull the train, the North Western officials believe that "there is a kick in the old girl yet," although oil has been substituted for coal as a fuel.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE finds other reasons for congratulation. In fixing the time of departure at 3:30 p. m., to arrive at Minneapolis at eleven o'clock, the railroad has followed a theory that has been advanced in these columns several times. We are convinced that high speed afternoon service to destinations within a radius of four hundred miles from Chicago will be more popular than overnight schedules because opportunity is afforded for a full night's rest in a hotel or at home. Another attractive feature that merits public commendation is the "ferry service" that will permit the residents of the important towns lying between Chicago and Milwaukee to use this train without loss of time. A pickup train, first class in every respect, will leave the Chicago terminal a half hour ahead of the flyer to stop at Evanston, Kenosha, Racine, and other points and arrive at Milwaukee five minutes ahead of the "Four Hundred," where transfer will be facilitated by a special corps of employés. The entire territory between Chicago and Milwaukee has been included in one vast terminal for the purposes of travel on this train.

The announcement was not made on the spur of the moment to meet threatened competition from more modernistic trains. Practically a year has been spent in somewhat elaborate preparation. First the roadbed received minute attention, curves in particular being studied and corrected for high speed operation. Next the shopmen went to work on cars to provide air-conditioning apparatus, new, restful chairs and other modern conveniences. Finally, the improved locomotives were thoroughly tested on existing runs to prove that they would be able to render the service that will be required of them in the year 1935.

Editorial of the Day

[Daily Oklahoman.]

Frank Kent is not the only American who finds difficulty in reconciling the unmistakable evidence of business improvement with a sharp increase in the number of needy citizens now on the relief rolls. It is extremely difficult to understand why the number of indigents should be increasing steadily while business conditions are improving steadily.

Perhaps a part of the increase in the number of needy people is due to the fact that the last of their reserve has been exhausted. Many who had a few dollars left a year ago have nothing at all left now and must therefore turn to the relief agencies or starve. Another year and there will be still more of these new bankrupts unless the economic situation changes speedily and radically. Another reason why the relief rolls are enlarging is that relief is becoming more attractive to certain people than actual employment is. A tragically unfortunate result of the country's Samaritan efforts is a growing preference of many people for charity. Thousands have given up unattractive employment for the sake of the dole. Others have asked themselves why they should continue to toil when next door neighbors are being supported by society. The number of people on the relief rolls will continue to grow just as long as men can get more money for doing nothing than they are able to earn in productive employment.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

DOGS AND OTHER DOGS.

People who like dogs are peculiar. I met a woman on our street the other day who was pretty much mussed up and who had a poor little crying Scottie in her arms. The woman had a bloody wound on her right hand and one of the Scottie's legs had been gashed and torn. Oh, of course—police dog. It's always police dogs that do things like that. It's the nature of the beasts. That's what comes of having a wolf for a grandfather or grandmother.

The woman, with that freemasonry which exists between people who lead little dogs on a leash around the block, told me her story. She had seen the huge, savage police dog without a leash (the more savage police dogs are the less likely they are to be on a leash), eying her from across the street and she had picked up her little Scottie. But that didn't make any difference. The police dog came bounding across the street, leaped at the woman, bit her cruelly in the hand, and then with another leap bit and tore at the Scottie.

Several men rushed up with canes and anything they could lay their hands on and finally persuaded the police dog to retire. And now comes it—the peculiarity of people who like dogs. One of the men said:

"Well, that police dog ought to be caught and given to a college for vivisection."

"Oh no," said the woman, wrapping a handkerchief around the bleeding leg of the little Scottie. "I wouldn't have that happen for anything in the world."

"But he bit you and he half took the leg off your little Scottie."

"But it isn't his fault," said the woman. "He's savage by nature; part wolf, you know, and he doesn't belong in a town. It's the people who own him that are to blame."

She went home and I heard from her afterward that she had hunted up the woman who owned the police dog. The police dog lady expressed no surprise at all when she learned what her cunning little wolf hound had done.

"Oh," she said, "you shouldn't have been out so early with your Scottie. My doggie always attacks the first dog he sees in the morning. After he has a good fight with that dog he is perfectly contented and is very nice and quiet for the rest of the day."

But, anyhow, the point is that we people who like dogs wouldn't even send the big, savage police dogs to the vivisectionists. But we would like to see them muzzled and kept on a leash. Or, better still, they should not be allowed in the city at all. Man-eating Bengal tigers, lions, hyenas and boa constrictors are not permitted to roam the streets, then why police dogs? But I wouldn't be in favor of putting even man-eating Bengal tigers, lions, hyenas and boa constrictors on the vivisector's table. But I'd be only too charmed to give 'em a kick in the pants.

TWICE SKETCHED.

The hill wears sunlight like a halo, golden-warm;
It knows the pressure of the vagrant winds that pass;
It feels the scurrying, small bits of life that swarm
So timidly within its smoothly bending grass;
Draws toward its rim the rich, brown furrows of the earth.

So friendly is a hill by day, I cannot bear
To watch the last light fade—the black hill standing there.
No flood of moonlight softening its sharpened crest,
The great ridge, gaunt and clumsy, cuts the darkened sky.
Night hills are creatures of strange longing and unrest.
Forever bound to earth yet unresigned to lie
In passive union with it. They shall never see
In poignant straining toward the stars—futility.

BRIGHT BOY, THAT JOHNNIE.

Sir: Good? Humph! Too goldarn good down here in Bloomington, thass the trouble. Last year I bought fifteen Line-books, and hid them away, only to have the missus find them and thus solve her Xmas-shopping problem by shipping out my whole cargo of 'em. This year I bought the last eighteen copies at the corner news-stand, hid 'em in the wood-box, where I knew the missus would never go. And darned if Johnnie, with the afore-Xmas industry just bubbling out of his ears, didn't bring in a load of wood, discover my horde, and go from door to door peddling them at a premium. Lil scamp came home with seven dollars and forty-eight cents, and orders for thirty-seven more books. But thirty-seven just aren't to be found, and here I am with only three copies which I happened to have hid under the bed. Good? Humph! Too goldarn good, thass the trouble! LIL OSCAR.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There is a reason why this present holiday season should be extra pleasant, and that reason is appearing at the Auditorium theater under the name of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Just at present it is hard to think of a better way of spending an evening than going to this theater, renewing acquaintance with a set of colorful ballets and their brilliant exponents, or, better, making the acquaintance of some new ballets and finding some new dancers in the organization.

The company opened last night for a season of thirteen performances to be done in eight days. In order to emphasize the fact they plunged at once into new and exciting doings, presenting "Aurora's Wedding" and "La Boutique Fantasque," which are new here, and "Le Beau Danube," a favorite of last season.

"Aurora's Wedding" ought to be a piece to find high favor with public and dancers alike, with the one because of its gorgeous spectacle, with the others because of the technical perfection with which it is performed. To music by Tschaikowsky, it has not the slightest trace of a plot, being merely a succession of dances in celebration of what may be assumed its title.

But it introduces such delightful spirits of the dance as Tamara Toumanova, Irina Baranova, Eugenie Delarova, Tatiana Riabouchinska, David Lichine, Yurek Shabelevsky, and two or three dozen more. And there is a young American named Roland Guerard, whose lithe vigor and expert execution are likely to make him talked about before this serics is over.

It is all in the old Russian manner, a mass of color in costumes, glittering stunt following stunt in the performance, and it is altogether delightful, Mlle. Toumanova, who goes through her paces with a daredevil dash that makes you hold your breath when she does them, came off second best to the extent of an abrasion of tights and epidermis on one knee, which, incidentally, did not slow her up in the least, and the entire company ended with a whirling riot of a mazurka that made you catch your breath for a different reason.

"La Boutique Fantasque," to music by Rossini as restored and arranged by Respighi, tells the tale of a toy shop wherein the dolls dance before the customers and afterwards come to life to go about their own affairs. There was a similar idea in one of Anna Pavlowa's ballets, but, apart from the exquisite loveliness of Pavlowa's own dancing, there was nothing to compare with the dash and humor and color of this one. Here one finds most of the dancers of the other piece, plus extra hits by Roman Jasinsky, Vera Nelidova, Serge Lipatoff, Alexandra Danilova, and several others, and again the scene is recommended to your attention.

Meanwhile there was much music elsewhere and well worth hearing. The Chicago Symphony orchestra played at Orchestra hall in the afternoon, storming the heights with Brahms' Second Symphony and Strauss' "Don Juan," and receiving even more applause when all the violins played the solo of Paganini's "Moto Perpetuo" in Conductor Frederick Stock's startling and unfailingly effective arrangement of the work.

In the evening the Apollo Musical club took possession of the same stage for its annual performance of "The Messiah" under the direction of Edgar Nelson. Wise, experienced, and beautifully trained, the club gave a fine performance of the work, and it had a quartet of soloists quite in keeping with the chorus. They were Esther Hart, singing in place of Charlotte Simons, who was ill, Margaret Gent, William Miller, and Reinhold Schmidt. Robert Birch and the organ and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, or a group therof, did well by the instrumental score.

Society Braves Cold to Attend Ballet Opening

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

In holiday spirits and attire, society turned out in large numbers, in spite of the zero weather, for the opening night of the Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo which benefited the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago. It was a gala occasion, similar to many for which the old Auditorium has been the locale, and every one agreed that it was one of the outstanding affairs of this busy and brilliant winter.

In spite of all the other parties that were given last night for debutantes and sub-debs, there were dozens of young girls and boys in the audience, and even some children, for it was a program that would appeal strongly to young people not far from the age when fairy tales are appreciated. Every one, young and old, was delighted with the ballets, however, and on all sides were heard expressions of pleasure and enthusiasm for the troupe which Chicago took to its heart last year.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling —she was one of those most active in arranging the benefit—had a very gay party, including their daughter and son, Peggy and James Lawrence Jr.; the John T. McCutcheons and two of their boys, John Jr. and Shaw; Mrs. James A. Field and her son, James Jr., and Charles Walker Field.

The William B. Hales and their daughter and son, Mary and George E. Hale II., dined before the performance with the Houghtelings at the Tavern and then attended the performance.

Mrs. William S. Monroe, another of the committee in charge, was with Mr. Monroe, their son, Henry, their niece, Mrs. Polly Root Collier, and the Mitchell D. Follansbees.

The honeymooning Walter R. Kirks had given their box to Mr. Kirk's daughter, Mrs. C. Ross Cuthbert, and they were with the Laurance H. Armours, whose other guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn of Washington and the James Ward Thornes. Mrs. Kirk, the former Mrs. Francis Johnson, was radiant in black net, ruffled and with a long train.

Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert had with them Miss Meryl Grayson of England, who is visiting Mrs. William F. Cowham this winter and is such a decided addition to the smart younger set, and the Madlener twins, Otto and William.

Among others in the large audience were Miss Pauline Seipp, Miss Barbara Bersbach, Philip Hosmer Jr., Robert Webster, Theodore Tieken, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Earling of Milwaukee and Mrs. Earling's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stevenson of New York; Miss Caroline McNair and her father, Frank McNair. Miss Theodora Shaw, Miss Laura Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic R. Hurd and her mother, Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin; Miss Peggy Sargent, Miss Barbara Hobart, and Miss Jane de Peyster.

Others were the Joseph T. Ryersons, the Charles F. Glores, the Valentine Bartletts, the Herbert E. Bradleys, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Richardson Dunham, the Walter S. Brewsters, Mrs. Parmalee McFadden, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, the John Paul Wellings, Nathan Swift and his bride, the former Nancy Traylor; the Ernest Ballards, the Misses Betsy and Susan Ballard, Miss Janet Fairbank, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Bobette Boysen, Miss Francise Clow, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, and the T. Philip Swifts.

BY JUDITH CASS.

With Christmas and its good cheer past, those who are planning to be at home on New Year's day are looking up their recipes for eggnog, hot rum punch or Tom and Jerrics, and those who are going to start the new year by calling upon their friends who are to be at home are planning how best they can arrange their day so that they can call at every household to which they have been invited.

If one has urban and suburban friends it is a problem to decide whether to spend the afternoon in town or in the country, for the favorite hours in which to receive are from 4 to 7, which makes its almost impossible for one to call on both city and country friends.

The William S. Monroes solve this problem for their friends by being at home to their country neighbors on Christmas and to their city ones on New Year's day. With their son, Henry, they were at home in their charming country place, White Gates, at Wayne, last Tuesday, and next Tuesday from 4 to 7 o'clock they will receive in their East Elm street residence in town. Mrs. Monroe is feeling very happy just now over the success of the Women's Trade Union league benefit last night, for she, as one of the committee in charge of it, has worked for weeks on it.

Miss Harriet Monroe will not reach Chicago in time to receive with her brother and his family at their annual New Year's day reception, for she just landed in San Francisco on Christmas and she plans to visit on the west coast for a week or ten days before coming home. She and Miss Joanna Fortune have been on a trip to China, where they visited Miss Monroe's sister, Mrs. William J. Calhoun, in Peiping. Miss Fortune will not arrive at home until February, for she stopped in Honolulu for a visit en route from the orient.

Shortly after the beginning of the new year the Monroes expect a visit from Robert Lee Eskridge, who now is in New York planning an exhibition of the drawings he made in the South seas during the last two years.

Rufus C. Daweses Will Receive

Among others who have issued cards for New Year's day at homes in town are the Rufus C. Dawses, who will receive with their large family from noon until 6 o'clock in their residence at 936 Lake Shore drive; the Edward H. Bennetts, who will be at home from 12 to 2 in their Burton place house; the Kellogg Fairbanks, who will receive at their residence, 1244 North State street, from 4 to 7; the Nelson Thomassons, who are inviting friends of Miss Mary Harrington and Miss Carolyn Crossett, debutantes, to drink eggnog in the late afternoon; Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews of 1235 Astor street; President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Redheffer of 1430 Lake Shore drive, who will be at home from 5 to 7, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller of 1500 Lake Shore drive, whose hours at home will be from 5 to 7. Miss Mary Sylvia West of 35 East Division street has issued cards to a buffet supper from 5 to 8 o'clock on New Year's day.

In Winnetka the large Calvin Fentress family will receive, as usual, on New Year's from 5 to 7 o'clock at Fenbrook, the Fentress residence on Green Bay road, and John Robert Leonard and his family will hold their annual reception from 4 to 7 o'clock at Wildacre. Mr. Leonard and his daughters, Harriet and Deborah, and his son, Daniel, and his wife are hoping that the former Mary Elizabeth Leonard and her husband, Hibbard Casselberry, will come from their home in Winter Park, Fla., for New Year's.

McCormick-Orr Wedding Jan. 3.

There will be many socialites driving west from the north shore and town that day to attend the reception Mrs. Arthur Orr will give for her son's fiancée, Miss Louise McCormick, who will become Montgomery Orr's bride on Jan. 3.

The wedding will take place quietly in the apartment of Miss McCormick's uncle and aunt, the Chauncey McCormicks, at 2450 Lake View avenue. Miss McCormick's parents, the Walter McCormicks of Baltimore, are coming to witness the ceremony. The ceremony will be small owing to the recent death of the bride's maternal grandmother.

From the Orr home in St. Charles on New Year's many will drive two miles south to Geneva to call upon the J. McWilliams Stones and the David McDougals in the former's home on Peck road, and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Scott and their sons-in-law and daughters, the Ralph Davises and the Arthur Bents, who will have open house from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Scott residence.

Carpenters to Give Tea on Sunday

The John Alden Carpenters, who are making plans for a trip to China, where they will stay in Mrs. Calhoun's interesting old temple at 10 Ma Ta-Jen Hutung, have issued cards for a tea next Sunday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at their residence, 1020 Lake Shore drive. They are giving the tea for the Marquise d'Ivanrey, the former Italia Blair of Chicago, who is arriving tomorrow for a visit with the Carpenters.

Tomorrow night Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are entertaining at dinner for their guest and then taking the party on to the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Tomorrow night's performance will be a benefit for The Bohemians.

At the matinée of the Ballet Russe today Mrs. Carpenter and Chauncey McCormick will have 200 small guests, wards of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society of which they are vice president and president, respec-

Mme. DEFARGE knitted her way through the French revolution in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," and the other evening one knitted her way into the Palace theater to hear Milton Berle, Dr. Nathan Flaxman observed the two women standing in the long line that extended down the block. One of them had her knitting with her, and started to knit, while the other held her yarn for her. As they slowly moved along in line toward the theater entrance they both became completely absorbed in the knitting and the pattern, which was a combination of genteel colors, obviously intended for a Christmas present. About 27 perled rows later the knitter and her yarn holder reached the ticket taker. After that the knitting went right on in the lobby.

CARLETON SMITH writes from New York that music lovers are agog over Lawrence Tibbett's intention to sing "The Meistersinger" in English at the Metropolitan. It has not been announced —only rumored, but he is studying the rôle, and will do at least one act, with Walter Damrosch conducting. The rôle is, of course, that of Hans Sachs.

A CHARMING lady who had been shopping for dress shirts for her young son was pretty astonished to find the latest novelty in dress shirts for boys of prep school age. It seemed astonishing enough to pass along. The lads at eastern schools are wearing dress shirts that have lavender backs and sleeves. Only the bosoms and cuffs are white, the rest being a lovely pale purple. So a Chicago store is carrying them for the very young young man.

ANOTHER snippety bit concerns the Christmas gift that pleased a little girl of five more than any of the glamorous toys Santa left under her Christmas tree. It was a nurse's costume, and a nurse's kit, filled with bottles and cotton, a thermometer and a toy stethoscope. She took her baby brother's temperature so often the thermometer had to be taken away from her.

A GENTLEMAN who had been on the water wagon for some months fell off with a vengeance one evening in celebration of the approach of the holidays. During the evening he received some cuts on the face. Arrived home, he decided to patch his face with adhesive tape before the bathroom mirror as well as he could. In the morning his wife announced coldly that she guessed he must have been drinking the evening before.

"Not at all," he assured her. "I was in a taxi accident, and was cut by flying glass. I didn't touch a drop."

"Then," she commented coldly, "what are those strips of adhesive tape doing on the bathroom mirror?"

The girl who sent me this letter is only 17, yet she writes: "I get such terrible spells of blues every once in a while. Why am I so different from other people?"

Dear Miss M.—I am going to be very frank. The most noticeable thing about your hand writing is the way the words go up and down like a stormy sea and in your letter the lines, as a whole, slumped down on the right side of the page. You are not keeping up your courage. You are letting down your resistance to despondency.

This seems to be due to a lack of vitality to some extent, and if you will persist in building up your health it will help a lot. Not that you are sick. You haven't "pep" enough, that's all.

every once in a
Why am I so different from other

Notice the y in the word every. You make the y with the loop crossed twice all through your letter. It shows that you are introspective and, perhaps as you say, a bit "different". But what of that? Anybody who isn't different from the rest of the world is never going to be an outstanding person. Everything depends upon how you use your tendency to be different and that is why I am urging you to build up your health and try not to be so moody. You take your feelings too seriously to be happy.

You are impulsive, idealistic, affectionate and supersensitive. Notice the letter t that is crossed in a triangular fashion. It is another sign of a sensitive writer. You are often badly hurt about something that you merely imagined. The oversized small r's indicate that you are extremely observant and you notice too much at times for the sake of peace.

You cannot be leading an altogether healthy life from a psychological or physical standpoint.

Keep going all day long. You need plenty of company, for you are a sociable person at heart in spite of an intensity that is now keeping you from mixing easily with others. Give people half a chance to make friends with you. Don't drive them away by taking everything they say to heart.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

This afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt received the retiring minister from Finland, L. Astrom, who will leave shortly for his home.

Mrs. Dern, wife of the secretary of war, and Mrs. Swanson, wife of the secretary of the navy, assisted Mrs. Simonds, wife of the commandant of the army war college, at the annual tea dance for the cadets and midshipmen who are here for the holidays. It was held in the army war college.

Dance Dresses Offer Glamor at Low Prices

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Just when you need them the most an understanding shopkeeper has a new collection of party and dance dresses that will make you weak in the knees till you own a few. Tagged with prices that will confound the best kickers about high prices, you can afford as many as three or four without breaking the bank or your allowance. They are heart-breakers!

These are young looking white satins, with long sashes of brilliant colors streaking down the center back, with high front necklines [to suit mother] and gouged out backlines to suit your own ideas of what a proper dance dress should have. These satins are exceptionally gleaming and the slinkiest things in town.

Others with miles of ruchings around the shoulders, matched to swirling yardage of the same stuff around the hemline, make picture frocks that will startle the most hardened of stag lines.

Nice swishing taffetas that billow entrancingly from the snug fitted waistline and hip sectors come in grand colors. Some new cloky fabrics that have been causing fashion excitement look like big blistered material. They are yours for a small sum and you can get them in pastels, whites, and shiny blacks. There is a black number of this crinkled, wrinkled stuff with a wide Mae West ruching outlining the bodice top and a filmy net of black that twinkles rather wickedly with a thousand or more small shiny black beads.

But despite their fashion appeal the best part of this collection is found in the low price tags.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Jaques Holinger of 617 Fullerton parkway announces the engagement of her daughter, Eugenie, to Theodore Finckh of Basel, Switzerland. Miss Holinger is a graduate of Wellesley and Mr. Finckh is a graduate of the University of Burgdorf in Switzerland. The wedding will take place next summer and Mr. Finckh and his bride will live in Chicago.

Mrs. Ludwig Buka of Denver, Colo., announces the engagement of her daughter, Evalyn, to Ralph Stanley Effron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Effron of 530 Belmont avenue.

Mrs. Chauncey T. Lamb of Hinsdale announces the engagement of her daughter, Jeannette, to Winfield Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark Foster of La Grange. Miss Lamb attended Bradford academy, Bradford, Mass., and the University of Chicago, where she is a member of the Quadrangle club. Mr. Foster is a graduate of the University of Chicago. The wedding will take place in April.

Replaces Jackie Cooper in Father-Son Team.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mickey Rooney, who is younger, more slender, and more boyish looking than Jackie Cooper is now, probably will replace Jackie in the man-and-boy series of pictures such as "The Champ" and "Treasure Island" that Metro studio has been putting out. Mickey and Wallie Beery will form their new co-featured combination in "Hero's Son," a Fred Brennan magazine story with a football background.

Jackie Cooper is getting too plump and too large to look like a wistful juvenile. Mickey Rooney is the former "Mickey Maguire" of little boy short reel comedies whose real name, Joe Yule, was discarded some years ago.

Mickey was pushed into Hollywood prominence during the last year, when Max Reinhardt chose him as Puck for the coast presentation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and heralded the youngster as a great actor.

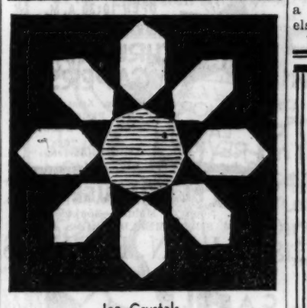
Fredi Washington, who plays the mulatto girl who rebels because of the color line in "Imitation of Life," was asked if the realistic performance she gives in that much discussed film story expressed some of her own attitude toward life. Miss Washington smiled and said: "No, it does not. On the stage in New York I appeared in such colored revues as 'Shufflin' Along' and 'Singing the Blues' and opposite Paul Robeson in 'Blackboy,' but always as a colored girl. In the motion picture I may have been able to show how a girl might feel under the circumstances, but I am not showing how I feel myself."

M. H. Hoffman, independent producer, expresses the opinion that "Alice in Wonderland" and the more recent fantasy, "Babes in Toyland," represent a style in films which is worth a monetary gamble if the films are well done and announces "Jack and the Beanstalk" shortly to be made in sound form.

Louise Fazenda begins building her San Fernando residence ranch home in a setting of greenery. . . . John Cromwell, director, recovered from flu for Christmas. . . . Keye Luke, young university educated Chinese who had been promoted from studio artist to actor as Warner Oland's son in "Charlie Chan in Paris," doesn't want to play in another "Chan" picture because "being around Oland (who is a Dane) is giving me a Chinese accent."

Frank Lawton and Evelyn Laye imported the English mistletoe which ornaments their apartment here. It is Branshill mistletoe, which, according to Lawton, is something special and comes from a locality near his own home, Everslee, England. Lawton and Miss Laye, who are newlyweds, return to England within another week and on their return to resume film contracts here Miss Laye has demanded that Frank install her in a "typical Hollywood home with a back yard barbecue and all the rest of the things."

Blue Background, White Applique Make This Quilt



Ice Crystals.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Ice Crystals," is another one of those designs with a winter motif. They are dainty and great fun to make. Using an ice blue background and white applique crystals, this block has deviated from scientific accuracy by adding a lovely spot of warm color in the center.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We're tremendously impressed with a nourishing cream we worked with this winter and consider it one of the finest creams for dry and aging skin we've ever discovered.

We warn you right off that it is not inexpensive, although one needs to use so little of it that in the long run it's not an extravagant purchase. It's sold in only two shops in Chicago.

This is a peach of a cream for dissipating the scaliness that's driving us all mad these cold days. Almost every woman of our acquaintance has the same problem—skin so taut and completely lacking in natural oil that it cracks and peels in a thoroughly unbeautiful manner.

The rich white cream, properly used, will put an end to all that. It can be used at night after cleansing, and left on during the beauty sleep if the skin condition warants it. Then during the day if you have any private periods at all slap on some more and leave it on as long as possible.

It strikes us that housewives who put in a lot of time indoors with every radiator going strong are the greatest sufferers and are just the ones who have a marvelous chance to give their skin all the care it needs. It's a very good idea to slap cream on while you're working around the house. You won't want to show your creamed face when the doorbell rings, but you'll be doing that face a lot of good.

This cream is a good one, too, we found, for massaging the elbows and the feet. It keeps the skin soft and pliable.

Straight Hair, When Smartly Cut, Becoming to Many Girls

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If straight hair is becoming, wear yours straight. Often, it can be made quite a distinguished note. I have in mind a young woman with that grand, shining black hair that looks particularly well straight, if the cut and shaping of the hair be good. She looked smart with uncurled locks. Some one persuaded her to get a permanent and set it into rather tight waves afterward, and the girl's distinctive individuality was totally lost. She was just another permanented head.

Not that there is anything against permanents. Heaven knows most of us couldn't survive without them.

I envy the straight haired one who manages a smart cut and a trim head. She can take her brush and raise a polish on her hair equal to nothing else in sheer attractiveness.

You must have style to your head—a smart cut, as I say. The hair should be thinned out often enough to keep it sleek to the head, and trained on natural, swirled lines. If there's a little natural wave in the hair, as there often is, you're most fortunate. You have such a simplified dressing and because the trend is all to get that look of a natural wave, you're particularly lucky.

You can do clever things with the so-called straight hair these days, yourself. Waving lotions and pins give a drape here and a drape there to the hair. Of course, when we speak of straight hair as a thing of beauty, we don't mean the Indian head, nor the medieval court page head, nor what used to be called the "Greenwich Village" cut, which meant clipping with home scissors and letting the hair hang straight down all around.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, is escaping out of Russia, where he is known as Stefan Ivanovitch. He rescues homeless Elizabeth Radin from freezing to death and takes her with him. He had seen her before and admired her. She is the widow of an executed engineer. Though English her husband was half Russian. She ran off to escape the advances of Commissar Petroff.

Stephen tells her his history, while they are traveling in a cart, driven by an old man named Yuri. As a boy Stephen lived on the large Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with a large peasant family, until his mother got him an English tutor. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian, Robert Carey, in England. After the revolution in Russia he became a "secret observer" for England. He went to the town where old Yuri, Mrs. Darensky's father, lived, and made him believe he was one of his many grandchildren. He became a veterinarian and adopted various peasant roles to help hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and is anxious to quit his hazardous work.

They reach the home of Yuri and his wife, Akulina. Stephen tells them Elizabeth is his wife and her name is Varvara. She is very ill for several days and Stephen takes care of her. Akulina dislikes the frail woman, as she does Irina, a friend of Stephen's in the village. Irina is a communist missionary.

INSTALMENT X.

A SECRET FORMULA.

Stephen and Elizabeth were alone again in the afternoon, when Yuri was in the barn and Akulina was milking the cow. He asked her how she was, and she said, "Nearly well."

"Tomorrow," said Stephen, "you must go out. They mustn't think we're hiding you. Are you quite warm?"

"Yes, quite," said Elizabeth.

She was sitting on the edge of the bed which had been made for her. The warmth of the stove struck pleasantly upward through the earthenware platform and the straw that had been piled upon it. She felt weak, but relaxed and at peace. The terrible bitter strain of the last twelve months had been lifted from her.

Stephen was standing with his back to the door. The sole furniture of the room consisted of the bench and loom which she had seen when she first wakened, together with a table and four rude but solid stools. He took one of these stools and planted himself down upon it in front of her with his elbows on his knees and his chin in his hands. He appeared to be in deep thought. Presently he said,

"I ought to practice calling you Varvara."

Elizabeth's smile came quite easily. The lips that had been stiff and frozen were soft again. She looked down at him and asked,

"Is it difficult?"

"Yes," said Stephen, and plunged in thought again.

This was a new mood to her. If he had not wanted to talk to her, why had he sat down in front of her like this? But if he did want to talk to her, why didn't he begin? She couldn't really imagine that he lacked either words or assurance.

"Nicolas went away. It was night. I never saw him again. He was taken—and . . . shot."

He hunched an impatient shoulder and said half angrily:

"The fact is, I've got to ask you some questions, and I'm afraid of upsetting you."

"Questions?" said Elizabeth, slowly.

"Yes. You won't be upset, will you? I shall hate it if you are. I ought really to have asked you this morning, but then I thought, 'Suppose she faints again,' so I didn't do it. But I ought to have done it."

Elizabeth wondered what was coming. She shrank from these unknown questions, but in spite of the shrinking her mind was tinged with amusement. There was something boyish about his clumsy delicacy. And how like a man to be afraid that she would faint. She said,

"Please ask what you want to. I shan't faint."

He nodded.

"No—you're stronger." Then, with a blunt directness, "I want to know all about this Petroff affair."

Elizabeth started. The tinge of amusement faded. A tremor took its place. What he called the Petroff affair belonged to the nightmare region out of which he had carried her. To speak of it was to bring it back.

Stephen reached forward and took her hand.

"I've got to know," he said. "I can't keep you safe unless I know. I must know what to look out for. You see that, don't you?"

Elizabeth bent her head. He pressed her hand very hard indeed, and then let go of it rather suddenly.

"Well, now, let's get it over," he said cheerfully. "To begin with, what's all this about a formula?"

She said the words after him with an involuntary shudder, whilst her hands went to her breast and pressed down upon it painfully.

"A formula?"

"Yes," said Stephen gently. "You said something about it in your sleep that first night in Tomsk, and last night you talked about it when you woke up."

"Did I?" The tremor was shaking her so much that the words shook, too.

Stephen went down on his knees before her and took both her hands in his.

"Don't shake like that. Don't be frightened. I won't let anything hurt you—I won't, really. Petroff shan't touch you. Is that what you're afraid of?"

She made a great effort and steadied herself.

"I'll tell you."

He had to wait after that, but he showed no impatience, only knelt there, holding her hands, not looking at her. She felt as if she were being held in a strong grasp on the edge of an abyss. She was to look over and tell what she saw there. She was just able to do this while he held her. If he were to let go, she would fall. She began to speak in a low, faltering voice without any tone in it.

"We came out eighteen months ago. It was at the beginning of the summer. Nicolas had not lived in Russia since he was a boy. His father was Russian and his mother American. He went to college in America and took an American engineering degree. I met him out there. I was on a visit to the only relations I've got in the world. I'd been ill and couldn't work. They asked me on a long visit. I met Nicolas——" Her voice died away.

Stephen held her hands. After a moment she went on again.

"He had a friend in Russia—they were boys together. Alexis was an engineer, too. He got Nicolas the offer of a job at Volkhav. We were both wild to go. Nicolas was very enthusiastic about the Five Year plan, and everything. But when we got there I began to be afraid. You see, he had the American outlook, the American point of view, but he hadn't the protection of being an American. He was a Russian subject. I used to tell him—but he wouldn't listen. He thought he was going to be able to make money. He'd got a new process—a new aluminum alloy. I don't understand these things, but it was going to make a lot of difference in making airplanes—they would be stronger and lighter. A man who died gave him the first idea, and he worked it out. There must have been other men in it, too, but I don't know who they were. He used to talk to me about it and say what a lot of money we should have when we got back to America. He was going to make some excuse and throw up his job. He didn't seem to understand what a frightful risk he was running. And then all of a sudden something must have leaked out. They sent for him. They asked him if he had a new process. He said no. They let him go that day. He came in and told me he was going to try and get away in the night. He said he couldn't take me—I should be safer where I was. But before he went he made me learn the formula of his process. He said if he didn't get away and I did, I could sell it and it would provide for me. He made me swear that whatever happened I wouldn't give it to them. I learned the formula by heart. He didn't dare put it on paper. He told me to say it over every day so as not to forget anything. I think I could say it in my sleep."

"You did," said Stephen.

He felt her shudder.

"Nicolas went away. It was night. I never saw him again. He was taken—and—shot."

When Stephen spoke his voice was very gentle.

"Did you love him very much?"

Elizabeth looked down into the abyss. Her own personal tragedy had been swallowed up there. She had not loved Nicolas Radin, but she had mourned for him. She had loved some one whom she thought was Nicolas, and she had found herself married to a Nicolas who became more and more a stranger. She thought of this self-centered, moody being, with his impatience, his hot fits of anger and his cold indifference.

Irene Dunne to Take Lead in New 'Show Boat' Film

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—When the second talkie version of "Show Boat" goes into production early next year Irene Dunne, who created the rôle on the stage, will be in the lead. Charles Winniger, with Miss Dunne in the Ziegfeld show, will play opposite her. The story was filmed five years ago, with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut.

tively. After the matinée there will be a reception on the stage with the ballerinas in their "Le Beau Danube" costumes meeting all the little guests.

Jane Cummings Will Bow Today

From 4 until 7 o'clock this afternoon the debutantes and their beaux will be dancing in the ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club, where Mrs. John J. Cummings is presenting her daughter, Miss Jane Gregg Cummings, to society. The debutante, who is at home from the Finch school in New York for the holidays, will have her roommate there, Miss Emily Hoge of Louisville, as one of her assistants this afternoon.

There will be quite a long receiving line at the debut, for, in addition to the debutante and her mother, Mrs. Cummings' sister, Mrs. J. Gregg Yeaman, and the bud's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, will receive. The other assistants are Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark, Miss Barbara Fortune, Miss Louise Parsons, Miss Margery Garvy, Miss Betty von Colditz, and Miss Patricia Kelly.

A dinner dance tonight at which Miss Bette Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Joseph Rich of Evanston, will make her bow to society will stand up another day for the debutantes and their beaux. Against a fairy background of frosted Christmas trees in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house the Riches have invited their 250 guests to dine and dance from 9:30 on.

Special blue and green reflectors have been installed in the ballroom to create a moonlight effect and each one of the dinner tables is to be decorated with modernistic silver Christmas trees. Before the party Mr. and Mrs. Rich and Miss Rich are serving cocktails to their guests in the foyer of the Red Lacquer room.

Miss Hannaford Is Presented

The huge bouquet of talisman roses and valley lilies that Miss Tayloe Hanaford carried yesterday for her debut harmonized effectively with her gold and white lamé gown. Miss Hannaford was presented to society at a tea dance between 4 and 7 o'clock at the Indian Hill club.

In the large ballroom transformed with Christmas greenery Miss Hannaford received with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hannaford. Mrs. Hannaford wore a clinging gown of black velvet with accents of white. Her flowers were gardenias. An anteroom of the club where refreshments were served was decorated to represent a German village. During the course of the afternoon all of the debutantes and their beaux danced at the party as well as several hundred of the Hannafords' north shore friends.

Ball at Blackstone for Frances Jeffery.

One of the most effective transformations the ballroom of the Blackstone hotel has worn for a debutante ball was that it wore last night at the ball Miss Frances Whedon gave for her debutante niece, Miss Frances Jeffery. From the floor to the ceiling the walls were solidly of greens, studded with amber lights, and the effect was very lovely and unusual.

The debutante was stunning in silver moire with a rhinestone butterfly on her long train, shoulder straps of rhinestones, and a lei of white carnations around her neck. Miss Whedon wore white crêpe with rhinestone trimmings and a corsage of green orchids. Supper was served all night from a buffet table on the floor above the ballroom to the 600 guests, a pleasant innovation from the usual sit down supper which is served about "twoish" at most of the balls.

Most of the debutantes and their beaux had dined and danced before the Jeffery ball at the Casino, where Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High gave a dinner dance for their granddaughter, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen. Mrs. High and her daughter, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., and her daughter, the popular "Gwennie," received between two tall vases of Easter lilies. Miss Bowen was lovely in a white satin robe de style, embroidered with rhinestones. She wore lavender orchids and carried gardenias. Her mother wore brown velvet and orchid and her grandmother black tulle and orchids.

Miss Bowen will be leaving debut gayeties far behind when she goes the middle of January with her parents to their ranch at Castle Hot Springs, Ariz.

The Joseph T. Ryersons' hospitable home on Astor street will be gay tonight when Mrs. Ryerson and Mrs. Philip L. Reed give a dinner dance for their subdeb daughters, Mary McBirney Ryerson and Sarah, usually called Sally, Reed.

Tonight at the Indian Hill club the subdebs of Winnetka and their beaux will dance at a party at which ten north shore girls will be hostesses, Virginia Creigh, Sally Jane Crowder, Ethel Fisher, Annette Jones, Janet Musselman, Helen Shoemaker, Margot Webbe, Dorothy Wieboldt, Eleanor Wilson, and Nancy Wolcott.

Miss Shoemaker is at home from Dana Hall for the holidays, and Miss Wilson has returned from Rosemary Hall; all the other hostesses are students at the North Shore Country Day school. Miss Shoemaker is entertaining at dinner before the dance and so is Miss Janet Gregory, who is here from Chatham Hall for the vacation.

Mrs. Rushton L. Fordyce is entertaining at the Drake tonight for Miss Valerie Haight, daughter of the George Ives Haights, and her fiancé, Edward Allen Haight, who will be married at 8:30 o'clock on Jan. 1. Miss Ruth Fordyce will be a bridesmaid at the wedding.

Hobart P. Youngs Give Party Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart P. Young have issued invitations to a cocktail party Sunday noon in their Winnetka home. They are giving it for their debutante niece, Miss Charlotte Chandler. The Youngs have invited the Winnetka debutantes—of which there are the surprising number of twenty-one—and their beaux from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock. Hobart Jr. is at home from Harvard for the holidays.

"Andrea Chenier" will be the subject at the seventh intimate opera morning today at the Blackstone hotel. Miss Edna Kellogg will give a dramatic reading of the opera, accompanied on the piano by Frederick Persson.

Because the decoration of the children's heaven Luther Greene and Miss Frencise Clow are creating on the lower floor of Mr. Greene's house at 1130 Dearborn parkway has taken on such elaborate proportions, the first party for needy boys and girls had to be delayed a day. It will be at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the guests will be several dozen colored children from the city's poorer neighborhoods.

Conservative Coat Model

WOMAN'S AND MISSES COAT.

If you are used to making your own clothes, you should have no trouble with this straight line coat. Smart women choose clothes carefully, and this model should be a favorite, one that can be worn more than one season. Any of the usual coat woolens will make up well.

The pattern, No. 3085, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure.

"Two Mouths to Feed," a booklet containing recipes and suggestions for cooking for two, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Have you a pre-school child in your home? If you have I do not need to ask it—I know that you are wondering, have wondered many times, whether you are feeding him the foods that he should eat, enough or too much of them, in the right or the wrong ways? On the other hand, you may already know that these young ones need, among other foods, milk, vegetables, and cereals for growth and health. But if they won't eat them what are you to do?

The answers to these and to many other questions which trouble mothers I have found in an intensely interesting and wholly practical little book just off the press, "Food for the Young Child," by Miriam E. Lowenberg, expert in nutrition at Iowa State college. The book is published by the Collegiate Press, Ames, Ia., and the price is $1.50.

Miss Lowenberg has obtained her first hand knowledge of feeding preschool children by years of experience in planning menus and supervising the food preparation in the Iowa State college nursery school. In addition to a complete year's dinner menus and recipes for the child, the author explains to mothers important points concerning menu planning, food preparation, meal service, and eating as these things relate to the young child.

More entries into the southern corn bread free-for-all! It seems that Chicago is just full of authorities on "deep south" cookery—all with their own ideas of what "hoe cake," "pone bread," "spoon bread," and "spider bread" may be. In fact, Mrs. E. B. B., who opened the discussion in this column, caused a near riot. Scornfully we've been informed that Mrs. B. is all wrong in assigning "hoe cake" to poor whites and Negroes. Writes Reader G. W.: "As for hoe cake being for 'poor whites,' we always had it with greens—and we were never classed with 'po' white trash.' The greens of course were mustard greens, sometimes with turnip greens added. Always they were cooked with a piece of fat pork."

And Miss W. proceeds: "I want to take exception to one or two other things Mrs. E. B. B. says in The Tribune. I was 'raised' on hoe cake and corn pone. We often had egg bread, too, but it was considered a sort of northern cousin to real corn bread. The pones were not called 'pone bread,' but 'corn pones.' These pones are made by taking up a handful of the dough and shaping it between the two hands, laid close together with fingers extended. Thus the pone shows the imprint of the fingers on its crust. It's a thick, hard crust, too."

CONQUERING CONTRACT

CRITICISMS OF MY FORCING THEORY.

The Sims two-bid has been criticized because it is confined to suits of five or more cards, and may not be made on a four-card suit. I have already given you the theoretical and practical reasons for this requirement, and explained how the versatile two-no-trump opening bid takes care of short suited nands containing only three or four losers. If I have failed to convince you on this point, write to me care of this newspaper, and if such letters are at all numerous, I will prepare some further articles on this point and include them in this series in due course of time. It will, of course, be a matter of several weeks before they appear in your newspaper.

The other main criticism of my forcing theory [though nowadays it is applied more to my two bid than to the three bid] is that I make the requirements unnecessarily high and that consequently these bids are too rare. In other words, I remove from common circulation a pair of bids [the two bid and the three bid] which are really required for more frequent use with less rare types of hands. Another way of putting it is that I make my followers bid only one where they would be better served if they could bid two or three. To my mind these criticisms are based on extremely unsound opinions—if their authors have any at all—on the forcing theory, and on an ineradicable addiction to judging contract bidding in terms of auction methods. It is not a question of a compromise or of fitting the vagaries of cards into any predetermined mechanics of a system. My experience of card playing and my understanding of the essential nature of cards tell me that it is theoretically as well as practically unsound to order your partner to make a forced response when you actually need a natural response in order to bid your own hand intelligently. If you need a natural response, and cannot hope to make a game without one, should you not ask for it at the lowest possible level? If you have a misfit for your twenty-six cards, should you not learn it at as low a level as possible? Should you not make it easy, in that event, for the enemy to enter the bidding and relieve you of what has now become a burden? Can you see any reason for forcing with four losers in your hand? Especially now that you have been shown the complete range of bids which we use to cover all the recurrent bidding situations with which a system can be expected to cope. I certainly have had no cause to question the soundness of my theory; I am seldom beaten on my big hands, and I collect many juicy penalties from opponents who make what I call unsound forcing bids based. I suppose, on "auction normal expectancy" in their contract playing [and paying] partner's hand. If you are employing a different treatment for your big hands, recollect those where you were beaten, and ask yourself whether a different treatment might not have saved them. Try my treatment instead for a while, naturally with a partner who properly understands it, and judge for yourself. You can always revert to your former treatment if mine does not seem more effective.

A Far-Fetched Hypothesis.

Let us assume that some strange contract player were to make me the following proposition: "Mr. Sims, I feel that your system is so unsound that I will play you a set game, each selecting any partner he wishes. I will give you an advantage—you must use two kinds of two-bids and may announce to your partner which one you are using on each occasion. You may say either 'I make a Sims two-bid in clubs' or else you may say 'I make a modified two-bid' in whatever suit the suit may be. Your partner knows just what you mean. The only condition I make is that you are compelled to make a 'modified' two-bid every time you hold five and a half or more primary tricks, and after you make it your partner is compelled to respond and neither may drop the bidding short of game." I would refuse this apparent concession, as I would know that my opponent was trapping me into giving him a modified two-bid. The hands might be few, but the effect on the parntership would be far-reaching. I would be giving him the advantage. Of course, I do not say I would refuse the contest; I might conclude that if this proposition merchant was sincere in believing that he had offered me an advantage, he could know so little about cards that I could take a beating on these "modified" hands and still come out ahead on the whole thing. Moreover, his side might also have its share of five and a half "quick trick" misfit hands. The more the better for me.

Tall Girl Can't Forget Height; Spoils Her Fun

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The tall girl often feels she is highly discriminated against in affairs of the heart. "Vi," who says she is five feet eight, belongs to a club of which she is the tallest girl. The boys simply prefer the shorter girls. She notices that around the club they will fool and joke with her, but they obviously do not want to be seen on the street with her.

Isn't it more a state of mind, Vi, than a proven fact? Granted, of course, that the romantically ideal height for the young lady is one that allows her to look up and admire, tall girls are being led to license bureaus all over the land, daily. And not always by gentlemen of superior height, either.

We know that height is a sensitive matter with most young women. But if you're tall you simply can't reduce your height and so other means of wangling your way into a man's affections have to be adopted. Tall young women have to be careful not to appear formidable in manner. Perhaps they have to put themselves out a little more than the short ones to please. But their tongues are just as good as those of shorter women—and they can learn to say the charming things that win.

Occasionally if a girl is a great beauty it's what she looks like that brings her attention. But it is rarely looks that win over the manner that pleases. Otherwise, town and suburban real estate dealers would have a rare number of vacant homes on their list. The tall one can't gurgle, act cute and hoydenish. That's not good selling stuff. But she can, just as well as the shorter sister, make a man feel bigger than she and vastly more important in the scheme of things.

Sports Often Impair Health of Young Boys

Competitive Games Tabu Until Lad Is 15.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Extremely strenuous athletics for boys may make them smaller men and may permanently impair their bodily development. Such are the revolutionary findings of Dr. Floyd A. Rowe, director of physical welfare in Cleveland's public schools.

This startling statement [though not necessarily conclusive] may well be investigated further. It applies to boys from 13 to 15, and is based on statistics, covering a six year period, of a collection of measurements of athletes and nonathletes in the junior high schools of Cleveland.

This criticism is leveled at the highly competitive sports such as football, basketball, track contests, etc. Dr. Rowe advises postponing these sports until after the fifteenth year, as he says the period of greatest growth is between 13 and 15.

Let's look at these figures, which cover a junior high school. These are average:

	*Non-Athletes.	Athletes.
Weight at start	116	112.4
Gain in two years	18.65	17.75
Weight after two years	134.65	130.15
Height at start	62.6	63.7
Gain in two years	3.06	1.27
Height after two years	65.66	64.97
Gain in lung capacity [units]	45	21

*Including non-exhibition sports.

Dr. Rowe's belief that the impairment of bodily development, if occurring during these years is permanent, is based on his statement that the growth of the body is limited by the process of the hardening of the cartilage at the end of the bone. This process increases rapidly after the fifteenth year and reduces the chance, he says, of a youth to make up in bodily growth any of the ground he previously may have lost.

Here we appear to have concrete evidence of the danger of too strenuous competitive play for boys of this age. Dr. Rowe concludes that games and exercises which are less violent and strenuous and less stimulating to the emotions than the highly competitive sports may be played with benefit, regardless of the boy's age.

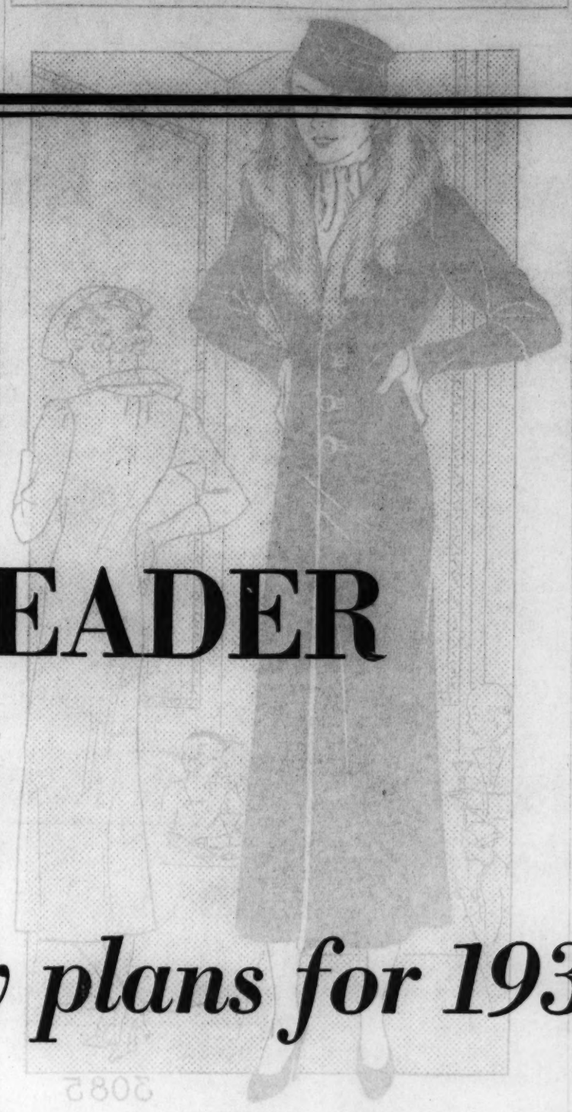
CHEVROLET

AMERICA CHOOSES THE LEADER FOR 1934

..and the Leader reveals new plans for 1935



TODAY, at the closing of the year, we would like to report to you on certain subjects of interest to all motor car buyers and to thank the people of America for the goodwill and friendship which they have shown for Chevrolet.

Again in 1934, according to the latest registration figures available as we go to press, the men and women of America have awarded Chevrolet first place in combined passenger car and truck sales.

This marks the fourth consecutive year that Chevrolet has been the world's largest builder of motor vehicles and the sixth time during the past eight years that Chevrolet has occupied this position.

We know that you are not interested in sales records merely as sales records; and neither is Chevrolet; but we believe that you will be interested in these facts as an index of America's judgment of motor car value. For that is exactly what they are.

They show that men and women who have bought Chevrolet products during past years

IN COMBINED PASSENGER CAR AND TRUCK SALES

feel that they got such good value and good service that they bought Chevrolets again in 1934. And that a great many other people who had never bought Chevrolet products before were also impressed with Chevrolet value and decided to join the Chevrolet family of owners.

The combined demand of these two groups of buyers has spelled public preference for Chevrolet; and public preference is the only impartial and authoritative guide to better values.

Naturally, we of Chevrolet are very appreciative of this public preference for our products. We want to continue to be worthy of it. And so we have developed two new lines of Chevrolets that are superior in every way to the very sound and fine Chevrolets that have won such high public favor during the past year.

These two new Chevrolets will be presented for your approval on Saturday, January fifth. They embody important advances in all-round motor car quality with particular emphasis on operating economy and performance.

The engines are improved—and Chevrolet's famous Knee-Action Ride is made even smoother and more satisfying—for we believe in giving you the latest refinements in engineering and comfort each year. These are the best Chevrolets we have ever produced; and, of course, they will be offered in the two lowest price ranges.

We have built and sold approximately 870,000 passenger cars and trucks in 1934. We believe conditions are improving, and we expect to do considerably better than this next year, for we are confident that you will like our new products. They are the finest cars and biggest dollar values in Chevrolet history. Choose Chevrolet for Quality at Low Cost!

NOTRE DAME ROUTS STANFORD QUINTET, 29-19

Shift Leeper from End to Back.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Harry Leeper, who played end at Northwestern during the recent season, is expected to be at one of the half back posts for the eastern all star eleven which meets a western team here in a charity game on New Year's day. The shifting of Leeper from end to half back is one of the changes Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr have been forced to make as the result of an injury to Duane Purvis, the east's best half back.

Purvis, upon whom Hanley and Kerr were banking because of all around talents, will undergo an operation at Oakland tomorrow for torn cartilages and ligaments in his right knee, which he sustained in a practice scrimmage here yesterday.

Leeper a Former Back.

Hanley, who recently resigned as coach at Northwestern, said that he would have Leeper ready to go in at half back, although Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland and Ed Brominski of Columbia are ready to alternate at the job. Hanley pointed out that Leeper had played two years as a half back before he made him an end at Northwestern.

The injury to Purvis was the most serious blow that could have hit the eastern team since the former Purdue star was to have handled the kicking and passing. It was the first time in the eight years' experience at coaching eastern all-star teams that Hanley and Kerr have ever had a player definitly out before a game.

Kerr Recovers from Cold.

Kerr, after having been ill with a cold since Sunday, returned today to help Hanley put the squad through a two hour workout at the University of California stadium in Berkeley, where kicking and pass defense work made up the program.

The Western All-Stars, under the direction of Orin Hollingberry of Washington State and Percy Locey of Denver, worked out on the Stanford gridiron both in the morning and afternoon. Hollingberry attempted to show the players a point or two about blocking, but desisted from any practical demonstrations after Al Nichelina, a giant from St. Mary's, hit him.

STANFORD HEADS SOUTH

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Coach C. E. [Tiny] Thornhill and eighteen Stanford football players who remained here over Christmas tonight headed south to Pasadena, the Rose Bowl and the New Year's day game with Alabama.

The squad, which Coach Thornhill smilingly described as half a team, will join teammates who departed Monday to spend the holidays in their southern California homes.

Coach Thornhill wouldn't predict a Stanford victory.

"We will be in there trying, that's all," he said. "My only hope is all of our injured and ailing players will be ready to go."

Dodgers Get Bordagaray in Coast Club Deal

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—When Casey Stengel's Dodgers make their first 1935 appearance at Ebbets field some of the Flatbush fans may take a look at one of the outfielders, rub their eyes in astonishment and exclaim that Hack Wilson is back.

But it won't be the one time National league home run king they will see. It will be Stanley [Frenchy] Bordagaray, purchased from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league—a fellow whose squat architectural lines are almost identical with those of the pudgy Hack.

Bordagaray comes to the Dodgers in exchange for Outfielder Johnny Frederick, Pitcher Art Herring, and an unnamed amount of cash, estimated to be $10,000. Both Stengel and Business Manager Bob Quinn hope that Frenchy is going to be the answer to their prayer for a good right handed hitting outfielder.

A $50,000 price tag was attached to him when he joined the White Sox early in 1934, but he was returned because the price was regarded as too high after hitting .321 in 29 games. He went back to Sacramento to play in 117 games and hang up a batting average of .306.

The deal, the only one made by Brooklyn that brings a replacement for next season, resulted directly from the foresight of Stengel in arranging a working agreement with Sacramento before he journeyed east to the winter meetings. It was completed in a telephone conversation between Stengel and the coast club just before the Brooklyn pilot started toward California last Sunday night.

SILVER SKATES ENTRANTS CHEER FRIGID WEATHER

Waveland Avenue Rinks to Be Opened Today.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The advent of zero weather last night found a happy response in the hearts of the hundreds of Chicago boys, girls, men, and women who will compete in THE TRIBUNE'S eighteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies on Jan. 12 and 13. Many of them have been preparing for the races for several days, but their workouts will take on new vigor with the announcement last night by officials of the Lincoln park district that the rinks chosen for the 1933 races have been flooded and will be opened to the public for the first time today.

The rinks parallel Sheridan road at Waveland avenue and are ideally located with reference to accessibility by all modes of transportation.

Everything Is Promising.

Chicago's ice skating season for the last three years has been a hit or miss proposition with skaters picking their best opportunities between the January and February thaws. Heretofore, the Derbies were scheduled at Garfield park lagoon, but since 1930 conditions have been so unfavorable all but one meet have been transferred to park rinks to insure safety of the skaters.

Only two days of freezing temperatures are necessary to provide a perfect surface at the Waveland avenue arena and present indications are that the skaters will have no cause for worry on that score.

Last year's Derbies were held at this site after several postponements. The races originally had been planned for the Garfield park lagoon. The same change in plans was necessitated in 1932 when the Derbies were held at La Follette park after plans had been made for the west side lagoon.

Entries now are being received for the derbies. None will be accepted if postmarked later than midnight Jan. 6. No post entries will be permitted. There are no rules for the competition other than that all contestants 16 years of age and over must be registered with the Western Skating association, under whose sanction the meet is held. This registration, which costs 25 cents and permits competition for one year in all sanctioned meets, may be obtained when the skaters report for their racing numbers.

Here Are the Divisions.

The age classifications and the distances of the qualifying races and the finals follow:

Men's Senior, 18 years and over, 1 mile qualifying, 2 miles final.
Boys' Intermediate, 16 and 17 years, half mile qualifying, 1 mile final.

Any skater, regardless of residence, is eligible to compete. Last year two skaters from Cedar Rapids, Ia., were among those winning prizes.

The list of awards, corresponding to those of other years, numbers thirty-five and constitutes the greatest array for any amateur meet in the central states. The winners of the seven derbies will receive silver skates. Plated skates and bronze skates are for those finishing second and third in each of the seven races. Those winning fourth and fifth will be given silver and bronze medals.

There Are Plenty of Prizes.

Lap prizes, gold medals, are awarded in the three longest races, the men's senior, boys' intermediate, and girls' senior derbies. The team which scores the most points in all seven events receives possession of the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy for one year. In addition each boy and girl reporting for the races will be given a souvenir skating button.

Team entries may be made by any official of the club if the ages of the contestants are attested by the coach or captain.

4 South Side Quintets Win in Prep Tourney

Eight high school basketball teams, four of them south side quintets, were returned victors in the first day's play of the annual prep tournament at the University of Chicago yesterday. Hirsch, Lindblom, Bowen, and Tilden were the south side winners, with Deerfield-Shields and Riverside-Brookfield victorious as suburban representatives, and Lane of the north side and Marshall of the west also triumphant.

Eight more grst round games to be played today will conclude the competition of the opening bracket. The survivors will meet tomorrow in the second round. Five rounds in all will be played before the championship is settled New Year's night.

Tilden Crushes Harrison.

Standouts in yesterday's play were Tilden, which stamped itself a powerful title possibility by crushing a good Harrison team, 51 to 24, and Lane Tech, last year's champion team, which swamped Sullivan, 37 to 11. These two teams, playing the last two games of the day, were as polished in performance as some of the earlier teams of the day had been ragged. Tilden and Lane will meet in a second round match at 4 o'clock tomorrow. Hirsch, a relative newcomer to senior

ROSS IGNORES NEW YORK ORDER; TO FIGHT KLICK

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 26.—(AP)—"Barney Ross will fight Frankie Klick for the junior welterweight title of the world in Miami on Jan. 24," was the only answer Art Winch, Ross' manager, had today to the demand of the New York State Athletic commission that Ross first meet a suitable lightweight contender before defending his junior welterweight crown.

The date for the Klick bout definitly was set today, Winch announced, and Ross will leave Hot Springs within a week or so for Chicago, where he will begin training for his title defense. Ross has been vacationing here with his mother and manager.

Levinsky Means Business at Stadium Tomorrow.

The nearest approach to a heavyweight championship fight presented in Chicago since Gene Tunney successfully defended the crown against Jack Dempsey by winning a ten round decision in 1927 will be held tomorrow at Chicago Stadium, when the current titleholder, Max Baer of Oakland, Cal., meets King Levinsky of Chicago.

Although the bout is scheduled for only four rounds and no official decision will be given, Baer's prestige will be at stake. Any doubt of this was dispelled yesterday during a meeting of the Illinois boxing commission, and the champion himself had a lot to do with it.

The first question to come up at the session, which in addition to Baer was attended by his manager, Ancil Hoffman, and Levinsky and his representative, Harold Steinman, was weight of the gloves to be used. Co-Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Stadium brought forth two sets of gloves at eight ounces, the weight agreed upon when contracts were signed two weeks ago. Baer proved that he was not fooling when he announced Sunday he would demand six ounce gloves.

Max Wants a Fight.

"Mr. Commissioners," he said to Chairman Joe Triner and George Getz, "if this is going to be a fight let's make it a fight. What is in the rules that would prevent Levinsky and me from using six ounce gloves instead of eight?"

When assured that there was nothing and that the matter had to be settled between the principals in the bout and not by the commission, Manager Steinman said Levinsky would welcome such a move. Steinman went on to say smaller gloves would give the King a better opportunity to beat the champion by scoring at least one knockdown if not a knockout, to which Baer replied:

"Levinsky is a good fighter, but he couldn't beat me, let alone register a knockdown in 30 rounds, so how can he do it in four?" Baer was referring to their two previous battles, the first at ten rounds at New York and the other at twenty at Reno, Nev., both in 1932, when Max started his climb to a title shot which eventually earned him the championship match with Primo Carnera. He stopped Carnera in eleven rounds at New York last June 14.

It's King's Big Chance.

Even so, Baer has given Levinsky the best and perhaps the only chance of his career to win the crown. The King has been punching harder during workouts in the last week than he has for any previous bout this year. It will mark the first time in ring history that a champion has risked his reputation in such a manner.

The commission ordered the lighter gloves brought forth, immediately after which they were weighed and sealed until 10 p. m. tomorrow, when they will be tossed into the ring to be donned by the boxers in full view of the large crowd expected. The semi-final contest at ten rounds between Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, and Frank Battaglia, Chicago, will go on after the main event.

No Official Decision.

It was agreed that only three feet of gauze and two feet of one inch adhesive tape on each hand be allowed. Chairman Joseph Triner then informed the fighters that in case of a knockout the referee will count out the victim, but he will not give a decision. Neither will an official verdict be rendered if the bout goes the scheduled distance. As a result, the decision will be given by newspapermen at the ringside.

If Levinsky wins a popular decision or scores a knockout he no doubt will be acclaimed by the public as the new champion, but the state commission will not recognize any such claim.

The champion shook hands with the King before departing for Trafton's gymnasium to work out, and said: "Good luck; don't forget to keep your hands up Friday." Baer and the challenger will appear at the commission again at 1 p. m. tomorrow to be weighed in and examined. Both finished boxing drills yesterday. Baer will lay off today, but Levinsky will train to keep his weight at 200 pounds.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

NEAR OLD SCENES.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 26.—As The Wake arose in Deming, N. M., the other morning memory wandered back to the spring of 1899. As a young baseball reporter we accompanied the old west side club, now the Cubs, on its spring training trip into this territory.

Our destination was Faywood Hot Springs, 24 miles up a branch line railroad between Deming and Silver City. The springs really were a ranch four miles across the plains from the railroad station to which we scribes took turns in riding to file our copy at the telegraph station.

Presence of a big ball club was supposed to advertise Faywood. It is still there, we are informed, but development of other resorts nearer transportation operated to prevent its reaching the prominence its sponsors originally hoped.

It was an interesting place to train so far as getting into physical condition was concerned, but the skin diamond, full of bumps, did not appeal to our diamond heroes as much as horseback riding and digging in the ruins of deserted Indian villages, some of which we accepted as Aztec. Therefore the club was not in sharp playing form when the season opened and finished somewhat dismally in the National league pennant race. So the trip was not repeated.

Our arrival at Faywood still is a vivid memory. As the train stopped at the somewhat forlorn station in the open plains with no signs of habitation a group of cowboys rode up, firing pistols, swinging lassos, and uttering whoops. Some of our more timid associates thought it a wild west holdup.

Closer inspection, however, revealed that among the "bad men" were Big Bill Lange, Sandow Mertes, Bridget Donohue, and several other early arrivals who had recruited genuine cowboys to augment our welcome.

It was on this trip that we played an exhibition game at Silver City. Hughey Fullerton was THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reporter, Clarence Bradley for the Chronicle, Tom Chivington for the Inter Ocean, and the now Wake for the old Record.

In his report of the Silver City game Fullerton facetiously referred to the crowd present as braves and squaws. After liquoring up pretty thoroughly a group of cowboys and miners decided New Mexico womanhood had been slurred by the reference to squaws.

They came in a rather ugly mood to our ranch, seeking Hughey to avenge the insult. We kept him hidden until "Dan," a handsome bronzed fellow who knew us all, explained the situation to the liquored knights. Thus what might have been an unpleasant situation passed off with good feeling. Funny thing about it was that Chicago newspapers did not ordinarily reach those distant parts then, but had been ordered specially because of our presence.

On another occasion we were "jobbed," we feel sure, although it was denied at the time and we never afterward could secure a confession. It was our turn to ride with the stories to the telegraph station. We protested a bit, not being accustomed to riding, but Tom Chivington said, "One of those western saddles is just like sitting in a rocking chair and we'll get you a gentle pony."

Out the pony came. We were tossed into the saddle. The pony didn't budge. "Give him the spurs," suggested one of the conspirators. We did. The effect was electrical. The pony snorted, wheeled, and tore at full gallop in the opposite direction from which we wished. Hanging on to the pommel, it seemed as if all we could see were prairie dog holes or some kind of holes into which we expected him to stumble any second.

After running away about two miles the pony stopped and again refused to budge. No more spurs for us. We just waited until rescued and the pony was led back with us aboard. Those conspirators no doubt would have left us out there on the plains to get back as best we could, except that we also had their stories, as well as our own, for the next morning. Provided with another pony, we finally made the trip to the telegraph office.

At another time we played a baseball game at El Paso. That night, of course, our party visited the gambling houses and sights of Juarez just across the river in Mexico. Finally after trying our hand at several games of chance we did not know, we missed Clarence Bradley. Then we found him seated before a faro layout entirely surrounded by Mexicans and Chinese.

PETERS SCORES 10 POINTS, LEADS IRISH VICTORY

Victors Will Play in East Saturday.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Notre Dame defeated the Stanford university basketball team here tonight, 29 to 19. The Irish trailed 6 to 1 midway in the first half, but rallied strongly to take a 16 to 7 advantage at the half.

In the second period Notre Dame ran the count to 22 to 7. Then Bryan [Dinty] Moore, Stanford sub guard, made three field goals to conduct a one man rally. His efforts came too late, however, and Notre Dame coasted in with a 10 point margin.

Marty Peters, giant center and football star, scored ten points to lead both teams in scoring. Johnny Ford, little Notre Dame forward, was second with seven points. Moore's six points gave him scoring honors for the Indians.

Stanford will meet Michigan State at Lansing tomorrow night. The Irish will leave Friday for their games Saturday in New York with New York university and Monday in Boston against Holy Cross. Lineups:

N. U. AWAITS BUTLER

The holiday vacation will come to a close today for members of Northwestern university's basketball team, who are to report at Patten gymnasium to resume practice in preparation for the New Year's game with Butler.

With school still out, Coach Dutch Lonborg plans to put the squad through double workouts for the remainder of the week. The Wildcats expect their hardest game of the season from Butler, which for the last two years has held the Missouri Valley championship.

Hinkle Coaches Butler.

The Indianapolis team is coached by Paul [Tony] Hinkle, former all around star at the University of Chicago. Under his leadership the Bulldogs have won one national championship, three state titles, and two conference titles.

Butler will present the tallest team the Wildcats have met this year. The team is led by Gene Demary, 6 foot 8 inch center. The other members of the team average 6 feet in height. All members of the starting five have had at least one year of varsity experience.

A victory over Butler would give the Wildcats a record of six straight victories for the season and enable them to enter the Big Ten campaign against Wisconsin Jan. 7 with a clean slate.

In their last game the Wildcats have stuck to one starting lineup which has functioned smoothly both on offense and defense. So far this season the Purple has scored 194 points, against 144 for opponents. The regular starting lineup consisted of Lyle Fisher and Guy Mercer, forwards; Jess McAnally, center, and Al Kawal and Duke Vance, guards.

PURDUE LINEUP UNCERTAIN

Scheduled to usher in the new year with two outstanding games, meeting DePaul's brilliant team at Chicago on New Year's night and Marquette at Milwaukee on Jan. 2, Lambert indicated that he was still far from a definite decision on the permanent assignments at the center and floor guard posts.

MRS. JARRETT BREAKS RECORD IN BACKSTROKE

Miami, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of Los Angeles, unofficially sliced three seconds from the national 200 yard backstroke record today in her first clocked swim since September.

The Olympic 100 meter backstroke champion swam the distance in 2:38-3-5. Alice Bridges of Uxbridge, Mass., established the official mark of 2:41 3-5 last July.

Mrs. Jarrett's swim was a training trial for the third annual national Olympic stars aquatic meet here December 30, 31, and Jan. 1.

Landis Reinstates Pipgras, Red Sox Pitcher

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis yesterday granted the reinstatement application of George Pipgras, Boston Red Sox pitcher, and denied the claim of the Brooklyn club to services of Player John Van der Meer of Scranton.

The veteran right hander was out of action all of last season because of a chipped bone in his right elbow. Through the year Pipgras has undergone treatment for the injury which has now, apparently, responded. During the off season Pipgras makes his home in Florida.

FOOTBALL RULE CHANGES TO BE DISCUSSED TODAY

Annual Coaches' Meeting to Be Convened.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—College football coaches from Maine to California assembled here today to play Hamlet for the next two days with the game's greatest problem—to let the rules be or not to be.

Whether 'tis better to stick to the solid conservatism of the present code, with its premium on prevention of injuries to college and prep school players, or to give in to the lure of the wide open game that has established professional football so solidly, was the question that ruled preliminary discussions.

Subsidizing to be Discussed.

Although this problem holds the center of the stage of the annual discussion, the pros and cons of subsidizing college athletes will run the rules debates a close second as the National Collegiate Athletic association meets in its annual convention jointly with the American Football Coaches' association for the first time in 29 years, and in conjunction with the College Physical Education association and the American Student Health association.

The success of professional ball this fall has brought distinct agitation for a return of some of football's earlier rules—restoration of the goal posts to the goal line and declaring a fumble a free ball again. In addition many coaches would like to try out the most spectacular innovation of the professionals, permitting forward passes to be thrown from any point back of the line of scrimmage, instead of a minimum of five yards as the college rule now reads. There is talk of bringing the ball in 15 yards instead of the present 10 when it encroaches on the sidelines.

Changes Are Considered.

While the will of the coaches is not binding upon the intercollegiate rules committee, which meets later in the winter, the coaches advisory committee, headed by Lou Little of Columbia, will carry the recommendations of football teachers into those sessions. Questionnaires filled in for the advisory committee this fall indicate that while the coaches as a whole are flirting mentally with the possibilities of a wide open game, the conservatives are in the majority.

Jimmy Phelan from the University of Washington seemed to sum up the situation.

"Personally, I believe professional football and its willingness to make changes each season that are directed toward making a circus out of football have temporarily stampeded the college game," he said. "But when all is said and done, I will be surprised if many radical changes are recommended by the coaches."

Meeting Starts Today.

The meetings, starting at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow with the first gathering of the coaches, and ending Friday evening with the annual banquet, run through a tremendous variety of subjects.

Today the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing association met and awarded Penn State the annual championship tournament March 15 and 16. In the only other preliminary session today, the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic association met with Walter S. Okeson for the annual grading of football officials on the basis of their work last fall.

The discussions on subsidization, heightened by Cornell's frank decision to provide athletic scholarships for boys who can also meet their stiff mental requirements, begin tomorrow morning with a joint round table discussion of coaches and N. C. A. A. officials, presided over by Prof. Z. G. Clevenger of Indiana, Maj. J. L. Griffith, head of the Big Ten and president of the N. C. A. A. will preside over the general discussions in a joint meeting of all four associations in the afternoon.

Will Discuss Plays.

Meanwhile the coaches tomorrow morning will hear "outstanding plays of the season" discussed by Ray Morrison of Southern Methodist; Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago; James Phelan the University of Washington; Adrian Lindsay of Kansas; S. L. Robinson of Mississippi college, and Lloyd Jordan of Amherst.

FAST FREIGHTS BEATEN, 34 TO 30, BY HUTCHINSON

JIM M'MILLEN'S MOTHER DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Mrs. Maude McMillen, 57 years old, mother of James McMillen, former University of Illinois football star and now a prominent professional wrestler, died yesterday at her home in Antioch of a heart ailment, from which she had been suffering for some months. Funeral services will be held in Antioch this afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in Fort Hill cemetery, near Volo. Besides her son Mrs. McMillen leaves her husband, Willis; a daughter, Mrs. Wesley Faulkner of Grays Lake, and her mother, Mrs. Sarah Seesholts.

Chick Evans Recovering Following Operation

Charles [Chick] Evans, Chicago amateur golfer, who is in the Presbyterian hospital recovering from an operation performed last Saturday, was reported resting more easily yesterday. He hopes to return home New Year's day.

FIELDING RECORD OF CUBS SHOWS ONLY 137 ERRORS

Team Sets New National League Record.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There seems to have been one thing that the Cubs could do in the 1934 season whether they were in a frisky mood or so tired of it all. They could field. They could pick up, throw and catch baseballs better than any other team in the National league. Moreover, they set a new league record when they foozled only 137 chances during the entire campaign.

The Cubs' derth of errors formed one of three new league records, while another was tied. Len Koenecke of Brooklyn set a new mark for regular outfielders when he made only two errors in handling 318 chances in 121 games. Koenecke's percentage was .994, one point better than the record set by Louis Duncan of the Cincinnati Reds in 1923 and equaled by Wally Berger in 1932.

Davis In 12 Double Plays.

Curt Davis, freshman righthander of the Phillies, rang up a new league mark when he participated in twelve double plays, Burleigh Grimes previously having held the record for pitchers since 1922, when he took part in eleven double killings while working for Brooklyn.

The record tie was accomplished by the Pittsburgh catching staf, which was guilty of only four passed balls.

Members of the Cubs set no new individual records for the league, except Gabby Hartnett's prolongation of his own durability mark. They had two season leaders — Lon Warneke and Hartnett, however. Lonnie topped the list of 21 pitchers who fielded perfectly, by virtue of having handled the most chances, 73. Of the catchers who caught in 100 games or more, Gabby was the best fielder with a percentage of .9956.

Gabby Exceeds 100 Games.

It was the tenth season in which Gabby had caught more than 100 games and the fourth time he had fattened up his durability mark since breaking George Gibson's old record of having caught 100 or more games in six seasons. Gabby still is back of Cracker Schalk's all time record and tied Mickey Cochrane's unfinished string. Cochrane, however, has never dropped below the 100 mark in ten years, while Hartnett's consecutive run is five years.

Bill Terry is recognized as the first base fielding leader in today's official release of the fielding records, though Charley Grimm had a mark slightly better than his. The Giant boss got the honor because he played in all of his team's 153 games, whereas Grimm was in fewer than half of his team's games, 74. Bill Herman was third, behind Critz and Frisch, among the heavy duty second basemen, and Stanley Hack was third among the third basemen who played in more than 100 games.

Woody English and Bill Jurges made certain that shortstopping honors came to Chicago, though neither played in 100 games. English fielded .971 in 56 games and Jurges had a mark of .966 in 98 games. Jurges was one of three shortstops who participated in a triple play.

The Cubs' regular outfielders were far down in the list. They were headed by Kiki Cuyler, the team's batting leader. Ki fielded .9709 in 142 games and Babe Herman fielded .9707 in 113 games. Chuck Klein was 35th in the league with .962, and George Stainback was 39th with .955.

LONG SHOT WINS AT SANTA ANITA; 6,000 SEE RACES

Well up with the leaders at the start, the thoroughbred made its bid at midstretch and never was headed. Jocky J. King was up. Second was Dark Devil, with High Tension third. The winner paid $52.80 on place tickets and $14.80 to show.

Onrush captured the feature event of the afternoon, a $1,000 claiming race at a mile, when he nosed out Hokuao in 1 minute 37 seconds. Impeach was third.

Bert John came home in front in the third race of the afternoon to pay the tidy sum of $29.80.

RIVERSIDE WINS IN SUBURBAN CHURCH MEET

A basket in the last second of play enabled the Riverside Methodist quintet to defeat St. Michael's of Berwyn, 33 to 31, last night in a first round game of the west suburban church basketball tournament. In other games Berwyn Presbyterian beat Riverside Presbyterian, 35 to 25; Berwyn First Baptist whipped St. Odilio, 37 to 20, and Berwyn Bethlehem Baptist defeated Clyde Baptist, 41 to 19.

Second Baptist Brotherhood of Chicago, defending champion, will meet Berwyn First Lutheran today in what promises to be an outstanding game. Other games today include:

Berwyn First Methodist vs. La Grange Baptist.

ST. VIATOR FROSH STAR DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Joseph Stanford, star freshman member of the St. Viator college football team, died yesterday in New Haven, Conn., as the result of a fractured skull sustained in an automobile accident in New Haven on Christmas eve, college officials learned today.

Four St. Viator football men, Al Palladino, Abe Rohinsky, John Gallenkant, and Emil Nickelson, will be pallbearers at the funeral tomorrow.

Sugar Bowl Teams Drill on Muddy Fields

New Orleans, La., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The principals in Dixie's Sugar Bowl football game had an opportunity today to tune their attacks to a muddy field should rain fall on New Year's day.

Both Tulane and Temple worked out on slippery underfooting caused by a steady drizzle that fell most of the day at Baton Rouge, where the Owls are camped, and here, where Tulane drilled at its own stadium.

Hard Drill Scheduled Today.

With only one more practice session scheduled for State field at Baton Rouge before Temple entrains for New Orleans, Coach Pop Warner put his charges through a stiff drill and announced more rough practice work was on tap for tomorrow.

The Temple squad will close its training camp at Baton Rouge Friday afternoon and journey to New Orleans, where light workouts will be held Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

Warner said the rough scrimmages yesterday and today left no injuries, and with the exception of several colds the players were reported to be in tiptop shape.

Simons Shows Old Form.

The same was true with the Tulane squad. Little Monk Simons, the south's leading scorer and the spark-plug of Tulane's attack, worked again today and showed all his old time flash. The shoulder injury suffered in the L. S. U. game Dec. 1 apparently has healed, and the triple threat back is certain to start the game.

HARVARD CLUB HEARS FOOTBALL PROSPECTS GOOD

Prospects for a 1935 football team that will beat Yale were held forth to members of the Harvard Club of Chicago yesterday by Arthur Oakes, Oak Park scholarship student at the university who is captain of the freshman football squad. Oakes was one of 75 undergraduates honored by alumni of the school at an annual luncheon held at the Sherman hotel.

"Only four members of the team graduated," said young Oakes, "and with the sophomore material we have we hope to produce a score reading: Harvard 30; Yale 0, next year."

REPORT PERSISTS THAT CLARK WILL COACH HARVARD

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Harvard's search for a new head coach is believed to be leading toward George [Potsy] Clark, all-western quarter back at Illinois in 1915 and now coach of Detroit's professional eleven.

Bill Bingham, graduate manager at Harvard, arrived here today for the annual coaches' meeting, and, though he had no statement to make, close friends intimated the Crimson's successor to Eddie Casey might be Clark.

Clark, as quarter back on the championship A. E. F. football team in France, played with several former Harvard stars, among them Tack Hardwick, and their efforts have carried much weight in his behalf.

JOHN E. ANDRUS, "STRAPHANGING" MILLIONAIRE, DIES

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—John Emery Andrus, 93, reputed to be one of the richest men in the world, died today at his home in Yonkers. With the exception of John D. Rockefeller Sr., he was the last of the noted group who won fame and fortune in the final half of the 19th century. Because of his habit of riding in the subway, Mr. Andrus was known as the "millionaire straphanger."

Mr. Andrus was taken ill Monday. Pneumonia set in and he failed to rally.

From his first dollar, which he made as a lad by selling fish to Horace Greeley, Mr. Andrus built up a huge fortune in oil, industrial and railroad stocks, real estate, chemicals, and lumber. He was said to be the largest individual owner of timber in the world. Early in his business career he became interested in Standard Oil and was said to own the land occupied by the gigantic Standard Oil plant at Bayonne, N. J.

Large Sum to Charity.

Some years ago Mr. Andrus made arrangements for disposing of his vast wealth. Forty-five per cent of his fortune, it is understood, will go to the Surdna Foundation—the name is Andrus spelled backward—which will distribute funds to institutions "for the care of the aged and the young."

Except for John D. Rockefeller, Mr. Andrus was the largest individual taxpayer in Westchester.

He had his oddities. He said he preferred to ride in the subway because it helped him to think. If he had complex problems to work out in his mind he was able, he said, to get a clearer survey of the whole problem in a seat in the noisy, crowded cars.

An interesting sidelight of his character was revealed when in the fall of 1933 he summoned Tax Commissioner Timothy Murray of Yonkers to appraise a dead pig and ascertain how much of a bounty Mr. Andrus was entitled to from the public funds. The unfortunate pig was killed by a dog trespassing on the Andrus farm, and the law entitles the owner to reimbursement in such cases. Mr. Murray found that the pig weighed 200 pounds, and eventually decided that Mr. Andrus should be allowed $7.50.

Huge Medical Interests.

His patent medicine interests gave him the sobriquet in congress of "the pepsin king." He was president of the Palisade Manufacturing company and treasurer of the Arlington Chemical company, both of Yonkers.

In politics Mr. Andrus was an ardent Republican, and was one of the powers behind the throne of political control in Westchester county for almost 60 years. His favorite political character was Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Andrus served several terms as a representative in congress from Westchester and also served as mayor of Yonkers.

Mr. Andrus was born on a farm near Pleasantville, N. Y. He married Miss Julia M. Dyckman, who died in 1911. They had eight children, of whom the survivals are five daughters, Mrs. A. Newell Benedict and Mrs. William H. Taylor of Yonkers; Mrs. Frederick Davenport of Clinton, N. Y.; Mrs. Samuel Thorpe and Mrs. Peter B. Williams of Minneapolis, and two sons, Hamlin F. Andrus of Yonkers and John Andrus Jr. of Minneapolis.

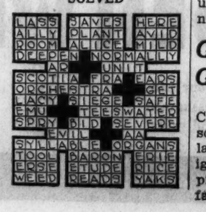
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Under the title "Immortal Dramas" epic stories of the Old Testament are to be brought to the air in a dramatized series of programs over coast to coast NBC networks probably beginning Sunday, Jan. 13. Sponsored by Montgomery, Ward & Co., these biblical presentations call for a cast of more than 80 persons for each presentation. The actors are yet to be chosen. Roy Shield's orchestra will furnish the musical background with the assistance of Noble Cain and his a capella choir. Harvey Hays will be the narrator.

Lloyd Lewis will adapt the biblical tales for radio presentation. The story of David and Goliath has been scheduled for the premiere of the series. WMAQ will be the local outlet and the program will run from 1 to 1:30 Sunday afternoons.

Al Jolson will be Ben Bernie's radio guest next Tuesday evening. . . . Kathleen Wells, blues singer, is a candidate for the Showboat post vacated by Annette Hanshaw a few weeks ago. Miss Wells will appear tonight and next week and then a decision will be made. . . . Mrs. Bruno Hauptmann is making several broadcasts over a New York station from her hotel in Flemington, N. J.

One of the high lights of the radio year was Lionel Barrymore's interpretation of Scrooge on Christmas day. . . . Dr. Allan Dafoe has announced that he will continue to say "no" to all offers of baby food makers and all other prospective sponsors seeking to land him for commercial broadcasting. . . . Beatrice Lillie will burlesque well known types of bores on her new air series.

HOLD MILITARY FUNERAL TODAY FOR GEN. SANBORN

The body of Gen. Joseph Brown Sanborn, wartime commander of the 131st infantry who died suddenly Saturday evening in his home at 3636 Lake Park avenue, reposed in state yesterday in the Illinois National Guard armory at 16th street and Michigan avenue.

The funeral in which full military honors will be accorded the soldier will be held at 2 p. m. today in the armory. The entire 131st infantry regiment will march into the armory just before the services to act as a military escort. Other military organizations of which Gen. Sanborn was a member also will be represented.

All of the military organizations will stand at attention while Capt. Thomas B. Egerton, wartime chaplain of the regiment, says the service. At the conclusion of the service the body will be taken to Oak Woods cemetery, where it will be placed on a caisson and carried to the grave.

JOHN WOOD DIES; ONCE IMPLEMENT HOUSE OFFICIAL

John G. Wood, 74 years old, an official of the International Harvester company, died yesterday in his home in Exeter, N. H., according to word received by friends here.

Mr. Wood was born in Exeter and received his preparatory education there. After his graduation from Harvard university he became associated with the U. S. Cordage company of Brooklyn, N. Y. He entered the employ of the harvester company in 1906 and remained with the concern until his retirement five years ago.

His sister, Florence, and a niece, Mrs. Dora Wichtman, both of Exeter, survive. Mr. Wood was a member of the University and Harvard clubs here.

Veteran of Mayor Harrison Regime of 1911.

John McWeeny, 77 years old, who was chief of police under Mayor Carter Harrison from 1911 to 1913, died yesterday of a heart attack in his home at 4215 West End avenue. Mr. McWeeny entered the police department in 1885 and resigned as chief during a gambling investigation. He returned to the force in 1915 as a captain but only served for a short time. In 1920 he was employed as a watchman and later operated a garage, retiring a few years ago.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Vallee of Los Angeles, whose husband is a cousin of Rudy Vallee; and a son, John Jr., 210 East Pearson street. A brother, Patrick McWeeny, retired as a police lieutenant in 1931, after being on the force for 41 years. One of Patrick McWeeny's sons is Douglas McWeeny, former big league pitcher, once with the White Sox.

Funeral arrangements were delayed pending word from Mrs. Vallee. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

B. MARKWALD AND WIFE DIE; BOTH PIONEERS

Bernard Markwald, 83 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Markwald, 79 years old, pioneer Chicagoans, died within a few hours of each other at their home at 8025 Calumet avenue Christmas night. Mr. Markwald was a meat buyer for the old Nelson Morris company until shortly after the world war, when he retired.

He was born in Berlin, Germany, and came to Chicago when a boy. After the Chicago fire he started in the grocery business at 16th street and Wabash avenue, and during the Fair of 1893 supplied the exposition restaurants with meat. After that fair he joined the packing company and was sent to Europe during the war as their representative. On March 9 the Markwalds celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary. Mrs. Markwald was born in Wheeling, W. Va.

They are survived by three children, Edward of Butte, Mont., and Louis and Mrs. C. Adams of Chicago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. from the chapel at 7350 Cottage Grove avenue.

WM. TURNBULL, EX-WATER WORKS ENGINEER, DIES

William James Turnbull, 90 years old, a former engineer of the Chicago water works system, died yesterday at his home, 1807 Greenbay road, Glencoe. He was born in Chicago and spent his life in the city and suburbs.

Mr. Turnbull was a member of the Art institute, Chicago Historical society, and the Masonic order. Surviving are his widow and five children, Katharine, Wilhelmina, Eva Elizabeth, Kenneth, and Alan. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the home, with burial in Rosehill cemetery.

Henry Bunn, Springfield Retired Banker, Is Dead

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Henry Bunn, 76, retired banker and member of a prominent Illinois family, died today after a short illness. He was the son of Jacob Bunn, pioneer banker who developed the largest early downstate bank only to see his institution go under in the panic of 1873. Henry Bunn and other sons of the bank's founder by 1925 had paid back the entire amount of every original claim. Before retiring Bunn was cashier of the Marine bank, was vice president of the Illinois Watch company and the Sangamon Electric company.

Wm. Eckdhal, Engineer for School Board, Dies

William Eckdhal, 70 years old, of 2912 North Whipple street, for forty-five years an engineer in the employ of the board of education, died at his home yesterday of a heart attack. For the last 16 years Mr. Eckdhal had been employed at the Darwin school, Humboldt boulevard and Edgewood avenue. He is survived by his widow and a son. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the chapel at 2166 North California avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Brothers and Sister Share Einar Johansen's Estate

Wills admitted to probate and filed yesterday with Probate Clerk M. C. Robin were those of Einar Johansen, who died on Sept. 27, leaving an estate of $2,500 to four brothers and a sister, and Ole Sale, who died on Dec. 6, leaving an estate of $10,000 to his widow and five children. Trygve Maseng was named executor for the Johansen estate, and Henry Sale, a son, for the Sale estate.

Takes Physical Test; Drops Dead in Street

A few minutes after he had visited a physician for a physical examination, Osmer G. Stacy, 60 years old, of the Hotel Lansing, 1036 North Dearborn street, dropped dead in front of 930 North Clark street yesterday. He had been night superintendent of the linotype department of the American Medical association, 535 North Dearborn street, for thirty-five years.

Heart Attack Kills Editor of Newspaper in Indiana

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—William H. Robertson, 60, widely known newspaper editor of the morning edition of the Lafayette Journal and Courier and conductor of a column, "The Bill Board," died this evening.

G. Carl Huber, Michigan Graduate School Dean, Dies

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 26.—(AP)—G. Carl Huber, 69, dean of the graduate school and director of the anatomical laboratories at the University of Michigan, died today in the university hospital. He had been a member of the faculty for 45 years.

FUNERAL TODAY, FOR MRS. LANG, 94 YEARS OLD

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Mrs. Margaret Lang, a resident of Chicago for 65 years, who died Monday at the home of her son, Frank, at 5224 Greenwood avenue. She was 94 years old. The services will be at the home at 2 p. m. and burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET LANG.

Despite her years, Mrs. Lang attended motion picture shows and voted at the November election. She would have been 95 years old on Feb. 22. Born in Germany, Mrs. Lang was brought to this country at a child and lived in St. Louis before coming to Chicago.

Surviving are six sons, three daughters, 23 grandchildren and 38 great-grandchildren. Her husband, Daniel G. Lang, died in 1918 at the age of 85.

ALL LIVE STOCK SOARS; HOG GAIN BEST IN 3 YEARS

Small Receipts, Cold Boost Prices.

Sensational gains were scored in hogs and lambs yesterday, and while cattle advanced moderately, all kinds of live stock reached new highs for recent weeks. Starvation receipts of hogs sent buyers scouring the yards for stock at uneven advances of 25 to 75 cents, and some of the lightest weights showed even larger gains on final rounds.

The advance was the sharpest for one day in more than three years, and the various classes of hogs sold from 50 cents to $1.00 and in places $1.25 over the closing quotations of last week. The average indicated gain was 45 cents over Monday's price and 65 cents gain over last Saturday, while the top sales were up 45 cents since Monday and 85 cents since last Saturday.

Pork at Two Months' High.

Fresh pork took another spurt to the highest price levels in more than two months, influenced by the abrupt drop in supplies, the rise in hog prices and the continued cold weather.

No one in the market looks for the present small volume of receipts to continue for long, although packers are convinced that the peak of the winter movement was reached two weeks ago and that available supplies in the country now are in strong hands. The holiday, extreme cold and snow caused most of this week's decrease.

Including holiday arrivals the eleven leading markets the first half of this week handled only 85,000 hogs, as compared with 270,000 the first three days of last week, 177,000 a year ago, and 234,000 two years ago.

Top Hogs Bring $9.35.

Fancy 195 to 260 pound averages topped the market yesterday at $9.35, including the processing tax of $2.25 to the federal government. This was the highest top since September 25. On August 29 packers' top hogs cost $10.30, the highest in four years, tax included.

Lamb prices soared 25 to 50 cents to new six months' highs, showing gains of $2.50 to $3 over the low time of last month. In 36 days top lambs have gained exactly $3, the best yesterday bringing $9.35, as compared with $6.35 on Nov. 20. Current quotations for lambs are at the highest winter levels in four years.

Swift paid the new $10.75 top for steers averaging 1,262 pounds, which stands within 15 cents of the highest mark at Chicago since January, 1932. A much larger proportion of the receipts reached $10 and above, with yearling stock at $10.35 and top hefers up to $8.60. Advances in cattle for the day amounted to 15 to 25 cents, but most steer classes are bringing 50 cents to $1 more than at the close of last week and some are $1.25 to $1.50 higher than two weeks ago.

LARD ADVANCES LIMIT

Lard futures yesterday advanced the maximum 50 cents a hundred pounds allowed under Chicago Board of Trade rules. In New York cottonseed oil, which is used as a lard substitute, also staged an advance due to the lard rise here. Trading in both commodities was unusually heavy.

The immediate cause of the sharp upturn in lard was the present small receipts of hogs in the Chicago market. May lard sold at 12.95 cents and the July future touched 13.12½ cents, the highest prices reached so far this season. The best prices of the day were reduced moderately by the late profit taking.

Cottonseed oil also made new high prices for the season with futures advancing approximately 30 points for the day.

Another Maximum Rise.

May bellies also rose the maximum permitted for the day's trading. Cash demand was reported as only fair.

Cash lard finished at 12.45 cents; loose, 11.82 cents, and leaf at 12 cents, while bellies were 15⅝ cents per pound. Prices follow:

Lard.

	High.	Low.	Close Dec26.	Dec24.	Dec 27. 1933
December	12.65	12.55	12.60	12.15	4.82
January	12.55	12.42	12.45	12.05	5.30
May	12.95	12.60	12.87	12.45	5.67
July	13.12	12.75	13.02	12.62	5.60

Clear Bellies.

December	15.50	15.45	15.45	15.10	5.10
January	15.75	15.60	15.75	15.25	5.05
May	16.35	16.25	16.35	15.85	6.20

Note—Above prices include processing tax at 2.47c per pound on lard and 2.62c per pound on bellies taxed on produce made since March. This tax is rebated on produce exported, but varies according to the amount, due to the fact that tax was gradually advanced.

While the cold weather and the unusually light hog receipts provided the immediate market background, the general prospects for hog production have been an important factor in the market for some time.

The recent government survey on production showed that the 1934 fall pig crop was 48 per cent under 1933 and the combined fall and spring crops was 35 per cent below last year's. In addition the government reported a prospective decrease of 17 per cent in the number of sows to farrow next spring.

The crop this year is known to be the smallest for the last 11 years for which records are available and is believed to be the smallest in the last 35 years.

Hold Hearing Today on New Studebaker Setup

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Judge Thomas W. Slick tomorrow will hear in the federal District court at Fort Wayne, Ind., the plan for reorganizing the financial and administrative structure of the Studebaker corporation which was announced last Friday. The hearing is expected to be routine to set a date for hearing objections from creditors.

Grains Rise as Cold Wave Grips Nation

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Prices rose on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday as the temperature dropped over most of the grain belt. The cold spell, the most severe that has been experienced this winter, was the direct cause of the upturn in prices.

Corn led the market and staged a sharp advance on the prospective increase in feeding demand resulting from the colder weather. The advance in hog prices and a sharp upturn in lard futures helped provide the basis for the speculative buying in grains.

The rise in corn futures extended from 1¼ to 2½ cents a bushel while wheat trailed with a net gain of ½ cent a bushel. Rye and oats were likewise strong with the latter grain closing a cent to 1½ cents above Monday final quotations.

Closing Prices Higher.

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	$0.99¼	$0.99⅝	$0.98⅝
Corn	.90	.88½	.87⅛
Oats	.53¾	.52½	.52
Rye	.76½	.76¼	.76½

In some sections of the winter wheat belt, notably in northern Kansas, the subzero weather was seen as a threat to the crop. In northern Kansas the wheat does not have a blanket of snow as protection against the freezing blasts.

As had been expected the advent of a really cold spell brought the feeding problem to sharp focus again. In the face of a certain scarcity of supplies economy of feedstuffs has been practiced extensively. Cold weather makes liberal feeding a necessity and the next two months is the period of heaviest consumption.

Cold Increases Use of Food.

Grain men point out that the difference between a mild and a severe winter when translated into consumption of feedstuffs becomes an important price factor.

The advance in futures failed to stimulate prices in the cash grain market. Premiums which cash grain has been commanding over futures were cut down. The holiday slack in commercial demand was a factor in the failure of cash grains to follow the future market. Receipts of grain in the Chicago market were light.

Grain exchanges in Winnipeg and Liverpool were closed yesterday and foreign news played little part in the day's trading here. In Buenos Aires wheat moved up a trifle.

KANSAS HARVEST OF CORN BARELY ENOUGH FOR SEED

Corn harvested this year in Kansas as grain barely covers seed requirements for the new crop, according to the latest figures of the department of agriculture on the final returns from the state. Only 189,000 acres of corn were harvested as grain, compared with the 5,548,000 in 1933 and 6,317,000 in 1932. Actual grain harvested was 756,000 bushels, compared with 66,576,000 in 1933 and 120,023,000 two years ago. The department of agriculture says that probably not in the last 60 years has the state harvested less corn as grain.

The government's figures for Nebraska give crop harvested as grain as 11,552.000 bushels, compared with 221,985,000 in 1933 and 253,126,000 in the previous year. For Illinois the 1934 total was reported at 133,000,000 bushels, against 208,000,000 bushels, while Iowa harvested 160,000,000 bushels, compared with 410,000,000 last year.

TWO ROADS DROP PLAN TO APPEAL EASTMAN ORDER

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Louisville and Nashville and Nashville and Chattanooga and St. Louis railroads have decided not to appeal to the United States Supreme court from an order affecting trackage rights on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway, issued by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator, according to word received today by Louis B. Wehle, counsel for a group of C. and E. I. bondholders.

Wehle said he understood that the two Southern lines had not reached a decision on whether to appeal from the order to the Interstate commerce commission. The New York Central, which with the Southern lines appealed to the federal court at Chicago against Eastman's order, made no comment on Wehle's statement.

N.Y.Curb Bond Sales Reach Billion Mark for 1st Time

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Yearly bond sales on the New York Curb exchange reached $1,000,000,000 today, the first time in the history of the exchange that sales have attained that figure. In 1921, the first year the curb exchange moved indoors from the sidewalks of Broad street, bond sales aggregated $25,510,000. There are 603 bond issues traded in on the curb.

National Battery Gives $20,000 to 400 Workers

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Distribution of holiday bonuses totaling $20,000 to 400 employés was announced today by the National Battery company. The company's headquarters are in St. Paul, with factories in North Bergen, N. J.; Depew, N. Y.; Chicago and Rock Island, Ill.; Kansas City and Los Angeles.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Will Remain Open Next Monday

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Governors of the New York Stock exchange today rejected a petition of members that the exchange be closed next Monday in order to allow an extra holiday in connection with suspended trading on New Year's day.

Power Output Reports to Be Issued Today

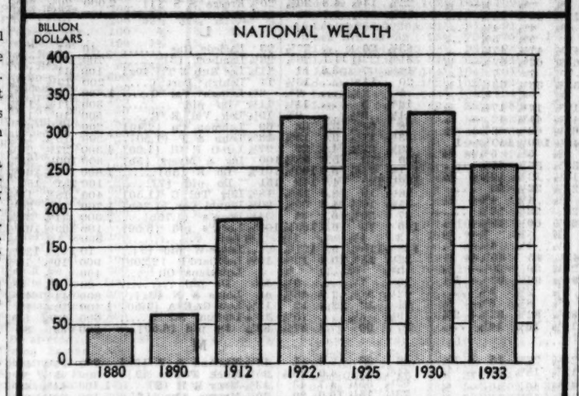
National Wealth, Due Largely to Lower Price Level, Is Now 100 Billion Dollars Less Than in 1925



Expect Fight to Rule Dollar Value Abroad

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Treasury officials today foresaw an approaching test of their power to keep the foreign value of the dollar under control, probably involving a decision on dipping into the remaining $1,800,000,000 of the exchange stabilization fund.

Eleven months have elapsed since the $2,000,000,000 fund was established. Of that sum only $200,000,000 has been put to use. Over most of the period, the dollar-pound rate was maintained at a point close to $5.05, a level which has come to be regarded as the objective of administration economists.

Dollar Turns Higher.

The last month, however, has seen the dollar strengthen under the influence of huge year-end international settlements heavily in favor of the United States. These have carried the quotations as far down as $4.90 and kept them fluctuating mostly between that figure and $4.95.

With these payments at an end, the treasury will be faced with the problem of working the figure back to $5.05 or thereabouts. The question first to be decided is how quickly the change is to be made and whether the available funds is sufficient to bring it about.

Such a change would work two ways to provide markets and expansion for the industries of the United States. Weakening the dollar so that the pound is worth $4.95 to $5.05 would reduce by about 2 per cent the prices at which American manufacturers could sell their products abroad. Conversely, it would increase by 2 per cent the prices at which foreign producers could offer their output in America.

More Gold Coming.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—About $5,000,000 more gold has been purchased abroad in the last few days for shipment here. This brings to $207,000,000 the gold imported or engaged for import since Nov. 1. Imports of $1,750,100 gold were received today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a rally of seven points in the belga to 23.49 cents. The rise was attributed to official operations directed against the short interest which exists in the currency. Other gold-bloc currencies were stimulated by the action of the belga, but showed more restraint. The franc rose ¼ point to 6.60½ cents. The pound sterling held steady at $4.94¼.

At the closing price of the French franc the dollar was worth 59.32c, based on the old par of the franc, against 59.34c on Monday. Calculated on the new par of the franc, the dollar was valued at $1.0043, compared with $1.0047 on Monday.

NEW CHEVROLET OUTPUT STARTED AT FLINT PLANT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet Motor company, announced that production on the new 1935 models began today, the first cars rolling off the assembly line at the Flint plant. Within the next few days new models will be in production at nine assembly plants throughout the United States.

"It has never been a custom of Chevrolet to attempt a prediction of future business, but we have tentatively set our quota considerably higher than the 1934 figure of 675,000 units, at approximately 870,000 units.

"The master de luxe cars are entirely new in appearance and incorporate new features of streamlining. The new standard line, while not differing radically in appearance from its predecessor, has many improvements and refinements."

EFFORTS TO SETTLE SUGAR CORNER FAIL; UP TO NEW GROUP

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—An agreement on a price at which cornered sugar short sellers might pay up failed to materialize tonight when the entire controversy was thrown into the lap of the adjudication committee of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange by the board of managers after a futile 13 hour session.

A voluntary liquidation committee earlier in the day reported it had negotiated a few settlements at prices believed to range from 2.02 to 2.33 cents a pound.

A market impasse was caused when short sellers found they had promised to deliver in December about 30,000 tons of sugar with only about 8,000 tons available for delivery.

The loss to the shorts was caused by their failure to outguess Cuban sugar producers. Several months ago the Cuban government decreed sugar could be sold for the balance of the year only at a minimum price of 2.30 cents a pound. On Oct. 4 it was cut to 2.18½ cents, and it was agreed sugar could not be sold to speculators or market operators.

But speculative and commercial interests in New York guessed that the Cuban agreement would break down and allow deliveries of the thousands of tons of surplus sugar. They backed their guess with money by selling sugar short, or in other words agreed to deliver sugar in the late year month.

Observers in the market believe settlements will be made at the spot price, 2.08 cents a pound, plus a penalty of not more than 0.25 cents a pound for failure to deliver.

ROPER PREDICTS DEFINITE GAINS IN 1935 TRADE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—Definite acceleration in 1935 of business recovery, led by a "decided forward movement in the fundamental heavy goods industries next spring," was predicted today by Secretary Roper. He found the fall season just closed the best the country had experienced since 1929, and described the mental poise of the public as more satisfactory now than in that year.

Preliminary and scattered reports to the commerce department bore out early predictions that the volume of Christmas buying this year would set a five year record, Roper said. He called retail trade conditions this year "very satisfactory."

Roper felt that "these times carry assets as well as liabilities." The country was doing "more studying and understanding of conditions at home and abroad than has been the case at any time in my remembrance."

Reciprocal trade negotiations and merchant marine studies now under way will be this country's contribution to the restoration of world commerce, said the secretary. The shipping report, to be submitted to President Roosevelt by the time congress convenes, he described as the most important study of the subject ever made by this government. It will discuss outright subsidies to American shipping, as advocated in some administration quarters, as well as the general ideas that should influence merchant marine development in the United States.

Roper indicated that the business and advisory planning council, in forthcoming recommendations, would advocate work relief instead of direct cash.

Garfield Park Bank Pays Another 10% to Depositors

Payment of 10 per cent, or $421,000, to depositors of the closed Garfield Park State bank was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Barrett. The checks will be mailed today. This payment brings the total up to 40 per cent.

AUTO BUILDING BRINGS GAIN IN STEEL OUTPUT

Production Up Point to 36.5 Per Cent.

With automobile makers going ahead on production of new models the holiday interruption in steel operations was held to a minimum with the rate gaining a full point to 36½ per cent of capacity, according to Iron Age. A further advance is expected before the end of the year.

At the same time officials of steel companies operating in the Chicago district revealed that business here has shown a substantial improvement and present indications point to a gradual and steady increase during the coming year.

December output of motor cars is now estimated at 145,000 units, exceeding earlier estimates, while the Iron Age says January production will be the largest in five years. The total depends on how quickly steel and automobile parts can be made and delivered.

Bookings Heaviest Since June.

"Steel bookings from the motor car trade this month will be the largest since last June, when material was being stocked in anticipation of price advances," the review says. "Recent purchases include heavy tonnages from Ford for January needs, releases for 25,000 jobs from Oldsmobile and orders from Hupp for 2,000 cars.

"Machining departments in automotive plants and many parts manufacturers have gone on three 8-hour shifts to meet assembly line requirements. Steel mills are being pushed hard for deliveries. Industrial employment in Detroit has reached the highest level for this season since 1929."

Steel operations showed their third consecutive weekly increase at Detroit with a gain of 4 points to 66 per cent, while in the Cleveland-Lorain area there was a rise of 2 points to 56 per cent, and Buffalo one of 6 to 41, 1 to 26 in Philadelphia, and ½ to 37 in Chicago. Production rates in other centers are substantially unchanged.

Rise in Demand Continues.

The journal states that demand for iron and steel from farm equipment and tractor makers, as well as miscellaneous sources including shovel manufacturers, road machinery builders, stove plants, and electric refrigerator makers, continues to increase. One electric refrigerator plant has increased output from 1,100 to 1,500 units daily.

U. S. Power 'Yardsticks' Held Least Justified of Experiments

BY HOWARD WOOD.

In its move to carry to the floor of congress its battle against the spread of government competition with privately owned power and light companies, the American Federation of Utility Investors will probably have the endorsement of holders of utility stocks and bonds throughout the nation.

Of all the economic experiments undertaken by the New Dealers the building with taxpayers' money of power plants duplicating and competing with existing plants is probably the least justified.

Sponsors of schemes like the Tennessee Valley Authority and the proposed publicly owned electric generating plant in New York city present as their alibi the need for a "yardstick" to measure the fairness of the rates charged for electricity by the privately owned plants.

This is very much like planting a second apple tree a foot from a good producing tree in order to measure the quality and quantity of the fruit already being produced.

Why a "yardstick" should be needed—other than to produce political jobs—is hard for the investor to understand in view of the fact that public commissions already have the authority to examine the books and properties of operating utility companies and the power to lower their rates.

The same politicians who are demanding consolidation and coördination of railroads are urging diffusion of the public utility business. To be logical they would have to argue for the construction of new railroads with government cash paralleling existing lines in order to measure the fairness of the rates charged by the roads now operating.

One important fact that escapes the politician's argument is that the "yardstick" itself would reduce the ability of the company measured to operate profitably at existing rates and would force it to do one of two things—either charge higher rates to compensate for the business lost to the "yardstick" or go out of business.

The sponsors of government owned duplicate power plants reply weakly that they are not aiming at the destruction of operating utility plants, but are seeking to force the "water" out of the holding companies' stock. But the generating plants they propose to build compete not with holding companies but with operating plants.

If there is no "water" in the stock of an electric utility plant now, there will be after the government has built duplicate facilities and through its competition taken the profit out of the business.

With two plants competing where there is business enough for only one to operate profitably everybody is bound to lose except the politicians. The investor sees his securities depreciate. The taxpayer has to provide the funds to plug up deficits of the publicly owned plant. And the electricity user pays in higher rates for the doubtful privilege of having two plants to produce the energy that one plant can satisfactorily produce.

The scheme is too new to have produced figures to show the effect on the ordinary man's pocketbook, but a good idea of what happens when a government enters into competition with its own citizens is afforded by the case of the Canadian railroads, where the government owned lines have built up a tremendous debt by operating consistently at a loss and have impaired the earning ability of the efficiently operated privately owned lines, with the result that both systems have to charge high rates.

Among holders of securities, large and small, and among insurance policyholders there is no more pressing question today than this matter of government competition with utility companies, but these millions of American citizens have been so scattered and inarticulate that the specious reasoning of the economic planners has gone almost unchallenged.

FOOD INDEX RISES 5 CTS. TO HIGHEST MARK SINCE 1930

A sharp rally brought Dun & Bradstreet's weekly food index to $2.52 for the period ended Dec. 25, the highest point since 1930. The gain was 5 cents from the preceding week. At the same time last year the index stood at $1.92. In 1932 it was $1.64, and in 1931 $1.95.

Advances in the weekly compilation of wholesale prices prepared totaled twenty last week against fifteen declines. In the preceding week there were twenty-seven gains and twenty-two declines.

U.S. COLD STORAGE VOTES DIVIDEND ON ARREARAGE

Directors of the United States Cold Storage corporation yesterday declared a dividend of $3.50 a share on accumulations of the preferred stock, the first payment on the stock since Sept. 30, 1932. After this disbursement arrears will amount to seven quarterly payments, or $12.25. Estimated net earnings for 1934 are the best in the history of the company and its subsidiaries, an official statement said.

Gen. Development company declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock. This is the first disbursement since 25 cents was paid June 30, 1930.

ECCLES DENIES BANK INTEREST CUT IS ILLEGAL

Explains That FDIC Acted 'Separately.'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, tonight officially denied the recent allegation of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] that its order reducing deposit interest rates of member banks was illegal.

Glass, in a letter to Charles S. Hamlin, member of the reserve board, asserted that the federal reserve board and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation had "usurped" the power of congress by including nonmember state banks in the interest reducing order.

Eccles said the action was taken in accordance with the provision of the banking act of 1933, which required the reserve board from time to time to "limit by regulation the rate of interest which may be paid by member banks on time deposits."

Precedent for Action.

A precedent for the action, he said, was established on Aug. 29, 1933. He said the board has never assumed it had authority over nonmember bank rates, but said inclusion of the FDIC action in the board's report was made only after he had been advised that directors of the FDIC had taken such action.

Eccles also replied to reports that the board's action was taken jointly with the FDIC declaring that the similar actions by the two agencies were taken "separately, not jointly."

The board announced on Dec. 17 that the maximum interest that might be paid on time and savings deposits by member banks had been cut from 3 to 2½ per cent, effective Feb. 1, 1935. The statement said that the FDIC had made a corresponding cut.

Position of Crowley.

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the FDIC, was represented as not desiring to be drawn into controversy. He was described as feeling that the inception of the rate reduction order came more than a year before he was associated with the FDIC, when the corporation adopted a resolution reducing the interest rate.

Glass, former treasurer secretary, had bitter words in his letter condemning the rate cut action. "I think," he wrote, "that the sooner Washington is rid of impatient academicians whose threatening manifestos and decrees keep business and banks in suspense the sooner will we have a more complete restoration of confidence and resumption of business."

UTILITY SHARES CARRY STOCK PRICES LOWER

Dribbling Liquidation Curbs Speculation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 26.—Public utility stocks continued to act as a drag on the share market today. Dribbling sales kept the group down all day, and other sectors felt the inducence more or less. Losses of from a fraction to a point or so were the rule for the list as a whole.

Trading generally lacked enthusiasm, a phenomenon due in part to the abasance of so many of the speculative fraternity from their posts. Volume amounted to only 1,045,765 shares. A rough survey of the situation just before Christmas indicated that a good half of the brokers and professional traders of the district expected to take advantage of the current market dullness to give themselves a midwinter vacation this week.

Power Stockholders Gloomy.

As expected the curtailed haul of news brought forth little that could be rated as a market factor. A restatement of the administration's stand on public competition with or control of private electric companies was received rather gloomily, particularly by the holders of shares most directly in the line of fire. The display of increased bearishness forced some prominent members of the group to new low prices. American Telephone sold down about two points to come within a point of its year's low, and losses of a point or so were sustained by Public Service of New Jersey, American Water Works, and Consolidated Gas. Brooklyn Union gave up nearly two points and Laclede Gas three.

Some fresh murmurs about the boardrooms on the subject of inflation and the contemplated heavy federal expenditures of the make-work sort gave the metals a mild fillip, but not all the beneficiaries were able to hold their early gains to the end.

Steel, Auto Shares Rise.

Further improvement in the steel industry braced both the steel and motor groups to some degree against such selling as came their way. General Motors scored a small advance in face of the general retreat and the losses of such issues as Chrysler, U. S. Steel, and Bethlehem amounted to no more than small fractions. Shares of farm implement makers also held their own on reports that some of the steel orders are originating in that industry. Deere advanced more than a point.

American Can was a reactionary member of the industrial division, selling off 2 points on selling which was rather heavy at intervals.

Much of the day's trading was believed to be for evening up purposes. Tax selling continued to dribble into the market, only two days remaining in which this type of liquidation could be effected in the regular manner, after which the transactions will have to be on a cash basis.

CONSOLIDATED GAS MAY DEFER COMMONDIVIDEND

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Directors of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, it was learned today, may decide to defer action on the quarterly dividend ordinarily voted at this time on the common stock.

Such a move would be contrary to usual practice followed in the last four or five years of voting the first dividend for the ensuing year at the December meeting, though the board could readily act at the January meeting.

Action of the common stock, which today broke 1⅝ points to a new all-time low, indicated the widespread uncertainty among investors and speculators relative to the outcome of the meeting tomorrow. The company has reduced its dividend rate twice in the last eighteen months, the current $2 payment having been established last June, when the quarterly disbursement was lowered from 75 to 50 cents a share.

NEW INSURANCE CODE EXPECTED TO BRING CLASH

Palmer's Proposed Laws Studied by Companies.

Sharp differences are expected to arise during the forthcoming hearings on the proposed new Illinois insurance laws as practically every company operating in the state will be affected in some way, according to opinions expressed yesterday in insurance circles. The code was prepared under the direction of Ernest Palmer, state insurance director.

One group maintains that the old statutes, which would be repealed, adequately take care of the situation as they are backed by legal decisions and opinions given over many years. This group contends it would take at least ten years to establish a new set of decisions and opinions in connection with litigation which would be certain to arise under the proposed changes.

Behrens Approves Code.

On the other hand one of the leading figures in the Chicago insurance field, H. A. Behrens, president of the Continental Assurance company and the Continental Casualty company, asserted that the proposed code was a constructive piece of work.

"The code is the best first draft I have ever seen in any state," Mr. Behrens said. "Of course in such a lengthy document a few things will have to be corrected. All this will come out at the hearings. I believe that Mr. Palmer has done an especially fine job."

Fire and casualty companies are particularly interested in the code because of the rate control provision and it is said that a large part of the objections to the document is centered in this group. Those objecting to the provision say they fear the political element in state rate control and declare that while it is easy to get rates down, it would be difficult to get them increased if needed. Those favoring the provision say rate control has worked satisfactorily in some states, such as New York.

Views on Licensing.

The provision requiring all companies doing business in the state to be licensed and banning them if they do any business on an unlicensed basis, while generally upheld, was said to work a hardship in a few instances. One case cited was a company that provides fire insurance for a large corporation with plants in all parts of the country. Although it might insure only one plant in a given state for the company whose business it handles, under the code it would have to take out a state license for the single operation, an expensive operation.

About fifteen states are reported working on insurance codes, either developing new ones or revamping old ones. In addition the legislatures of more than forty states are expected to meet, with the possibility of their taking some action on insurance matters. Overhanging all is the possibility that congress at its forthcoming session will enact legislation with respect to insurance.

New York, Dec. 26.—The post-holiday market for bonds was comparatively quiet, with prices moving irregularly lower. Total trading amounted to $11,457,000, against $9,043,000.

Final prices for issues of the government group were generally 1-32 to 7-32 point lower, with the exception of the comparatively inactive first-second Liberty 4¼s, which rose 14-32, and federal farm mortgage 3¼s, which gained 3-32.

Group Averages Lower.

All groups of domestic corporation bonds averaged lower, the industrials, utilities and rails moving lower in the order named. However, a few issues managed gains of a point or more, but as a rule these were the infrequently traded issues. The principal losers on the day were chiefly the more speculative issues.

Foreign List Weakens.

Foreign loans were irregularly lower in light trading, with the various obligations of one country frequently failing to move in unison. A few of the German issues, which were up a point or more, and about as many others down the same amount, with the government loans changing within narrow limits. Australian loans were firm in fairly active trading. Most of the net changes in the Latin American list were slight.

Standard(Ind.)Unit Brings in New Oil Well in Texas

Stanolind Oil and Gas company, subsidiary of the Standard Oil of Indiana, has brought in a well in Brazoria county, Texas, that produces 125 barrels of 38 gravity oil daily from a depth of 6,000 feet, along with an estimated gas flow of 3,000,000 cubic feet, it was announced yesterday. The Stanolind company controls a block of 2,200 acres surrounding the new well, with the producer in the center of the block.

Florida East Coast Railway.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information on Florida East Coast bonds.—B. J. J.

Answer: The troubles of the Florida East Coast railway can be traced back to the collapse of the Florida land boom in 1926. That year marked the peak trafic load on the road. The company found itself hard pressed to handle the business and therefore double tracked 300 miles of line; substituted 90 pound rail for 70 pound rail, constructed 100 miles of new road and invested heavily in equipment. In addition, Seaboard Air Line railway has encroached somewhat on the road's territory.

On the heels of the land boom deflation came the international depression. As a consequence operating revenues in 1933 shrank to $6,694,000 from $29,427,000 in 1926. The road could not stand the strain of diminishing revenues and was placed in receivership on Sept. 1, 1931.

Some improvement has been evidenced in 1934. Gross for the first nine months increased about 13 per cent over the corresponding 1933 period, and the road earned about one-sixth of fixed charges, against one-sixteenth in the first nine months of 1933.

The company failed to earn anything before fixed charges in 1933 or in 1932. In 1931 24 per cent of charges was earned, against 37 per cent in 1930 and 57 per cent in 1929.

Current assets on Sept. 30, 1934, amounted to $3,473,000 in contrast to current liabilities of $10,870,000. The $12,000,000 first mortgage 4½s, due 1959, are preceded by $4,353,000 equipment trust certificates, but are senior to $45,000,000 first and refunding 5s, due 1974. There are also $627,000 receiver's certificates outstanding.

Apparently the funded debt will have to be scaled down considerably when a reorganization takes place, because it is difficult to visualize earnings approaching the 1924-'26 period sufficient to support the present debt structure.

Results in 1934 indicate that some improvement can be hoped for with increased business activity, but new factors of competition, such as boat, bus, and truck lines, which have been intensified by improved highways and harbors, should be taken into consideration.

Union Gulf 5s, 1950.

Investors' Guide: Do you consider Union Gulf corporation 5s of 1950 a sound investment?—A. J. F.

Answer: The entire issue has been called for payment on Jan. 1, 1935.

TWO SUBURBS PLAN TO ENLARGE PLAYGROUNDS

Evanston, Glencoe Get Sites for Projects.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans for the enlargement of recreational facilities in two north shore suburbs—Evanston and Glencoe—were made public yesterday as a result of the acquirement of land adjoining schools in those suburbs.

In Evanston the property of Everitt S. Hotchkiss, an old time resident of that city, at 1015 Elmwood avenue, was purchased for an extension of playground space at the Nichols Intermediate and Junior High school. School districts No. 75 and 76 paid $10,000 for the lot, 100x167 feet, improved with an old ten frame residence, which Mr. Hotchkiss will continue to occupy until May 1. The house then will be tofn down and the land used by the school, which occupies a block of frontage on Greenleaf street, between Sherman and Elmwood avenues.

Boards Trade Property.

As a step in a comprehensive development plan now under way by the park and school boards of Glencoe, those two bodies yesterday traded two parcels of land. The Glencoe Park district conveyed to School district No. 35, a lot 400x150 just west of the South school for use as an extension of its playground.

In return the school board has conveyed to the park board title to a parcel of about the same size just south of and adjoining the school which is being developed as a wild flower sanctuary and nature classroom. The park will operate the property but it will be primarily of use to the school in its nature curriculum. This trade is in line with the school board's plan to provide large play areas for all Glencoe schools. The South school is at Linden and Jackson avenues.

U. S. Buys Postal Site.

The United States government yesterday took title to the northwest corner of Cottage Grove avenue and East 78th street, as a site for the proposed new Grand Crossing postal station. The property was acquired in two parcels.

From Theresa M. Boyle the government purchased 99x125 feet on the corner for an indicated $10,000. Adjoining this on the north a parcel 25x125 was bought from Grace Kurth for $6,500, according to the county records. Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen said details as to size and cost of the new station are not yet county.

HIGHER TAX RATE OFFSET BY DROP IN VALUATIONS

Cicero Levy Is $85.90; Leads Nation.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A slight increase in the average tax rate of leading cities of the United States and Canada in 1934 was offset by a reduction in assessed valuations, according to C. E. Rightor, director of the Atlantic City survey commission, in his thirteenth compilation of comparative tax rates. A total of 261 communities having populations of over 30,000 are included in the study.

The range per $1,000 of assessed valuation is from $85.90 for Cicero, Ill., to $15 for Washington, D. C. For cities of populations over 500,000 the range is from $77.30 for Chicago to $26.70 for Baltimore; for cities of 300,000 to 500,000, the range is from $50 for Portland, Ore., to $15 for Washington, D. C.

Range in Costs Wide.

For cities of 100,000 to 300,000, the range is from $60.30 for San Diego to $19.40 for Columbus, O.; for cities of 50,000 to 100,000, the range is from $85.90 for Cicero, Ill., to $16.50 for Greensboro, N. C., and for cities of 30,000 to 50,000 the range is from $64.75 for Joliet, Mich., to $16.10 for Newark, O.

These figures include taxation for city, school, county, and state purposes. That of New York City is given as $27.20.

This report says that limiting the comparison to 234 cities which reported this year and last the average for 1934 is $34.49, compared with $34.14 in 1933, an increase of 35 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Of the 234 comparable cities 217 in the United States show an increase from $34.30 to $34.56, or 26 cents, and of the 17 Canadian cities a gain of from $32.21 to $33.63, or $1.42.

Per Capita Assessment $1,500.

The per capita assessment for the United States is $1,500, and for Canada $1,210. Rightor points out that for the first ten cities in each of the five census groups, the assessments are lower than in 1930 in forty-five of the fifty cities. In twenty-four of the cities, the 1934 total tax rate is lower than for 1930.

"This downward trend gives rise to the thought that property taxes are reaching a level that will assure local governments of a more certain yield with less delinquency occurring," Mr. Rightor concludes.

EGGS ADVANCE SHARPLY; BUTTER CLOSES IRREGULAR

Egg futures advanced sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing with a net advance of ⅜ cent per dozen, due largely to weather conditions. Butter was ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent per pound higher.

Eggs opened ½ cent higher, with shorts covering heavily. The rise brought profit taking, however, and the market dropped back near midsession. New buying gained strength toward the close and the market started working up again.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil futures today advanced to new high levels for the year, closing at net gains of 28 to 32 points. Sales were 250 contracts, almost a record total, and this included 70 contracts in the way of switches.

The west, south and houses with important Wall street connections were large buyers. Realizing sales were easily absorbed. Bleachable spot nominal; December closed 10.51c per lb; January, 10.58c; March, 10.50c; May, 10.63c; July, 10.72c.

METALS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP)—COPPER—Quiet. Electrolytic, spot and future, Blue Eagle, 9.00c per lb. TIN—Steady; spot and nearby and future, 50.85c per lb. IRON—Quiet, unchanged. LEAD—Steady; spot, New York, 3.70c per lb; East St. Louis, 3.55c. ZINC—Dull; East St. Louis, spot and future, 3.72½@3.75c per lb. ALUMINUM—19.00@22.00c per lb. ANTIMONY—Spot, 14.00c per lb. STEEL—Prices unchanged.

COTTON UNDERTONE EASIER; LOSSES OF 2 TO 11 POINTS

Scattered liquidation by holders of January cotton contracts and some selling attributed to government agencies gave the market an easier undertone yesterday. At no time was there aggressive buying and the finish was around the low point with Chicago showing net losses of 3 to 10 points while other markets were 2 to 11 points lower. Liverpool was closed. Spot cotton dropped 5 to 10 points with New Orleans, New York, Galveston and Houston, 12.75 cents per pound. Prices follow:

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the Board of Education of Fractional Thornton Township High School District No. 215, Cook County, Illinois, will receive sealed bids up to 7:30 o'clock, P. M., on 22d day of January, 1935, at the office of said Board of Education, in the Wentworth School Building, 153d Street and Wentworth Avenue, Calumet City, Illinois, for the construction and equipment of a High School Building, in accordance with the plans and specifications now on file in the office of said Board of Education, which constitutes P. W. A. Project No. 9072.

Bids shall be submitted for the following, and all proposals must be made on blank forms that will be supplied by the architect:
General Construction, as a whole, as indicated by items No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6; or Item 1—General Work.
Item 2—Structural, Ornamental and Miscellaneous Steel and Iron.
Item 3—Electrical Work.
Item 4—Plumbing, Sewering and Gas Fitting.
Item 5—Heating and Ventilating.
Item 6—Temperature Regulation.
Item 7—Woodworking Machinery.
Item 8—Picture Booth and Stage Equipment.
Item 9—Laundry Room Equipment.
Item 10—Window Shades.
Item 11—Cafeteria Equipment.
Item 13—Teachers' Desks and Chairs; General Office and Library Furniture.
Item 14—Pupils' Desks, Seats and Chairs; Folding Chairs.

Plans and specifications may be obtained from W. S. Hutton, Architect, 3231 Hohman Avenue, Hammond, Indiana, upon the deposit of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars cash or check made payable to W. S. Hutton. Said deposit to serve as a guarantee and will be forfeited as liquidated damages if a bid is not submitted for the work or for failure to return the drawing and specifications to the office of the Architect, without marks, notes or other mutilations, by the day following the date set for opening of bids.

Each bid must be accompanied with a Cashier's check [Bidder's Bond will not be accepted], payable to the order of Board of Education, Fractional Thornton Township High School, District No. 215, for the sum of five per cent (5%) of such proposal, upon condition that if bid is accepted a contract will be entered into by the bidder and said bidder shall properly secure the performance of said contract with an approved surety bond in the sum of the full amount of the contract price, guaranteeing the proper fulfillment of the contract. No bid will be considered that does not comply with the above.

All work must be carried out in accordance with P. W. A. regulations and comply with conditions set forth in Bulletin No. 2 issued by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, and revised on March 13, 1934. The minimum wage to be paid shall be the sum of $1.20 for skilled labor, and $0.50 for unskilled labor.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish surety bond in the full amount of his or their contracts within ten days after he or they are notified by the Owner and the P. W. A. State Engineer of the award of the contract.

Without exception, no bid will be considered unless accompanied by the bidder's certificate of Compliance, U. S. Government Form No. W. A. 4, Revised March, 1934, to the effect that the bidder is complying with and will continue to comply with the Labor Standards Code of Fair Competition, or, in the absence of such Code or Codes, with the President's Reemployment Agreement. Copies of this Certificate will be included with the "Instructions to Bidders."

The Board of Education reserves the right to waive any informality in and to reject any and/or all proposals.
